NATION'S CHIEF.

PRESIDENT ON TRIP.

Leaves Capital for Western Jaunt.

Today He Speaks at McKinley Monument Dedication in Canton.

Seventy-five Thousand Visitors Are Expected to Be Present.

St. Louis Makes Great Preparations for Visit of Chief Executive.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Roosevelt left here tonight at 7:41 in a special train over the Pennsylvania Railway on his western and southern trip.

Accompanying him were Secretary Loeb, who goes as far as Keokuk, Iowa; Assistant Secretary Latta, T. H. Netherland, Surgeon-General Rixey, U. S. N., Secretaries Wilson and Garfield, who go as far as Canton, O.; representatives of three press associations and a photographer.

Dr. Alexander Lambert, the President's family physician; John M. Parker and John A. McIlhenney, civil service commissioner, whose guest the President will be on the hunting trip in Louisiana, will join the party in the South.

The first stop will be at Canton, tomorrow morning, where the President is to deliver an address at the dedication of the McKinley monument. From Canton the party will leave in the afternoon for Keokuk, Iowa, which will be the starting point of the President's trip down the Mississippi, as the guest of the Inland Waterways [illegible] of these stops at Keokuk, on Tuesday, Wednesday he will speak at St. Louis, Thursday at Cairo, and Friday at Memphis, from which point the start for the canebrakes of Louisiana will be made.

On the return trip to Washington, where he is due October 23, he will deliver addresses at Vicksburg and Nashville.

CANTON PREPARES TO ENTERTAIN MULTITUDE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CANTON (O.) Sept. 29.—Canton expects 75,000 visitors tomorrow when the President of the United States and many other distinguished persons will be present to participate in and witness the dedication of the McKinley monument.

Ample preparations have been made to feed the multitude, and every opportunity in accordance with the ceremony will be given visitors to see the parade.

The railroads operating lines in this city announce that more than fifty special trains will be run, carrying United States infantry and cavalry, Ohio National Guardsmen, civic organizations and citizens who come in groups and singly from all parts of the nation.

Word has been received that all the trustees of the McKinley National Memorial Association will be present. The Vice-President, members of the President's Cabinet, United States Senators, Congressmen, governors of States, representatives of foreign governments and other notables will also be here.

To accommodate the throng of strangers, numerous reviewing stands have been erected, and abundant space free to all will be afforded along the line of march.

The city is elaborately decorated. There will be a cordon of military drawn with tight lines along the line of march around the reviewing stand, to be occupied by the President and around the mausoleum on Monument Hill. The line of march has been roped off for several miles.

ST. LOUIS READY FOR BIG RECEPTION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The city is ablaze tonight with 80,000 multi-colored lights, ready for the reception of President Roosevelt, twenty-three governors, one hundred United States Senators and Congressmen, two hundred more officials of many States, the Inland Waterways Commission, one hundred or more thousands of visitors and is prepared for the most extensive month's entertainment ever presented by any American city.

The festivities will be inaugurated with a carnival that will continue throughout the week, the main feature of which will be the Mystic Veiled Prophets parade, three miles in length, Tuesday night, representing in floats and otherwise mythological and historical scenes and characters, to be viewed from the balconies of the Southern and Planters hotels.

Later at night the governors will be guests of honor at the brilliant Veiled Prophets, for more than half a century the leading social feature of this section of the Mississippi Valley.

The next day President Roosevelt will arrive, and he will be saluted by every steamboat and tug in the harbor, while every whistle in St. Louis will blow for three minutes. Then three thousand persons will sing a parody on "Dixie," entitled "Dig Her Deep Through Dixie."

The river pageant accompanying President Roosevelt into the harbor upon his arrival from Keokuk and on down to Memphis, will be the most novel and extensive ever gotten together on any inland waterway in the world, as a demonstration for the deep waterway. Hundreds of boats will join the pageant from Keokuk at the mouth of the Missouri River, forty miles north of St. Louis. All the boats will be splendidly decorated and accompanied by five bands, one of each playing continuously.

The great fleet will be met at Olive street, and a procession of fifteen thousand, including troops of cavalry, will march five miles to the World's Fair grounds, where the President will speak. Luncheon and inspection of the boats in the harbor and a great water carnival, including races, maneuvers and other aquatic sports, will follow.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon Wednesday, the President, the governors, 2000 delegates of the inland waterways commission, and others, will start for Memphis. The President will ride on the boat Mississippi. The great steamboat will be a literal floating water wagon, for not a drop of liquor will be allowed on board. However, the other boats will be well stocked, it is said, and the governors, Senators and Congressmen need not go thirsty. Two days will be required to complete the trip to Memphis. Similar demonstrations will be held at Memphis as here. As the fleet, four miles in length, departs, three thousand trained voices will sing "Fourteen Feet Through the Valley."

On Saturday, October 5, the Million Population Club, manufacturers and business interests will parade through the important downtown streets. There will be 150 floats in the parade.

The international balloon races will begin October 21, and continue for five days. Twelve foreign countries will be represented. St. Louis, Philadelphia and New York will represent the United States. Every kind of aerial craft will participate in the races and tests. The aeronauts will include army experts, professional and amateur. There are thousands in prizes, and the James Gordon Bennett Cup is at stake.

The carnival features will be interspersed throughout the month. The illumination features are, perhaps, unparalleled.

MEMPHIS PLANS A DEMONSTRATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEMPHIS (Tenn.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When President Roosevelt and a flotilla of 200 or more river craft steam into sight of Chickasaw Bluffs on the afternoon of October 4, he will be greeted by the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of southerners that was ever congregated together. Conspicuous in the crowd will be Gen. Luke E. Wright, [illegible] ...ader to [illegible] ...d from [illegible] ...other woman. ...the little hand, ...drew the child toward her, and the sobbing ceased.

The two women met for the first time a few hours before their arrival at the mortuary.

They were introduced in a fashionable hotel near Fifth avenue. It was agreed that they should go together to the mortuary and agree there as to the disposition of the body.

One wife, who lives in Hartford, Ct., wore mourning. She was left alone with her grief in the mortuary and was disconsolate when it became necessary to take the last look at the casket. She resigned the body without opposition.

It was agreed to send the body to Indianapolis where Smelzer's relatives live.

Smelzer took apartments in a boarding house in Newark last March and his companion was known as "Mrs. Smelzer."

It is understood in the house that the couple were married about two years ago in a little town in Ohio and that the Newark wife had no knowledge of a Mrs. Smelzer living in Hartford. It is said that Smelzer gave the Hartford woman to understand that he was a widower and she married him in this belief.

NAVAL SECRET IS IMPORTANT.

New Explosive May Compel Radical Change in Constructing Warships.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After a series of tests at Sandy Hook and Indian Harbor, extending over a period of ten days, and concluded on Friday, the feasibility of employing large charges of high explosives in armor-piercing shells, equipped with slow fuses, has been demonstrated.

The navy has adopted a new brand of high explosives, made under a secret formula, which is designed for use in exploding shells behind the armor of the ship of an enemy. The success of the tests is regarded as a matter of highest importance.

The general adoption by the leading navies of the world of this principle will result in compelling radical changes in the construction of warships.

The Navy and War Departments are guarding with the greatest care the news of trials of high explosives in shells.

SIGNOR TOSELLI COMING.

Singer Who Married Countess Montignosso Will Make Tour of United States.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

FLORENCE, Sept. 29.—Enrico Toselli, who last week married Countess Montignosso in London, in an interview today confirmed the reports that it was his intention to make an American tour as a singer, but he declined to give any details concerning it.

He protested energetically against the rumor that his wife is in a delicate condition. He declared that she would defend her rights as a mother for the care of her daughter, Princess Anne Monica Pia.

Later, after a conference between an advocate, acting as intermediary for King Frederick Augustus of Saxony, father of the Princess and the Countess, Toselli declined to say whether his wife intended to keep the child at all hazards or if the allowance made her by the Saxon court would be cut off if she does not surrender the child.

Two Women, One from Newark, N. J., and One from Hartford, Learn of Deception Alleged to Have Been Practiced by New Jersey Man, Who "Married" Both of Them.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two women went to the undertaking shop of Boyd & Mulcahy today. In the mortuary lay the body of Luther W. Smelzer of Newark, N. J., who was killed Saturday in the automobile race at Morris Park.

One of the women bent over the coffin and sobbed for "Luther."

Harrisburg Prosecutors Confident.

Only Eleven Witnesses to Testify, but These Are All Experts.

Actual Costs and Values to Be Shown Up by Men Posted on Construction.

Expect to Indict Fourteen on Thirty-two Counts Against Them.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HARRISBURG (Pa.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] So confident are the lawyers for the prosecution in the State Capitol graft cases of having the fourteen defendants indicted on the thirty-two counts against them by the Dauphin county grand jury this week that they have subpoenaed only eleven witnesses.

Much of the evidence to be submitted to the grand jury will be documentary.

EXPERTS SUMMONED.

These witnesses are experts on the "trimmings" supplied for the Capitol by the Pennypacker Board of Public Grounds and Buildings at a cost to the State of $2,000,000, and were among the important witnesses before the investigation commission. They are Harry S. Calvert of Pittsburgh, secretary of the investigation commission, who is assisting in the prosecution; Samuel E. Rambo, Superintendent of Public [illegible] and Buildings and superintendent [illegible] & Co., [illegible] $759,473.14 from the State; F. H. Potter, representative of the Audit Company of New York, which turned up much of the fraud in the contracts and accounts of the trimmers; Lesley McReath of Harrisburg, who made the chemical tests of the $2,000,000 fake "mercurial gold finish" and bronze chandeliers supplied by Sanderson; Charles D. Montague of New York, who measured and tested the $2,000,000 steel filing cases supplied by Congressman H. Burd Cassell's Pennsylvania Construction Company; Edmond W. Bureau of Philadelphia, the bronze expert, who exposed the numerous defects in the material and construction of the lighting fixtures; E. P. Eberts, executive officer of the Phoenix Glass Company of Pittsburgh, which supplied to Sanderson the "baccarat" glass for $27,329.91, for which Sanderson collected $133,770.93 from the State; Robert Scott, H. Weiderhold and B. Frank Royer of Philadelphia, sub-contractors under I. Payne for the $302,000 attic job, for which work he collected fictitious sums from the State.

EXHIBITS COLLECTED.

Many of the exhibits used by the investigation commission will be submitted to the grand jury to substantiate the allegations to the indictments

ON THE BOOM.

GROCER BILLS GETTING HIGH.

PURE FOOD LAW RAISES PRICE OF CANNED GOODS.

Scarcity of Vegetables, Except on the Pacific Coast, Causes Those Commodities Also to Jump Up. Dairy Products and Dried Fruits Help Increase Culinary Costs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Housewives will find their grocers' and butchers' bills increased 30 per cent. over last year's prices, according to estimates of dealers, who has their figures on present conditions.

Fruits, vegetables, milk, butter, eggs, meat, bread and canned goods will all demand higher prices, it is said, while the chief reason given is a "wayward market."

To the door of the pure-food law is placed the blame that many articles formerly prepared with cheap adulterations and preservatives are kept from the market.

Fruit and vegetable crops have been short in all sections of the country, with the exception of the Pacific Coast. Wages paid in the cities are said to have drained the country of labor in some sections so that crops could not be properly handled.

The price of milk paid by the dealer to the farmer has been raised twice in the month of September. Due to a short supply, butter advanced last week until yesterday jobbers were forced to pay 29½ cents for the best grades.

Cream cheese was sold during the week at 14½ cents per pound, while yesterday eggs reached a wholesale price of 23 cents per dozen.

The greatest shock dealt the family provider will come when the purchase of canned goods and dried fruits is made. These commodities have risen steadily during the past three years, but during the present season a sharp increase of 20 per cent. has been made.

MAY CHARGE KIDNAPING.

Fremont Older Returns to Bay City and May Seek Indictment of Brown and Others.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Fremont Older, who was arrested in this city Friday night, on a charge of criminal libel sworn out by Luther Brown in Los Angeles, and who was taken from the arresting officers at Santa Barbara on a writ of habeas corpus and released by Judge Crow on a $2000 bond, returned to this city today.

It is stated that it is the intention of Older and friends to try to secure the indictment by the grand jury of Brown and others concerned in his arrest on the charge of kidnaping and conspiracy.

AMONG THE CLOUDS.

NOTED AERONAUTS ON WAY TO ST. LOUIS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Balloon week in St. Louis, commencing Monday, October 21, will be the greatest in the history of aerial navigation.

Besides the twelve ordinary balloons which will represent four countries in the James Gordon Bennett cup contest, there will be airships of every description displayed during the six days of the meeting.

The contests for dirigible balloons, aeroplanes and gasoline flying machines are still open. Each day more entrants are being listed in each class. From present indications the greatest collection of airships ever gathered together will be seen here.

The St. Louis Aero Club has offered valuable trophies in each class, most of them being money prizes, ranging from $2500 to $5000. Every aerial navigator in the United States has agreed to be here. Applications from the most noted foreign areonauts are arriving every day.

Secretary J. Kearney has received the application of H. C. Tammeter, a prominent mechanical engineer and business man of Cleveland, O. He will sail the latest device known. It is called the Orthoroptor, and it will be entered in the gasoline flying machine class.

LEBAUDY AIRSHIP ENTERED.

Five entries in the dirigible balloon races have been reserved and four more applications are to be decided upon. One of these is the celebrated Lebaudy airship, to be sailed under the supervision of the French war department.

The German entrants sailed on the Kron Prinz Wilhelm, September 24 from Bremen, and will come direct to this city after arriving in New York. The French representatives will leave Havre October 6, aboard La Touraine.

The British contingent will sail on the Lusitania, October 8. Cortland Field Bishop, the representative of the Aero Club, of America, of New York, will sail from Havre, October 8. He has been abroad studying aeronautics to perfect arrangements for the contests in St. Louis.

Lieut. F. P. Lahm, the winner of the James Gordon Bennett cup last year, and entered as one of the American contestants this year, left Havre on the Provence yesterday. Mr. Lahm has been ill and it is doubtful if he will contest. Maj. Hersey, a member of the Wellman airship party, has been named as alternate.

THREE NOTED AERONAUTS.

The German representatives are Baron Hugh Von Abercron, who will pilot the Dusseldorf; Oscar Erbsleh, who will pilot the Porpaeron, and Paul Meckel, who will direct the Posen. Each is a noted aeronaut. Baron Hugo Von Abercron has made ninety trips and was in the James Gordon Bennett cup race last year.

Oscar Erbsleh has won several international balloon contests. September 15 he started from Brussels under the auspices of the international aeronautic congress with thirty-two other contestants and landed at Bayonne, France, covering a distance of 620 miles. He remained in the air for thirty hours. The distance was 218 miles more than that covered by Lieut. Lahm when he won the cup last year. Erbsleh has made thirty ascensions.

Paul Meckel, who will pilot the Posen, is a silk manufacturer of Elberfell, Germany. He was the first balloon pilot to cross the Alps. Last June he won the contest from Dusseldorff in the balloon Essen, it being the smallest balloon among twenty starters. Accompanying the German representatives will be two of the oldest aeronauts in point of experience in the world—Col. Herman W. L. Moedebeck and Capt. A. Hilderbrandt. Capt. Hilderbrandt has made 100 flights. He sailed from Berlin on the last ascension and crossed the Baltic Sea.

Taft and Terauchi in Close Council.

Belief Prevails Plan Is on for Amicable Immigration Arrangements.

American Secretary of War Receives Many Dignitaries in Shiba Palace.

Crowds Greet Him With Numerous Cries of "Banzai" as Peace Envoy.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOKIO, Sept. 29.—Preliminary to three days of social and diplomatic activity, Secretary Taft and party spent a quiet day resting in the palace of Shiba, an ancient and picturesque residence belonging to the imperial family.

During the day, numerous dignitaries and officials called upon the Secretary. Among the more important of the callers was Lieut.-Gen. Terauchi, the Imperial Minister of War, who had a lengthy conference with Taft.

Some importance is being attached to the fact that there have been two private conferences between the two War Ministers, and it is believed in certain quarters that the ground work is being laid for an entente concerning immigration, but both Secretaries are silent.

Another of Taft's callers today was Lobbets Wilsley, representing American commercial interests in Shanghai, who is anxious concerning the attitude of the United States in view of the talk of the dismemberment of China, and who came here to request that Taft make a positive statement concerning this on the occasion of the dinner to be given in his honor by the American Association of Shanghai.

SECRETARY DECLINES.

It is understood that Wilsley was informed that Secretary Taft would make no statement on the question.

Secretary Taft and his family took a long drive in the imperial carriage this afternoon. The route which the carriage would take had not been announced, but the crowds in the streets recognized the American Secretary of War and greeted him with cries of "Banzai" and bows and smiles.

It is very evident that the enthusiasm was spontaneous. The Japanese believe Taft is a peace envoy.

REASSURES NATIVES.

Secretary Taft arrived at Yokohama yesterday and has already contributed much toward reassuring the Japanese about the feeling toward them in America.

Thomas J. O'Brien, the new American Ambassador, who arrived with Taft, did not fail to do his part in the creation of a better feeling between the two countries.

The Hochi Shimbun published this evening a half-tone picture of the Secretary landing at Yokohama and an interview in which Taft is quoted as saying "America and Japan always will be friends. The necessity for arms in trade is something we do not recognize.

"I speak as Secretary of War of America and also as the secretary of peace."

The newspapers tomorrow will publish similar interviews as well as lengthy editorials welcoming Taft as the representative of America and the friend of Japan.

The programme for the entertainment of the Secretary was changed at a late hour yesterday and all of the arrangements made by the Navy Department and the Committee of the Imperial Household will be subjected to the new plan.

According to the express desire of the Emperor, Secretary Taft will be received in audience and entertained at luncheon Wednesday.

Popular Pastor of Indiana Church Found Guilty of "Osculating" Against Woman's Will.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (Ind.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. John Royer, a popular pastor of Switzerland county, was tried today by a committee of nineteen Methodist ministers on charges of kissing a member of his flock against her will, and was suspended from the ministry for one year.

The trial of Rev. Royer was kept a profound secret. The charges were preferred by the presiding elder of the circuit and were prosecuted by members of the defendant's church.

Brilliant Gathering in Berlin at Close of Congress of Hygiene, to Meet in Washington.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—There was a brilliant assemblage in the Reichstag today for the final sitting of the international congress of hygiene and demography.

The congress adopted the conclusions reached by the various sections of the meeting, and these will be printed and distributed throughout the world. A resolution accepting a cordial invitation from the United States to hold the next congress in 1910 at Washington was adopted unanimously amid loud applause.

IDAHO LAND FRAUDS.

BORAH JUROR IS TAKEN ILL.

Sickness May Delay Trial of United States Senator.

Report That Miners' Federation Caused Indictment.

Defendant Seems to Be Confident of Acquittal.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOISE (Idaho) Sept. 29.—Peter Neth, one of the jurors impaneled to try United States Senator Borah for complicity in the Idaho land frauds, was taken violently ill tonight, and it is said his sickness may stop the trial, although this cannot be definitely told until tomorrow.

The nature of Neth's illness is being carefully withheld, but one of the government counsel tonight said he believed Neth to be suffering from temporary mental derangement due to the excitement of the trial.

Many rumors were afloat tonight as to Neth's condition, but no authoritative statement was given out.

The day following his acceptance as a juror, Neth asked many questions of Judge Whitson as to whether buying improved homestead property constituted a crime. He speaks English rather brokenly, and but little attention was paid to him.

WILL PROBE RUMORS.

"The special grand jury, which is investigating charges of misconduct against Dist.-Atty. Ruick, has decided to make an inquiry into the rumors which have been current here for some time to the effect that the Western Federation of Miners had something to do with the indictment of Senator Borah.

Fred Miller of Spokane, Wash., one of the Haywood attorneys, arrived here today in response to a grand jury subpoena.

One witness before the grand jury is said to have stated that he heard Miller say the federation had spent $15,000 in securing Borah's indictment. Miller will be a witness tomorrow.

The second week of Borah's trial begins tomorrow morning before Federal Judge Whitson, with the government attorneys still confronted with the task of connecting the defendant in some criminal way with the alleged wilful combination.

M. C. Burch,
Special Assistant Attorney-General of the United States in the Borah case.

PARTNERSHIP SHOWN.

During the first six days of the trial, the name of Senator Borah was seldom heard, and the evidence adduced in behalf of the United States had mainly to do with the activities of former Gov. Frank Stuenenberg.

It has been clearly shown that a partnership existed between Steunenberg and a capitalist named William Sweet to hold and generally deal in timber lands.

It seems to be the policy of the defense to admit for the purpose of Senator Borah's case that a conspiracy had existed, but to contend that Senator Borah knew nothing of its formation or existence, and that he acted in good faith as an attorney in handling some of the land matters, upon the assurance of his clients that the purchases were the result of bona fide bargains and sales.

Senator Borah continues to express confidence that he will be completely exonerated. His attitude in the courtroom almost borders upon indifference to the testimony so far as it has gone. He usually sits by one of the open windows in the courtroom and seldom consults with his counsel.

GRAFTERS TO "GET THEIRS."

THEOSOPHIST THINKS THEY MUST ALL ATONE.

British Woman, Now Traveling With Mrs. Annie Besant, Says There Is an Incarnation Waiting for Crooked Wealth-Getters That Will Make 'Em Pay Back.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A theosophical note of warning to the grafter was sounded here by Mrs. Marie Russuk, the well-known British woman, who is accompanying Mrs. Annie Besant on her tour of America.

"All the men in official life who are living off the public and getting their money unlawfully," said she, "must at atone in the future state for their shortcomings. They must suffer, for there is an incarnation awaiting them that will make them return all that they have gotten dishonestly."

"What do you suppose was the state of the grafter of today before he entered into his present existence?" she was asked.

Mrs. Russuk said she did not understand the word "grafter," but when it was translated to her she smiled and replied:

"It is difficult to tell. They may have been better, but it is not probable. The criminal and vicious—men of the type of which you speak—can work to a higher plane, but they must rid themselves of their error. In this way the apparently good, but really evil, must relive in another incarnation to get on a higher plane."

"Would one incarnation be enough for those who have shown themselves to be bad citizens—men, who have thrived at the expense of the public?"

"I think some of these men will have to live through several lower forms of existence before they advance. They may live in the future on this world and on some other."

Home, Atlantic and Channel Squadrons to Start for North Sea on October 14.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Under the command of Lord Charles Beresford, the combined home, Atlantic and channel fleets will leave Portland about October 14, for the autumn maneuvers, which this year are being conducted in the North Sea, and will be somewhat similar to those held in the spring off the coast of Portugal.

While the usual fleet maneuvers and exercises will be carried out, the main object is believed to be strategical, to teach the officers what the admiralty would expect of them in case of war with Germany.

The programme is being kept a secret and it is announced that on this occasion journalists will not be invited to accompany the ships.

Neither have the naval attaches been given any information, and they will not be present with the exception of the Japanese, who, as England's allies, have in recent years been the guests of the officer in command on occasions of this kind.

LYNCHING THREATENED.

Mob at Springfield, Mo., Would Close Carnival Festivities by Killing Negroes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPRINGFIELD (Mo.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty-five deputy sheriffs are tonight guarding the County Jail here and an equal number of special policemen are stationed about town to guard against a possible mob attack as the result of the threats that negroes in the jail will be lynched.

The police, after half an hour's hard work last night, dispersed from the public square a mob of 200 people, many of them muttering and threatening to hang the negroes. The mob was made up from revelers at a carnival that was concluded last night, and apparently it intended to end the festivities with a lynching.

Fifty or more men and boys for several days have been urging a repetition of the mob's work here in April, 1906, when three negroes were lynched, but apparently the agitators lacked a spirited leader. Arch Gibson, a cabinet maker, and Richard Skaggs, a railroad shopman, were stabbed Tuesday by negroes, but not fatally wounded.

Reports that the wounded men had died were circulated several times in an endeavor to incite a lynching. The negroes who did the stabbing escaped. A suspect is in jail.

BANKER KILLED IN TEXAS.

Druggist Also Badly Wounded, and Sheriff's Posse Is Formed to Prevent More Bloodshed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] W. P. Hembrey, cashier of the State Bank of Tatum, Tex., was killed in a street fight at that place last night. He was shot to death by Samuel Helveston.

A druggist named Wasson was so badly wounded he is expected to die. A Sheriff's posse has been sent from Henderson, twenty-five miles away, to try to prevent further bloodshed.

RUMORS OF BIG MUTINY.

ODESSA, Sept. 29.—There are rumors here of a serious mutiny at Sebastopol. It is reported that many officers have been killed and wounded, but the reports lack confirmation.

SHOCKED BY HER SLEEVES.

Would-be Bridegroom Criticises Intended Bride's Dress, and Romance Is Shattered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GLENS FALLS (N. Y.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The romance of George Thurston and Carrie Hart has been shattered, and all because young Thurston refused to take for better or for worse a woman who wore short-sleeved gowns.

Thurston is a well-to-do farmer living on the outskirts of the town. Some months ago he decided that he had lived long enough without a spouse and advertised for one who "Cooked well, liked music and dressed modestly."

Of all those who wrote, Miss Hart struck Thurston's fancy most and he opened correspondence with her. In due time a proposition of marriage was made and accepted, and a date set for the wedding.

When Miss Hart got off the train today Thurston was horrified to observe that she wore short sleeves.

"Do you call those modest?" he asked, almost before they had exchanged greetings.

"Call what modest?" gasped Miss Hart, too surprised to comprehend.

"Those sleeves," said Thurston, pointing to the offending gown. "I think they are awful."

Miss Hart was incensed. She declared that her gown was of the latest mode, that the best were just such and if Thurston did not like the way she dressed she would go home. And home she went on the first train.

POLITICAL.

TAFT WILL BE NEXT NOMINEE.

So Declares Longworth, in Emphatic Tone.

The President's Son-in-Law Praises Executive.

Delivers Rebuke Believed to Be for Foraker.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CINCINNATI, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Congressman Nicholas Longworth, President Roosevelt's son-in-law, was chairman yesterday of the Republican City Convention, at which Editor Leopold Markbret of the Volks-Blatt was nominated for Mayor.

Longworth spoke standing under a large picture of the President, the only picture in the convention hall, eulogized Roosevelt and Taft, and, without mentioning his name, dealt Senator Foraker a "knock."

Among many other things, he said, in dwelling on the present municipal campaign: "We shall be aided in that struggle, not only by the Republicanism of our fellow-citizens, but by their local pride. For the next candidate for President, and I say it deliberately, to be nominated by the National Republican Convention will be our foremost fellow-citizen, the Secretary of War, William H. Taft."

His supposed allusion to Foraker was: "As the time for the election of a President approaches, the tide of popular approval of the administration of Theodore Roosevelt grows everywhere. The man who attempts to discredit it in the eyes of the people, who attempts to check this tide of popular enthusiasm, will be hoist by his own petard."

CUMMINS ISSUES STATEMENT.

Iowa Governor Expects Primary Election to Settle Senatorial Problem. Fierce Tug Expected.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DES MOINES, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. A. B. Cummins issued a statement today to the effect that he expects the primary election next June to settle the Senatorial issue, and shall expect Senator William B. Allison and other candidates to assume a similar attitude.

The Governor's statement is supposed to have been called out as a response to the talk that the primary will not be binding in the Legislature on whom the election of a United States Senator will still devolve.

Much fault is being found with the new primary law, and "stand-patters" are openly charging that its provisions were weak in order to enable Democrats to vote for Cummins for Senator.

Many shrewd political observers see such a fierce contest impending as will split the party which ever way the primary may go, and result in the election of a Democratic Legislature, and of a Democrat to the seat which Senator Allison has occupied for more than a third of a century.

"BEATS ENEMIES TO IT."

Postmaster at Dallas, Tex., Resigns Before Request to Get Out Is Received.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A political sensation was set loose here tonight for Texas Republicans. D. A. Robinson resigned as postmaster of Dallas to head off his political enemies who had influenced the powers at Washington to ask for his resignation tomorrow.

Mr. Robinson says pernicious political activity seems to be the cause of his troubles. He called his bondsmen, who are Dallas bankers, together this evening, informed them of his determination to "beat his enemies to it," and turned the postoffice over to them.

Republican State Chairman Cecil A. Lyon was in town today and arrangements were made to put Sloan Stimson in charge of the office Tuesday next. Stimson is a former Rough Rider and a close personal friend of President Roosevelt.

SOCIALISTS IN MAD RIOT.

Attempt to Break Up New York Catholic Meeting, and Hold the Police at Bay.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Italian socialists tonight made the most riotous demonstration in Cooper Union in a determined effort to break up a meeting of the Federation of Italian Societies, called to protest against the recent action of the Italian government against the clergy, and the attacks to which Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, had been subjected during the agitation.

For twenty-five minutes the disturbers held the police at bay, and it was not until a police captain with reinforcements hurried to the rescue of Lieut. Powers and the eight men detailed to the meeting, that order was restored and the meeting permitted to continue.

Nine men supposed to be ringleaders were arrested and a hundred more were beaten by the police and thrown out into the street. In the night court eight of the men were fined.

GRAND PRIZE BALLOON RACE.

Airships Start from Tuilleries Gardens in Drizzling Rain, With Gloomy Prospects.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Sept. 29.—A long-distance balloon race for the grand prize of the Aero Club of France was started from the Tuilleries Gardens this afternoon under unfavorable weather conditions.

A drizzling rain was falling and the wind came out of the southwest, which took the balloons toward the English coast and destroys the chance of a record, unless it shifts.

The race lacks the international character of that of last year, for the James Gordon Bennett cup—only France, Germany and Belgium being represented, the Italian entrant withdrawing at the last moment.

Only veteran aeronauts are participating in the race, among them being Count St. Victor, who was a companion of Count De La Vaulax in his long-distance voyage, and Leon Barthou, head of the Department of the Ministry of Public Works.

MAN HUNT IS ON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—A posse tonight is scouring Alexandria county, Va., for a negro who today waylaid and shot John W. Mullen, aged 21, near Rosslyn, opposite this city, and then assaulted Miss Amelia Weiss, aged 17, Mullen's fiancee, with whom he was out walking.

UP AND DOWN THE VALLEY.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chicago managed to get in touch with sunshine once again this afternoon by grace of a brisk northwest wind that helped to dispel the rain clouds. There was scant warmth in the rays, however, as was attested by the thermometer marking a maximum of 57 deg. The minimum temperature was 51 deg. Middle West temperatures at 7 p.m.:

TWO MURDER MYSTERIES.

With hands tied behind, skull crushed, and clothing weighted with marble slabs, the body of a well-dressed middle-aged man was found in the river near the docks of the Goodrich Transportation Company's freight-house this afternoon, furnishing the police with one of the most puzzling murder mysteries in the annals of criminal history in Chicago. The police late tonight were confronted with still another baffling murder mystery when the dead body of Walter Brown, 21, was found in a vacant lot at No. 6712 Wentworth avenue. A girl giving the name of Irene Brown, 18, but no relation of the dead man, told the police of the crime. The girl said she had ben walking with Brown when the two were stopped by a stranger. The girl walked on. Her steps were quickened into a run when she heard a scream. A struggle ensued, and the girl returned to the scene, only to stumble over Brown's body. There were finger marks on his throat, indicating that he had been strangled.

SLEUTH IS SLEUTHED.

Woman, as she appears when reflected in the wine glass, was the subject of many Sunday sermons in Chicago today. From "statistics" collected about at Chicago churches throughout the day it was indicated that Rev. Dr. Frederic E. Hopkins of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, in his sleuthing expeditions has been "sleuthed" by his fellow-clergymen. Rev. Dr. Frank G. Smith of the Warren Avenue Congregational Church took as his evening subject, "Look not upon the wine when it is red," and applauded the work begun by Dr. Hopkins. He stated that he, too, had done a little sleuthing in Chicago cafés, and was satisfied that the conditions were not as they should be. Rev. Dr. George F. Hall, who preaches at the Bush Temple of Music, declared that Dr. Hopkins's critics were chicken-hearted clergymen. Dr. Hall also had made "observations."

TAKE MESSAGE TO PRESIDENT.

With Father Time as their opponent, two powerful motor boats, entrusted with a message from Mayor Busse to President Roosevelt, will start tomorrow on a record-making dash over a course of 407 miles to St. Louis. Down the drainage canal and through sixteen locks, it is expected that the trip will be made in from twenty-four to thirty hours actual running time. So that this may be possible a relay of the speediest motor boats in Illinois have been secured, and will be placed at different stations along the route to take up the race.

AGAIN OFF FOR MANILA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the third time since the United States took possession of the Philippine Islands the Eighteenth Infantry tonight started on a journey half around the earth to Manila. The infantry will remain in the archipelago for three years, taking the place of the Thirteenth, which will be dispatched home soon.

YOUTHFUL HEIR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BLOOMINGTON (Ill.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Samuel K. Witherell, Jr., aged 1 month, enjoys the distinction of being the youngest beneficiary in a will in the Central Illinois records. The child was named as an heir before he was born, and to comply with the law, it was necessary to serve a summons upon the child while yet unborn.

SENTER STILL AFTER BAILEY.

Texas State Senator Says Solon's Resignation Will Be Demanded, and Predicts Referendum.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] E. G. Senter, representing the Sixth District in the State Senate, spoke last night at the City Hall, explaining why he and a number of other members of the Legislature refused to join in the indorsement of Senator Bailey.

He declared that a demand for the Senator's resignation would be presented to the Legislature for action next year because of Bailey's alleged relations with the Standard Oil Company.

Senter declared that not only would such action be taken in the Legislature, but that a demand would be made for a referendum vote to ascertain the wishes of the people in the matter. He was confident, he said, that an overwhelming sentiment in favor of ousting Bailey would be shown.

That the supposed Investigating Committee of the State Senate, which looked into Bailey's conduct was formed for the express purpose of a "whitewash," was one of Senter's declarations. He said that Bailey, himself, dictated the terms of the committee's existence and the limitations upon its power and artfully framed them with a view to preventing a real investigation.

This effort, he declared, was successful in preventing the lower house from taking drastic action before the senatorial election.

ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Manager of Portland Creamery Company, Who Left for Los Angeles, Charged With Big Thefts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A warrant charging embezzlement has been issued against T. S. Howard, manager of the Williamette Cream Company, who left Portland September 14 to go to Los Angeles and may have taken a ship for Honolulu.

Howard is accused of mulcting local business firms of money amounting from $2000 to $5000, and possibly more.

Before leaving, Howard received telegrams telling of the serious illness of his mother in Los Angeles. The telegraph company now says no such messages were transmitted, and it is believed he had them sent to his room as a ruse for leaving the city.

Howard is said to have $400 belonging to the company, of which he was manager, and to have gotten into the credit of numerous other firms on one pretext and another.

The warrant for his arrest has been signed by I. M. Walker, secretary of the company.

WILL RESIST UNIONITES.

New Orleans Commercial Conference Decides to Combat Unreasonable Demands.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The action of the General Commercial Conference this afternoon marks the first step in what promises to be a protracted and hot labor fight on the levee, involving 10,000 men in the screwmen, longshoremen, freight handlers and other allied trades.

The Executive Committee of the conference reported on the action of the screwmen, who not only refused to increase the number of hand-stowed bales, but added $1 a day to their demands and the committee recommended giving the moral support of the commercial conference to the steamships agents and stevedores in resisting the demands.

The conference was unanimous in adopting the report. Mayor Behrman was present and participated. The agents will begin loading with outside labor, and this means an attempt at a general tie-up.

Job Hunters May Find Hope in Blue Book.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Gillett will be here during the present week en route to Eureka, where he will rejoin his wife and family for a few weeks' visit.

The Governor is making arrangements for his trip to Washington, D. C., next December, in the interest of the Sacramento River Bill, which he has promised to push to the full extent of his power.

Under this measure the Federal government will pay one-half and the State the other half of the cost of the proposed improvements to the Sacramento River.

The Governor is not having much trouble about State patronage these days. There remains but one office of importance that requires his attention, and that is the post of Bank Commissioner, now held by C. H. Dunsmoor of Oakland, and the term of which expired last June.

Dunsmoor is having a hard fight to hold on, and in this he is receiving the backing of the banks. As the board now stands, it includes Sherer of Los Angeles, Lynch of San Francisco and Dunsmoor of Oakland.

The patronage at the disposal of the Governor may be said to have been used up. The office-seekers, however, may find some solace in a study of the new "blue book," compiled and published by Secretary of State Curry. Somewhere in its pages the job-chaser may find a place at the public crib that the Governor has overlooked.

The "blue book" has not been published since 1903, because of the failure of the Legislature to make the necessary appropriation.

The Legislature at its last session provided the money and soon the politicians and all interested electors as well will be able to consult this valuable guide to the State government from a patronage viewpoint.

Fishing Bark Captains Report That Officer of Manjur Seizes Their Papers in Okhotsk Sea.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Capt. Stensland of the fishing barkentine City of Papetee, which arrived today from the Okhotsk Sea, reports that on June 19, the captain of the Russian gunboat Manjur took possession of the City of Papetee's papers, saying: "You have no right to fish here."

"We have a right and are going to do anyway," Stensland replied.

On July 10, the Manjur returned our papers and said that the crew of the schooner John D. Spreckels went on shore for water and wood and set the grass and trees on fire at Little River and that it was necessary to land a crew from the Manjur and put out the fire."

Capt. Matheson of the barkentine Fremont, which also arrived today, reports that on June 13 his papers were taken by the Russian gunboat Manjur, and returned them July 12, together with the papers taken from the barkentine S. N. Castle and schooner J. D. Spreckels.

TWO ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

County Treasurer and His Son Are Injured While Riding in Wagon Near Holtville.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL CENTRO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] County Treasurer Paul Boman and his son, Harold, were accidentally shot while driving near Holtville today.

A loaded shotgun, which was resting between them, was discharged by the jolting of the wagon or by inadvertent pressure of the hammer by one of the men. The charge caused a slight flesh wound only in Treasurer's Boman's side, but the son was seriously wounded in the side and shoulder.

Young Boman was brought to El Centro this afternoon, and will be taken to Los Angeles tomorrow. His wounds, while severe, are not thought to be dangerous.

CROWDS VISIT CRUISERS.

Thousands of Bay City People Inspect the Several Warships Now in Port.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Thousands thronged the wharves today, eager to have a close view of the big cruiser squadron anchored in the stream off the water front.

Any craft capable of carrying passengers was pressed into service to carry visitors to the warships, on each of which a continuous reception was held and which a continuous reception was held all day long.

The jackies and marines on board the various ships were kept busy exhibiting the innumerable points of interest to their visitors, and everybody, from the admiral down to the powder boys, used every effort to make the day pleasant for the land lubbers.

Preparations are already under way on behalf of the citizens of San Francisco to reciprocate for today's hospitality. On Saturday next the California Promotion Committee proposes to entertain both the officers and men of the fleet in the harbor. The former will be banqueted and feted by the cream of local society at the Fairmont, while the latter will be the city's guests at the Chutes.

Standard Oil Company, Through Agent, Acquires Section in Petroleum Zone of Nevada Field.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the oil prospects of Nevada are not being neglected by the oil operators of the world is evidenced by the fact that the Standard Oil Company has been represented here for several months by men who have acquired positions of section 30, directly on the line and covering the channel of oil as revealed by indications.

Two hundred and forty acres of this land were acquired from the government. It stands in the name of E. H. Holbrook, whose connection with the Standard Oil Company is well known. The whole investigation of oil possibilities here, so far as the Standard Oil Company is concerned, has been made quietly, and until now no word has leaked out.

Holbrook spends the most of his time at the wells of the Nevada Oil and Development Company, watching and testing the indications, and many chemical analyses have been made by him. His views regarding the presence of oil coincide with those of Expert Frank, who located the well site.

MILLIONAIRE LOEB WEDS FAIR DIVORCEE OF PARIS.

News of Wedding Spreads Like Wildfire and San Francisco Society Is Given Real Hymenial Sensation—Bride Figured in Exciting Divorce Suit, Just Ended.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Isaac C. Loeb, a millionaire merchant, plantation owner, clubman, bachelor, and well-known society leader in San Francisco and Los Angeles, was quietly married just before noon today, in his apartments at the Lamolle Hotel, to Mrs. Pedro de Saissett, formerly of Paris, a fair young divorcee, who but a few days ago received her final decree from a local court.

The news of the affair, unannounced as it was, spread like wildfire among the society folks of the city, and furnished a choice subject for Sunday-dinner gossipers.

That the wedding is producing a sensation here is largely due to the social prominence of Loeb, who for years has been in good standing with the "smart set," and has appeared at many functions always as the "blasé bachelor" and man of the world.

Mrs. De Saissett, on the other hand, has never been taken up by society since her coming from France some five years ago, when she was the bride of Pedro de Saissett, scion of a prominent old family of San José, and son of a former French Consul to this country.

A few weeks ago Mrs. de Saissett started for Paris, where she intended to remain. In answer to a proposal sent her by Loeb, which intercepted her journey while she was in the East, she returned to San José and since that time Loeb has paid her constant and ardent attention, although very much against the wishes of his brother and business partner, Gabriel Loeb.

The brother, it is said, bitterly opposed the wedding, and was not present at the ceremony today, having left the city this morning.

The divorce suit which Mrs. de Saissett filed against her former husband a year ago, was sensational in the extreme. Mr. and Mrs. Loeb gave a champagne wedding dinner to the three intimate friends who were permitted to be present at the ceremony, and left immediately thereafter for Del Monte for an indefinite stay.

STOCK DECLARED FRAUDULENT.

Reno Man Claims Walker Lake and Goldfield Consolidated Company Is Not Incorporated.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A sensational mining story has just come to light in the investigation by the Federal authorities of Dr. C. T. Sangree, who, it is alleged, has sold several thousand shares of the Walker Lake and Goldfield Consolidated Mining Company, which has never been incorporated.

The property involved consists of nine claims in the Walker Lake district, sold to Sangree last December by Col. R. A. Falkenberg, who was to get a portion of the stock in consideration.

Falkenberg states he has not received the stock and he has positive proof that the company was never incorporated, although about $10,000 worth of stock has been sold to eastern investors.

Walter H. Knapp of New York holds a certificate for 1500 shares for which he paid $1000, and Col. Falkenberg has statements from several other investors telling the same story.

The certificates appear regular on their face, but are worthless unless the company has been incorporated. Dr. Sangree left here several days ago and his whereabouts is not known.

KANE MONUMENT UNVEILED.

Native Daughters of Golden West Honor Memory of First Grand President at Jackson.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

JACKSON, Sept. 29.—The unveiling of the monument over the grave of Tiena L. Kane took place today with appropriate exercises under the auspices of Ursula Parlor, No. 1, N.D.G.W.

Grand officers were present as follows: Emma D. Foley, Grand President, who drew the American flag from the monument; Laura Franks, Grand Secretary; Mary Dempsey, Grand Treasurer, and Ella E. Camipetti, Past Grand of the first parlor of Native Daughters organized here.

Tiena L. Kane was the first Grand President and through her efforts the lodge was built up.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Indian Murderer Caught.

RHYOLITE (Nev.) Sept. 29.—Deputy Sheriff John Casey arrived here last night with Charles Clay, who murdered Little Charlie, a Piute Indian and son of Chief Tecopah, at the Pah Cump ranch a week ago. Clay was captured by the deputy and four Indians in the Charleton range of mountains, eighty miles south of Rhyolite, where he had secreted himself in a deep cañon. He agreed to give himself into the hands of the law if protection against the avenging Piutes was guaranteed.

Murder Suspect Caught.

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 29.—A Sheriff's posse arrested at Frog Tank's, twenty-five miles from here, and brought to Phoenix a Mexican going under the name of Romero, but claiming his right name is Bojorques, under suspicion of being Vincente Franco, who chopped a countryman to pieces in Phoenix with an ax thirteen years ago. A resident here named Galas, who knew Franco, says the suspect is not the man, but that he is a fugitive from Mexico, where he committed many crimes and that his name is Alcobado.

Falls to His Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—Frank E. Young, youngest son of Col. J. S. Young and lieutenant of the First California Volunteers during the Spanish-American War, met death this morning by falling from a third-story window of the Congress Hotel at Ellis and Fillmore streets. Feeling sick, Young had opened a window to get a breath of fresh air, and in a sudden attack he fell to the sidewalk.

RELIGIOUS.

SPEAKS WORD OF GREETING.

President Talks to Throng of Episcopalians.

Foundation Stone of Cathedral Is Laid.

Bishop of London Delivers Salutation.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Today witnessed two events here of general interest to the religious world at large and especially to the Episcopal church.

The first and chief of these events was the laying of the foundation stone of the cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul at Mount St. Alban, Wisconsin avenue. The other was the great open-air service on the same grounds, under the auspices of the international convention of the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew, which brought to a close the convention which has been in session here for the past week.

The corner-stone laying was under the guidance of the Episcopal church in America. With befitting ceremony and solemnity the foundation stone of what promises to equal in point of architecture and outlay the most magnificent cathedrals in the world was laid at noon. It was a notable occasion, made more so by the presence of the President of the United States, the Bishop of London, Right Rev. A. F. Winnington Ingram, who delivered the salutation, Bishop Satterlee of the diocese of Washington, who performed the ceremony of laying the foundation stone, and many other bishops of the church.

The ceremony began with the procession of 300 choir boys, followed by the bishops, the clergy, the cathedral chapter, the cathedral council and the Marine Band, playing Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," which was sung by the choir as the procession marched into the amphitheater.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

The ceremony of laying the foundation stone completed, Bishop Satterlee, introduced President Roosevelt, who said:

"I have to say but one word of greeting to you today and to wish you God speed in the work begun this noon. The salutation is to be delivered by our guest, the Bishop of London, who has a right to speak to us, because he has shown in his life that he treats high officials as high officials should alone be treated, either in church or state and above all in a democracy such as ours, simply as giving a chance to render service. If office is accepted by any man for its own sake and because of the honor it is felt to confer, he accepts it to his own harm and to the infinite harm of those whom he ought to serve. Its sole value comes in the state, but above all its sole value comes in the church if it is seized by the man who holds it as giving the chance to do yet more useful work for the people whom he serves.

"I greet you here, Bishop Ingram, because you have used your office in the aid of mankind; that while you have served all, you have realized that the greatest need of service was for whom least has been given in this world. I believe so implicitly in the good that will be done by and through this cathedral, Bishop Satterlee, because I know that you and those with you, the people of your church, the people of your kindred churches, to one of which I belong, are growing more and more to realize the necessity of showing by their lives how well they appreciate the truth of the text that they shall be judged by their fruits.

TEST OF CHARACTER.

"More and more we have grown to realize that the worth of the professions of the men of any creed must largely be determined by the conduct of the men making these professions; that conduct is the toughest one by which we must test their character and their services. The times are evil—that is, there is much that is evil in them. It would be to our shame and discredit if we failed to realize that evil, if we wrapped ourselves in the mantel of a foolish optimism and failed to war with heart and strength against the evil. It would be equally to our discredit if we sank back in sullen pessimism and declined to strive for good because we feared the strength of evil.

"There is much evil; there is much good, too; and one of the good things is that more and more we must realize that there is such a thing as a real Christian fellowship among men of different creeds, and that the real field for rivalry among and between the creed comes in the rivalry of individuals to see which can render best service to mankind, which can do the work of the Lord best by doing his work for the people."

BISHOP SPEAKS.

Following the address of the President, the bishop of London delivered the salutation. Turning toward the President, he thanked him for his presence, "amid all his multitudinous duties." He also expressed his thanks for the "burning words of encouragement and inspiration of the President, which," he said, "would send him back across the seas inspired for his work."

The bishop then referred to the Canterbury embon, or pulpit, which he brought over as a gift to the cathedral.

"I came," he said, "as the successor of St. Augustine, champion mileteus, to bring you from the old diocese of London, of which you one day were a part, a real message of love and god speed."

ATTORNEY-GENERALS TO MEET.

Mississippi and Other State Counsels to Decide on Plan for Fighting Trusts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A meeting of the Attorneys-Generals of Mississippi and several other States will be held in St. Louis tomorrow for the purpose of arriving at some definite plan for concerted action against law-defying corporations and trusts in the United States.

While it is probable that a resolution will be presented having to do with a plan for common action, representatives of the convention in St. Louis tonight are not willing to forecast it.

The meeting, which is the outcome of a preliminary meeting held here about two months ago and called by Atty.-Gen. Hadley of Missouri, will be held at the Southern Hotel, and will continue throughout Tuesday.

The Attorney-Generals will remain until Wednesday to witness the river pageant and greet President Roosevelt. Several will make the river trip to Memphis.

IS ACCUSED OF ARSON.

Auburn Man Arrested for Alleged Burning of Barn and Hay in Eldorado County.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

AUBURN, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] L. W. Leak, one of the most prominent residents of this section and a man of family, was arrested yesterday charged with arson. The crime alleged was the burning of a barn and hay in Eldorado county, belonging to John Henny of Newcastle.

Leak was taken to Placerville last night by the Sheriff of Eldorado county. The fire occurred last Tuesday night, and Leak, who formerly operated the Henny ranch, was seen in that locality. He claims to have been hunting.

Nipponese Sealing Poachers Make Raid on Village on Alaskan Island.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Sept. 29.—A report was made to United States Counsel Smith of Vancouver today by Capt. Munro of the sealing schooner Casec of the pirating of an Alaskan village on Litak Bay on Southwest Kodiak Island, by the crew of a Japanese sealing schooner operating in Behring Sea this season.

The Casec called at Litak Bay for water and the Russian priests asked Capt. Munro to inform the United States authorities of the outrage.

The Japanese landed from the schooner and broke open the houses. All manner of things were dragged among the houses.

Whether they will remain for a year or permanently was not learned.

One will be a small battleship and two will be first-class cruisers.

SUFFERERS EATING REFUSE.

Dead Bodies of Flood Victims Are Taken from Mud, and Conditions Are Appalling.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MALAGA, Sept. 29.—The greatest distress everywhere is prevalent, as a result of the storms and floods of last week. The government with difficulty is preventing famished people seizing and eating decayed foodstuffs that have been thrown out by the storekeepers.

Many bodies have been found in the mud. A band of immigrants which was encamped on the quay awaiting a steamer has not been seen since, and it is feared all were lost. The damage done is placed at $3,500,000. Fifteen hundred stores were ruined.

The storm center in the south of France shifted eastward to Toulon, the Department of Marvar. The grape crop there has been entirely destroyed. The low-lying districts are submerged. Much damage has been done to the port of Toulon and the arsenal there.

FATAL REVOLT IN PRISON.

Army Officers Attempt to Escape from Belgrade Bastile, Are Killed, and Riots Result.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BELGRADE (Servia) Sept. 29.—An extraordinary occurrence in the government prison here today resulted in the death of two former army officers and free street rioting.

The two army officers who were appointed by so-called "regicide regiments" were detained in prison on a trivial charge. Being driven to despair by the delay an illegal obstacle put in the way of bringing their cases to a trial, the two prisoners, while exercising in the corridor, wrested guns from the prison guards and, barricading themselves in a room, fired from the windows into the street. The commandant of the prison ordered the guards to seize them and a desperate fight followed.

Two guards were wounded, and, according to official accounts, the two former officers committed suicide with their last cartridges.

Other accounts, however, say that the two officers were strangled by the guards, who then emptied their revolvers into the lifeless bodies of the men.

Meantime angry crowds gathered about the prison denouncing the "regicide" movement.

Later in the day there was further revolting in which an officer and a gendarme were woundtd. Armed patrols are still engaged this evening in clearing the streets of the rioters.

Many Towns in Mexico Arrange for Demonstrations for America's Secretary of State.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 29.—The official reception committee, having completed the arrangements for the reception of Mr. Root and party in this city, is now considering that portion of their visit which will be spent in the interior.

Great animation is reported in the towns along the National Railroad line, and friendly demonstrations are being prepared in Mr. Root's honor.

ATTEMPT TO START MUTINY.

SEBASTOPOL, Sept. 29.—Three terrorists, disguised as officials, penetrated the barracks here on Saturday in a daring attempt to provoke a mutiny among the troops. The ruse being discovered, they fired upon the officers, mortally wounding Capt. Novikoff and severely injuring another officer named Poletkin, and escaped in the confusion that followed.

HOLINESS.

BISHOP WANTS SUNDAY LAW.

Regrets That There Is None in California.

Purity of Living Keynote of Conference Sermon.

Some Professing Christians Need Cleansing.

Bishop Thomas B. Neely, D.D. L.L.D., preached the conference sermon yesterday morning at the First Methodist Church. Standing room was at premium long before the hour of service and hundreds were turned away. The sermon was a climax to the week's work, and reflected the gentle lovable character of the man who presided over a conference remarkable for its unruffled calm. Purity and right living were the keynotes.

"Travelers who visit the city of Paris," said the bishop, "frequently make their way to a tapestry manufactory which is celebrated for its wonderful works of art. There they see men weaving threads of wonderful colors into portraits and landscapes pleasing to the eye and exceedingly valuable. The value of the fabric expresses itself in the beauty of the figures. So, in the fabric of the holy scriptures we find God's likeness as the chief beauty of the writings. The Bible exists to reveal the holiness of God. Draw out the colored threads from the tapestry and it is worthless. Draw out of the scriptures the word of God and His holiness and you have mere literature.

"Holiness is spoken of from the beginning to the end of the Bible as a duty, a requirement for happiness in this world and a necessity for happiness in the eternal world. Many controversies would be prevented if men first agreed on the premises. Many controversies regarding sanctification would be avoided if men consulted only the word of God. The word holiness means wholeness. The first idea is physical. Cut off the 'w' and change the 'e' to 'i' and you have holiness. The biblical meaning is, first, that of separation in the broadest sense. For example, the holy nation of Israel was a separated people; the priesthood was holy and separated; holy things, holy days, holy vessels all were separated for a purpose. A man who is separated from sin is a holy man.

WANTS SUNDAY LAW.

"The second idea is consecration—separation for service to God. With the Jews, Sunday, or the Sabbath, was a separated day. I wish you had a Sunday law in California. It should be a day of rest, a day set apart for holy things.

"The third idea is purity. Holiness is the opposite of uncleanness. The holy nation was sprinkled; the priests washed themselves. There can be no separation without purity. To be pure is to be free from admixture or adulteration. Let sin be removed from the sinner and purity is restored.

"If we study man, we find he has an internal and an external nature. External sin is simply that which responds to the internal sin. The will feels the force of desire but is entirely free from coercion. It may strangle desire. If a man who has a desire to drink says, as he passes the saloon, 'I will not,' after a while his will is strong enough to triumph over desire.

"A man proposes to murder another. It is a sin of the will. He may make an attempt, but never perpetrate the act. He is a murderer in his heart, however. He did not sin externally, but he murdered the man within. Many men purpose to do wickednesses but are afraid of the consequences. Some men would steal if they could do so without being imprisoned. Men are kept every day from indulging in vice because of the fear of being found out. To have an active love to sin is sin itself. Some people get so good they say they can't be tempted. When a man gets in that condition he is in great danger of falling. Jesus was tempted.

"A man may not comprehend what is right because of lack of enlightenment. God will not judge such a man as He will the man who has had many advantages. Some people do things and I don't see why they do them, but it is not for me to judge my fellows.

BE PURE INSIDE AND OUT.

"When the ragged Irish lad was asked in school the meaning of holiness, he answered: 'May it please your reverence, it's to be clean inside.' Complete purity is purity in both the external and internal life. It is possible to have a pure heart and a pure life. Some humble men have both today. There have been, all through the ages, people who have been pure in heart and life.

"What is the source of moral purity? The scripture teaches us that man has the power to cleanse himself in some ways. Then there is another teaching which shows that God has the power to cleanse us thoroughly. There is no contradiction here. Man has power to act. God's power is internal. God has given man power to stop wrongdoing.

"But stopping does not remove the guilt of former sins. What will take out the stain? For the moral purification of man there must be some power distinct from the man's. God is the great moral purifier. God only can purify the heart. Through His power the dross is consumed. But God has the power only with the consent of the sinner. If any sinner is here today let him resolve to stop sinning, and he has taken the first step toward purification.

NO HARD THINGS ASKED.

"God asks no hard things. We may have been the worst of sinners, but He will not demand of us hard terms of surrender. When does the purification take place? Not after death. It is a present duty. We can have holiness at this moment if we comply with God's conditions. If we confess our sin He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

"Who may seek purity? The man who has been a professing Christian for twenty years, if he needs cleansing. We all need to have forgiveness. Purity will transform a man. It will make him gentle like Jesus. There is no use in a man standing up and saying: 'I am holy,' when the people know he is anything but holy.

"'Who shall ascend to the hill of the Lord? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart.' That is the kind of man that will triumph."

MEOW!

HIGH-TONED THIEVES NAB PRECIOUS CATS.

The comic artist takes a somewhat frivolous view of the report that people in an automobile are stealing kitties.

CAT thieves in automobiles have caused alarms to vibrate through high society.

High-bred felines have been carried away by an automobile containing four well-dressed people.

The only consolation to the mourners is the reflection that their aristocratic pets have been seduced by kid gloves and a 1908 model ocean-going auto car. It would save been an additional pain to have had them succumb to the blandishments of a man with a vulgar push cart.

It makes the agony a trifle easier to know that the Hon. T. Cat became a victim to his own high-toned disposition.

One of the sufferers is Mrs. Jesse M. Reynolds of Hollywood, who says her neighbors saw the deed done.

Her prize-winning cat Bab had a temporary lapse from his heavy dignity and wandered one day out of his boudoir. He forgot about his prize cups and his various honors, and, with his eyes like saucers, and depravity in his heart, prowled along the line of the fence like a common, "cussed" old alley tom cat.

He got down behind one of the shrubs on the lawn and made timid experiments with his larynx, and to his unspeakable delight, he could make a yowl that raised every window in the neighborhood, and sent a thrill through every dog within range.

Bab then marched out in search of adventures. He got no farther than the middle of the road when a cloud of dust whirled down the street, and finally belched out a high-power auto car.

A sure-enough alley cat would have beat it for the nearest back fence, but Bab sat down in the middle of the road and stared at it with well-bred curiosity until the mahout had to bring the machine to a stop to avoid running over him.

There were two men and two women in the auto. Some of them evidently saw at a glance that Bab was no common cat. He is a big two-year-old brown Angora who has already won two first prizes, and who has been predicted the future winner of the sweepstakes.

One of the women got out of the auto and coaxed Bab up to her. Bab don't know about autos, but these persons in rustling skirts are tame animals to him. He came up and passed the courtesies. The woman picked up the $150 cat and got back in the auto, the mahout turned on the juice, and they vanished in a cloud.

Mrs. Reynolds, upon her return, missed the pride of the harem and instituted a frantic search, learning these facts. She has inserted advertisements in the papers; she has appealed to the police; she besought sympathy and information from other cat owners.

She was amazed and alarmed to learn that other valuable cats have also disappeared in an abrupt and mysterious manner. Mrs. Whitmore of Sanborn Junction, she learned, has also lost a cat with a distinguished and exalted pedigree. They don't know whether this was also an automobile or not.

Mrs. Reynolds has learned of four or five other cats of high degree that have been stolen within the past few weeks.

Passing automobiles are now under suspicion.

"Henceforth," said Mrs. Reynolds yesterday, "I shall allow none of my highly-bred cats to walk out except under lock and key."

A cat walking under lock and key is a staggering idea; but so is a cat thief in an automobile.

AMERICAN COPPER SMELTING AND REFINING.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

According to census bulletin 56, just issued, copper smelting and refining is the principal industry of forty establishments, whose status in the year of the census manufactures, 1905, was:

Capital employed	$ 76,824,640
Wage-earners	12,752
Their yearly wages	$10,827,943
Cost of materials used yearly	$156,756,566
Value of yearly product	$180,730,216

Compared with the showing of the industry in the census of 1900, these figures for 1905 show a decrease of 14.2 per cent. in the number of establishments, but an increase of 44.8 per cent. in capital, of 12.6 per cent. in wage earners, of 26.9 per cent. in wages, of 61 per cent. in cost of materials used yearly, and of 45.8 per cent. in the value of the yearly product.

COPPER REFINED IN THE EAST.

The growth and concentration of the copper refining industry has been greatest east of the Mississippi. In 1900 and East was doing 86.6 per cent. of the refining, but in 1905 its proportion was 96.8 per cent. The western establishments now confine their operations almost entirely to smelting, with, in the majority of cases, the conversion of the matte into blister copper, which is electrolytically refined in the East.

By-products worth $30,000,000 a year.

The 1905 census valued the product of smelting at $88,374,850, and that of refining at $149,711,214. The smelting products were:

	Quantity, lbs.	Value.
Blister or anodes, fine copper contents	539,000,000	$60,000,000
Matte fine copper contents	82,000,000	9,000,000
Ounces of silver	22,000,000	12,000,000
Ounces of gold	222,000	6,000,000
The refining products were—
Ingots, wire, bars, etc.	834,000,000	$119,000,000
Blue vitriol	25,000,000	1,000,000
Ounces of silver	23,000,000	16,000,000
Ounces of gold	624,000	13,000,000

Thus it appears that by-products of copper refining are worth $30,000,000 a year, of which $29,000,000 is for gold and silver. In 1900 only $12,000,000 worth of the precious metals was obtained from copper refining.

NEW JERSEY LEADS IN REFINING

New Jersey is the largest producer of refined copper, and between 1900 and 1905 it increased its production of the total for the whole country. The gain by New Jersey was from 28.3 to 35.6 per cent. of the whole. The copper refining industry in New York also made a great advance, so that in 1905 New Jersey and New York reported nearly two-thirds of the refined copper product of the country. Michigan was third, and Maryland fourth.

CALIFORNIA'S SHARE.

California's share of the forego[illegible] for 1905 consisted of:

WHY BULLETS KILL.

The Shock Induces Well-Known Diseases Aside from the Injuries to Arteries.

"What makes a man die when he is hit by a bullet?" The question seems an easy one, yet the answer is not so simple if one considers the matter from the standpoint of a surgeon. A local surgeon who saw service in Cuba was asked the question.

"There are three reasons," he replied; "shock, hemorrhage and blood poisoning. A bullet cuts its way through skin, muscle, nerve, bone, artery—then the wounded man falls to the ground. That's nature's little plan, you know, for getting him on his back and relieving the heart of the heavy work of forcing blood against gravity into the brain."

"What happens when he gets a bullet through the brain?"

"Dies generally. If the bullet is a Mauser, however, and if its velocity be great enough, it is quite apt to pass clear through the skull, piercing the bone plate on one side, traversing the intervening brain, and breaking out through the other side without killing. I attended a number of such cases during the war in Cuba.

"Why are lung wounds so serious?" the surgeon was next asked. "Is the brain not as vital as the lungs?"

"Quite. But when a man is shot through the lungs a number of big blood vessels are cut, and he dies from loss of blood. Or the blood pours into the fine network of the lungs, and the victim dies of pneumonia, just as he would do if he caught a chill. As a matter of fact, wound diseases, in the known diseases suddenly and violently induced.

"Shoot a man through the head, and if he outlives the shock he dies as he would do from apoplexy or inflammation of the brain. Shoot him through the heart, and he dies from the same pathological cause as if he had ruptured aneurism of the heart. If it is an abdominal wound, the man would probably die of peritonitis, resulting from the release of the stomach contents into the cavity. In such a case death would be due to the same cause as in some cases of ulcer in the stomach. Such a patient would die from blood poisoning."

"What's the danger of flesh wounds?"

"Septic poisoning mainly, and the severing of any important artery."

"What about flesh wounds in the thigh?"

"Well, a man might bleed to death inside of five minutes if his femoral artery were cut."

"What of the hole where the bullet went in and the other where it came out?"

"With the average revolver bullet—that is, the .32 caliber—they are too small to matter much. They are only dangerous inlets for poisoning material. As to bone injuries, a rifle bullet in full flight may nick a bone without seriously damaging it; but in most cases, as with the .38-caliber revolver bullet, the bone is badly splintered and there's nothing for it but amputation. No milder course has yet been effective."

ANXIETY.

YOUNG ANGELENO HUNTED IN VAIN.

MYSTERIOUSLY DISAPPEARS AND FAMILY IS WORRIED.

Son of Charles Silent Not Heard from Since Leaving Stanford University Over Week Ago—Father and Detectives Are Searching for Him in San Jose.

Considerable anxiety is felt over the unexplained absence from Stanford University of C. J. Silent, a son of Charles Silent, and a graduate student in the law department. One week ago last Friday the young man left the university to visit relatives in San José. Since that time nothing has been heard of him.

His father and detectives are searching for him in San José, but so far without success.

The young man left the university without a suit case, and with only a small sum of money in his pocket, although he has a considerable sum on deposit in the Bank of Palo Alto.

The theory is advanced that he has met with foul play, but this is given little credence. The general opinion is that he wandered off while temporarily insane as a result of overstudy. He is not a robust youth, and it is thought the graduate work that he was carrying on proved too much for him.

Minor Baseball.

Of the many minor ball games played yesterday in this city and vicinity, scores have been received of the following: At San Diego the Pickwicks beat the Hoegees two games, by scores of 1 to 0 and 2 to 1; at the Chutes, the Los Angeles Elks beat the San Diego Elks 12 to 6; at Arcadia the Nofzigers beat the Seal Gardens 7 to 3, and the Alhambras beat Highland Park 14 to 0; at Thirty-eighth and Santa Fé the Norwalks beat the Home Telephones 20 to 4, and the A. & C. team beat the Nationals 14 to 3; at Santa Monica the Thistles beat Santa Monica 9 to 8; Angeles beat Parr Colts 9 to 6, at the County Hospital grounds; at Prager Park the Sunbrights defeated Hollywood 14 to 8; at Eleventh and Santa Fé the R. T. & T. C. team beat the East Side Specials 21 to 19; at Pasadena the Linda Vistas lost to North Pasadena, 10 to 8; at Hynes the Tropico team lost to Hynes, 4 to 2; the Paraffines beat the Biscuits 2 to 1 at Tropico; at Agricultural Park the Percivals beat the Simpsons 13 to 4; at San Gabriel the Racycles defeated the East Side Giants 11 to 0; at Seal Gardens the Florence-Grahams beat the Merinos 4 to 0, and the Lockhart Leaders 11 to 8.

Miller's Big Winnings.

Big stakes won this season by Jockey Walter Miller, who is to ride in California this winter, are:

Brooklyn handicap, on Superman	$15,800
Brooklyn Derby, on Peter Pan	10,475
The Tidal, on Peter Pan	14,450
The National Stallion, on Colin	9,862
The Great Trial, on Colin	19,250
The Brighton Junior, on Colin	11,750
The Invincible handicap, on Ballot	3,525
The Saratoga hdcp. on Running Water	8,300
The Saratoga Special, on Colin	12,000
The Grand Union Stakes, on Colin	5,250
The Great Republic, on Ballot	16,650
The U. S. Hotel Stakes, on Restigouche	3,250
The Saratoga cup, on Running Water	4,650
The Futurity, on Colin	25,675
The Flatbush, on Colin	3,450
Total	$171,287

Since March 25, at the Bennings track, Miller has won altogether $425,328.

Delmas and Burns.

Although the Los Angeles team has lost Pitcher Burns by draft to the Boston Americans and Shortstop Delmas by purchase to the same team, the chances are good that both players will be on the local club next season. Burns declares he will not go to Boston, according to Manager Berry, and Delmas will probably remain, because the peculiar terms of his sale cannot be carried out, if Barry's dope is right. Delmas was sold for a cash consideration and two players, and it is understood that these cannot be delivered to Berry, and he knew it when he was coaxed into selling Delmas. Guess Berry don't know anything about baseball?

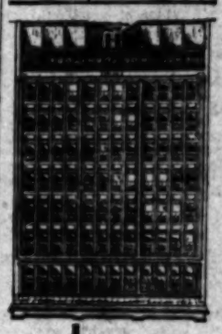
Honest Pricing

Of Furniture Will Not Permit Great Special Reductions



If you are quoted liberal discounts when buying furniture you may be sure the first or marked price provides amply for this sensational reduction. Do not be misled by apparent great savings, for in such cases you are usually paying more at the sale price than the actual price is in stores using honest pricing methods.

Consider the net price and the quality. Do not encourage this graduating scale and the "mark up"-to-be-"marked down" system of selling. You are usually the loser.

We have but one price and that price is fair and right; the same price to everyone. Our stock is all new and reliable and we mark it as low as it is possible to sell good furniture.

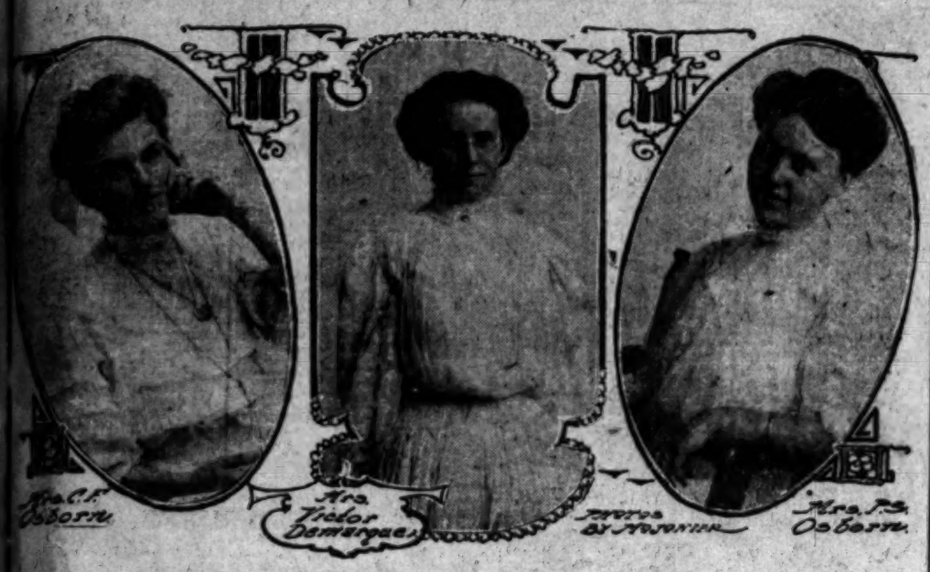
MATRIMONIAL INVASION OF THE YOUNGEST OF Y.W.C.A. CLUBS.



The three brides of the Y.W.C.A. Victoria Club.

The Young Women's Christian Association does not pose as a matrimonial agency. It exists largely for the benefit of the self-supporting maids of the city, but the old-fashioned idea of womanhood has not died out of the land, for matrimony has broken out in the youngest of the association clubs.

Three little brides of the Victoria Club were royally feted at the association Saturday evening. The atmosphere fairly palpitated with rosy hues in which engagement rings, bridal veils and romantic futures generally figured, for the Victoria Club is composed of cash and inspector girls of the Broadway Department Store, and the majority of the members have but lately emerged from little girlhood. The club is three years old, and three of the members have attained to the dignity of 19 years, and three have lately graduated into matrimony.

To sweet sixteen a bride occupies the very pinnacle of fame, and the young girls were determined to do things in proper style for their three summer brides.

The long tables were placed to represent a huge V for Victoria, and they presented a charming sight with the rows of happy faces on each side. Two of the husbands had been persuaded to adorn the scene, and occupied places of honor beside the brides. Red and white, the club colors, were carried out in bunches of brilliant blossoms, and love-knots of crinkly red paper that billowed over the white cloth. The place cards bore hand-painted brides and no appropriate suggestion was omitted.

The forty girls, many of them garbed in the club uniform of white sailor suits and red ties and ribbons, formed a procession with the guests of honor leading the way, and the good angels of the extension department, Miss Chappell and Miss Sayre, and the general secretary, Miss Tatham, next in line. All marched into the large dining-room to the familiar strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march.

A great brides' cake was cut, and many different fates were found in the treasures the cake concealed. Strange to relate, nobody wanted the darning needle, for that meant that one would never be a bride and wear a wedding veil. Games filled in the evening hours, and there were presents from the Victoria Club to each of the brides.

The club was named by the girls after that great and good Queen, Victoria, and, considering the name, the club has not made a mistake, after all, in advocating matrimony.

TIME FOR REST.

HE SURPRISES CONGREGATION.

DR. ROWELL RESIGNS BY PROXY IN LETTER.

Many Years Identified With Central Avenue Congregational Church—Resignation to Take Effect Next Month—Formal Action at Special Meeting to Be Arranged.

After nine years of faithful service as minister of Central Avenue Congregational Church and Salem Congregational Church, now merged, Dr. N. L. Rowell surprised his parishioners, yesterday, by tendering to them his resignation, to take effect October 22.

There is perfect harmony between pastor and people, and the church is progressing with further plans for development. It is simply the burden of the growing work which causes Dr. Rowell to lay down the long-carried load.

Dr. Hendry preached for this congregation yesterday morning, Dr. Rowell being absent, and at the close of the sermon he presented to the people the pastor's resignation. It was a complete surprise, and many were deeply affected. Following this statement there was a spontaneous expression of appreciation of the pastor's work from various officials and others who have been closely allied with the church in that district.

It was decided to have a meeting of the trustees this evening, to arrange for a special congregational meeting to take formal action and to discuss plans for securing a new pastor.

Dr. Rowell assumed the pastorate of Central avenue church soon after the southeastern part of the city began to feel the impetus of the new era, and for nine years he has devoted his energies to the building up of the field. His services have ever been directed not only in the religious work, but in the various movements for civic righteousness and good citizenship.

The church, which was located at Central avenue and Twenty-seventh, became too small for the congregation, and through the activities of the pastor the people were encouraged to undertake the erection of a new building. Eventually this, also, became unequal to the demands, and the congregation moved to the corner of Twenty-eighth and Paloma streets, where it was merged into the Salem Congregational Church two or three years ago, and where a commodious church building was erected. At the present time plans have been completed for the erection of a parsonage adjacent to the church building.

During his nine years in this pastorate Dr. Rowell has received hundreds of members into the church; but in proportion of the city the population has been shifting, so that people who have sat under Dr. Rowell's ministry have become scattered to many parts of the city. The church membership, however, has constantly expanded, and the Sunday-school is considered one of the most important in the Congregational work of Los Angeles.

More than forty years Dr. Rowell has been in the active ministry. He was ordained in 1864, and his first pastorate was in Boston. He then served churches in Manchester, N. H., and later was the pastor of Old South Church, New York.

His health breaking under the rigors of the eastern winters, Dr. Rowell came to California twenty-six years ago, and for eight years he was pastor of the Union Square Church in San Francisco. For four years he served the Twenty-first street Church in Oakland, and he then came to Southern California. His first pastorate here was at Redondo, where a remarkable revival was held, and he then came to Los Angeles to accept the pastorate of the Central Avenue Church.

It is probable that Dr. Rowell will continue until the first of the year to preach for the church from which he has just resigned as pastor, but the other pastoral labors will be provided for by the trustees until a new minister is selected.

Dr. Rowell plans to remove to Avenue 50, Highland Park, where his daughter is attending Occidental College, and he will give as much of his time as his strength permits to supply work in the various Congregational churches of Southern California.

CUPID FOILED.

BOY AND GIRL HEARTBROKEN.

THEIR ROMANCE NIPPED IN BUD BY CRUEL POLICE.

He Is Seventeen and She Thirteen Years Old—Elope from Salt Lake City—Marriage License Refused, but They Furnish Apartments and Are Happy Till Arrested.

Mabel Griffith, 13 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon at No. 422½ South Savannah street, where a cozy suite of rooms had been fitted up for her by Harry Hanson, 17 years old, with whom she eloped from Salt Lake City last week. Later Hanson, too, was arrested when he came to the rooms after searching vainly for a position.

Hanson is in the City Jail, awaiting the arrival of officers from Salt Lake City. He will be charged with abduction. The girl is at the Detention Home. Her parents were notified of her arrest and will come for her.

When the young couple arrived in Los Angeles, Tuesday morning, Hanson applied at the County Clerk's office for a marriage license. His companion looked so young that she was closely questioned and finally admitted that she was not "quite of age." The license was refused.

The girl wept when she found that she could not get married at once, but she and Hanson decided to live together, so an apartment was rented. They purchased $142 worth of furniture on the installment plan and furnished three rooms. Then Hanson began to look for work. His money was gone yesterday, so the girl gave him her watch to pawn. He was unable to secure a loan on the watch and there was little in the house to eat. When arrested, they had just 11 cents between them.

For several months Hanson had been courting Miss Griffith. Her parents were opposed to it. When they refused to let him call any more, he sent her an engagement ring by mail. About a month ago the elopement was arranged.

When Miss Griffith disappeared, her parents had a warrant issued for Hanson's arrest and the young people were traced to Los Angeles. Miss Griffith said yesterday:

"It was our plan to get married as soon as we arrived in Los Angeles, but I was too young. I didn't have any friends here so I had to have a home. Harry fitted up the flat and we intended to live there until I was old enough to get married.

"When we left Salt Lake City we had about $150 in cash. Harry saved his wages and pawned my engagement ring. He bought our tickets and paid for our rent and the first installment on our furniture. Then we bought some groceries and by that time the money was about gone.

"Harry has looked for work every day, but couldn't find a job. I gave him my watch to pawn so we could buy something to eat.

"I don't want to go back to Salt Lake City. I love Harry and would rather live here until I am old enough to get married."

TWO-TONED.

DOUBLE-DECKER FIDDLE FOUND.

RELIC OF WHALING VOYAGE IN THE SOUTH SEAS.

Cocoanut Wood and Bone of a Whale Used in Its Construction by Musical Sailor—Jack-knife Was Tool With Which It Was Fashioned Over One Hundred Years Ago.

As a relic of idle moments "between watches" on board a South Sea whaler a violin of ancient pattern has found its way in its travels to Charles Grenols. It is possessed of a double set of strings, a set of "vibration strings" below the regular set, whose purpose it is to vibrate in sympathy with the touched strings. This is almost a pre-historic pattern in violin history, but the value of the instrument as a curiosity does not end there. It is probably 100 years of age and was cut out entirely with a jack-knife by a Norwegian sailor on a cruise among the South Sea Islands.

If the materials embodied in it were suddenly transposed to their original shape and surroundings it would picture a palm-bedecked island with palm-fronds waving in the air and sportive whales frisking about outside the reef listening between times for the "there she blows." According to the violin, one whale frisked one frisk too much and attempted to depart towards his reflection one minute too late for the fingerboard is inlaid with carved whale bone and the body of the instrument is probably made up of cocoanut wood which came handy to the artist's fingers, gathered on the shores of southern atolls.

Brass wires hold the strings taut and the pegs are roughly carved of hard wood. The neck is constructed after a fashion common to the South Sea Islanders, and the maker probably got his decorative idea from samples of native handiwork. It is surmounted by a grotesque head that resembles closely figures carved by Aztec Indians in America and might betoken a knowledge of their art.

Grenols traded it for a $25 violin to a Norwegian who desired to learn the instrument and "could not hold the thing." It had been in the latter's family for many years, but he held it in no value as an heirloom.

LABOR UNION MAKES BLUFF.

BUT THEIR OLD BLUNDERBUSS MISSES FIRE.

Trainmen Demand Exorbitant Wages on Las Vegas and Tonopah Railroad, Then Desert Their Trains. President Clark Makes Satisfactory Settlement.

Thinking that they had the Las Vegas and Tonopah Railroad in a hole because it runs through the deserts of Nevada, the union firemen and trainmen employed on that line made the most exorbitant demands in the history of even their organizations.

When President J. Ross Clark and Manager E. W. Gillette refused to be held up in this most approved labor-union fashion the men went on strike and stopped the running of the trains.

They were already getting the same wages as is paid under the union scale on main lines, which is higher than the average. But this did not satisfy them and they demanded an increase of from 50 to 60 per cent.

This extravagant demand upon the management of a new road which has not yet finished its line to Goldfield, was based upon similar demands made by the men on the Brock road, and which had been weakly given them.

The strikers depended upon the backing of the Western Federation of Miners and the I.W.W., and believed that they had the Las Vegas and Tonopah in such a position that all they had to do was to ask to have the road given to them and they would get it with thanks.

Saturday President Clark arrived in Beatty, the headquarters of the strikers, and tried to get the men to look at the situation with the aid of a little common sense. But at first they refused to recede from their demands and Clark said that he would refuse to run the road.

Yesterday word was received in Los Angeles that the strikers had come down off their high horse and agreed to compromise. After a conference and further negotiations President Clark telegraphed officers of the road here that a satisfactory settlement of the trouble has been effected and that beginning today trains would run as usual.

NOT STRONG AT TENNIS.

President Tells Bishop of London That He Would Like to Have Him on a Horse.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The second round in the tennis match between President Roosevelt and Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London, did not come off yesterday, as had been planned.

It began to rain here about 2 o'clock, so that play on the White House court was impossible anyway, but before it had been determined that no match could be held, the Bishop, with his secretary and Secretary Garfield and Atty.-Gen. Cooley, had started to the Chevy Chase Club with their rackets for another set-to there.

The President spent some time with the Bishop yesterday morning, having taken him for a tramp about the White House lot before breakfast. The Bishop also had luncheon at the White House.

The President was not over-confident on going into the contest which he won Friday and he told the Bishop that he expected to be beaten.

"I am not very strong at this game," he said to the Bishop, "but if I only had you on a horse."

EIGHTEENTH INFANTRY LEAVES.

Leavenworth Regiment Makes Its Third Trip in Nine Years to the Philippine Islands.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) Sept. 29.—The Eighteenth United States Infantry started at 5 o'clock this afternoon for the Philippines, where it will have station for three years.

The regiment is commanded by Col. E. F. Nevis, Gen. Hall having been made commandant of the school at Fort Leavenworth.

The present trip of the regiment to the Philippines is the third in nine years to the islands. The Ninth Infantry will arrive shortly to take the place of the Eighteenth at Fort Leavenworth.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

President Roosevelt last night began the first stage of a journey which will probably combine more features of interest than have been found in any jaunt taken by a national Chief Executive in many years.

Beginning with a day devoted to paying a tribute to the memory of his own former chief, the tour will be extended to the Father of Waters, down which the President will sail to inquire into the worthy deep waterway project (in which the Middle West is deeply interested) and thence to Memphis to attend the waterways convention, the excursion ending in a hunt for bears and deer in the canebrakes of Northern Louisiana.

Today the President will complete the first stage of his journey, and at Canton, Ohio, he will raise his voice in eulogy of his great predecessor, William McKinley, at the dedication of the monument erected to the memory of the martyred President. The event will be a memorable one, and thousands of patriotic citizens will participate in the ceremonies.

Completing his solemn mission at Canton, President Roosevelt will continue westward to the Mississippi River, where he will board an elegant new steamer and, heading a gorgeous aquatic pageant, he will journey down the grand old waterway to St. Louis, which city is preparing to entertain the President as no Chief Executive was ever entertained there before. In the immense reception there will be twenty-three Governors, a hundred United States Senators and Congressmen, two hundred or more officials of many States, the Inland Waterways Commission and a hundred thousand or more visitors, representing scores of cities of the Middle West, all of whom will raise their voices in behalf of the proposed deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. At Memphis the President will be further impressed with the desirability of the project.

With his work at Memphis concluded, the President will call a few days' time his own and devote them to recreation in the form of braving Bruin in his den in the canebrakes of Louisiana; then, refreshed and full of information regarding the needs of an important section of the great republic, back to the desk in the White House and the serious work of guiding the ship of state.

Altogether the journey will demonstrate anew that President Roosevelt is equal to any degree of strenuosity for which he may set the mark, whether he is after bears or mollycoddles.

CALIFORNIA STATE BANKS.

The State Bank Commissioners have been busy for nearly three months making up a carefully arranged statement of the condition of all the banks under their jurisdiction on July 31 last.

From a condensation of the reports of 502 banks it seems that there are 480 banks in California operating under State charter and there are twenty-two private banks which also make reports to the commissioners. Of these, 132 are savings banks and 370 do commercial business. Of the total, fifty-nine are inside of the city of San Francisco and nearly forty in the city of Los Angeles, giving these two cities about 100 out of the 500 in all. The Bank Commissioners say that there is scarcely a town in the State with a population of as much as 2000 which has not one or more of these State banks.

The last report of the commission was issued on April 18. Since then there has been a net gain of two banks. During the interim several banks have retired from business, but others have been put in commission, giving a net increase of two. A recent law requires that no bank, incorporated or private, shall do business in the State with a capital of less than $25,000. The report will show a considerable number of banks doing business on less capital, some having only half the required amount. It is assumed that in such cases the Bank Commissioners have been given reasonable assurance that the increased capitalization will be carried out promptly.

Going back a year to the report issued for August 15, it seems that practically in that year there has been a net increase of forty-five banks, or about four for each month. At the earlier date given here there were 425 incorporated State banks and thirty-four private banks in the State. At that time 122 were savings institutions and 336 commercial. San Francisco then had fifty-two of the total number. There has been but little change numerically in this respect in Los Angeles during the year. Taking the State as a whole, the record shows an increase of seven savings and thirty-four commercial banks. In incorporated commercial banks there was an increase of forty-six and in private banks a decrease of twelve.

These State banks made a new record at the close of 1906, when they reported total resources of $632,988,172 and of private deposits of $500,782,240. This is supposed to be because of the large amount of insurance money and relief funds sent to San Francisco after the great disaster in April of that year. Going back to the date immediately preceding the earthquake and fire, the figures show a gain of $63,000,000 in resources and $61,000,000 in deposits.

This, remember, was the condition at the close of the year 1906. Immediately thereafter there came more or less shrinkage in deposits and resources, owing undoubtedly to a free expenditure of money in the upbuilding of the city of San Francisco. Between December 31, 1906, and April 18, 1907, there was a decrease in resources amounting in round numbers to $8,000,000 and in deposits to a little over $14,000,000. Between the latter date above and the date which the forthcoming report will cover, July 31, 1907, there has been a reduction in the State banks of only $1,600,000 in resources and of about $3,000,000 in deposits. It is believed that this process has now worked itself out and that at the end of the current year the banks will show no further shrinkage.

Comparing August 15, 1906, with July 31, 1907, the forthcoming report will show a net increase for all banks in the State of $16,000,000 in resources and $11,000,000 in deposits.

It will interest real estate men to know the comparison of loans on real estate. During the interval last referred to there was an increase of loans on real estate amounting to $14,000,000 and of loans for other purposes of about $18,000,000. The banks show an increase of $7,000,000 in investments in stocks and bonds. Their cash balances at the present time are about $6,000,000 less than a year ago. This is held to establish the fact that the banks have earnestly endeavored to meet the greatly increased demand made upon them for money by the business interests of the State.

THE UNKNOWN POOR.

The Bishop of London's first message to the millionaires of New York was that they must help the poor. In the sense in which the Bishop meant the message, it was to a certain extent unnecessary, for the reason that New York millionaires do help the poor. They are even lavish in their charities. They have endowed hospitals for the poor, have built homes of refuge for them, they give liberally to settlement work, and in many other ways endeavor with money to put a better aspect on the life of the slums.

This is all very well and all very good, but there is another class of the poor who are entirely overlooked by this system. The poor who expect charity, who look for it and accept it as a matter of course, appear to be cared for with ample sufficiency. They are not allowed to go either hungry or naked. But there is another class who do not stretch out their palms for the alms that are given, however freely and with whatever good will. Where are they, and who are they? And what is being done to help them?

Alas, there are all too many of the unknown poor. They are everywhere and they outnumber, ten to one, the poor who publicly proclaim themselves. Every city in America has hundreds of them, Los Angeles being no exception. They are of all sexes and all ages, and they can be found only where the superficial seeker would think last of looking for them.

We do not hear of these people. They make no outcry; they seek no help. But only the good Lord knows what a struggle some of them are making against despair. These are the people who ought to be looked after, most of all. A millionaire with money to give can give it here with the assurance that he is providing real help where it is wholly deserved. For the support of the public poor every man's house and property is subjected to taxation, but the unknown poor suffer and die with no hand raised to help them.

HOW IT WAS DONE IN OREGON.

Referring to the revolutionary and dangerous legislation of Oregon again, it is exceedingly interesting to inquire how the thing was done. The combination by which this revolutionary Constitution (with its direct legislation features) was passed is significant. There were 62,000 voters in favor of such legislation and only 21,000 expressed their disfavor—a vote of two to one in favor of revolutionizing the Constitution of the State and bringing it in apparently direct antagonism to the Constitution of the United States. Who were these voters?

A former Oregon journalist has thus summarized the story:

The agitation was started by an unknown crank of insignificant personality. His untrained and meager brain was set on fire by what to him was a new discovery in the way of the government of the little Swiss republic. This agitation was at once taken up by the federated trades, the labor councils and Knights of Labor in the city of Portland. The Carpenters' Union first gave its allegiance to the idea, which probably they thought was a brand-new discovery in statesmanship. Next came the Cigarmakers' Union, with their brains filled with nicotine. Then followed the Typographical Union; and so from one labor organization to another the idea swept through the State of Oregon. They contributed money without stint and sent out all over the State 400,000 separate bits of literature urging the voters of the State to take back into their own hands practically all the powers that the old Constitution had lodged in the State Legislature.

The first attempt, which culminated in 1895, failed, and nearly all the active workers fell out of the movement. But about that time Populism swept through the State of Oregon, and in 1897 it elected a Legislature. Then came a fight in the Legislature between the Populists, Democrats and "Silver Republicans" over the election of a United States Senator. The regular Republicans put up for their nominee Senator Mitchell, who recently died, brokenhearted because convicted in the United States courts of crime. Jonathan Bourne formed a combination between the Populists, Democrats and "Silver Republicans," and thus kept the House from organizing. The father of the revolutionary Constitution, although posing as a great reformer, and the only blown-in-the-bottle purist in politics in Oregon, rallied his friends and joined in this deadlock in the Legislature in order to force his revolutionary ideas upon the members in exchange for votes which might elect a United States Senator. The State was kept out of one of its Senators at Washington for a considerable time. The Democrats, Populists, "Silver Republicans" and this Oregon City lawyer, with the queer name of U'Ren, formed this unholy alliance on the battle-cry of "anything to beat Mitchell."

This second attempt was also ineffectual. But nothing terrified, the lawyer started a movement, the Direct Legislation League, which elected a few members to the Legislature in 1899. Their loudest shout was that "the corporations" were all opposed to their ideas and undoubtedly many well-meaning people in the State of Oregon were carried off their feet by that inane battle-cry.

To change the Constitution of Oregon, any amendment had to pass two Legislatures. U'Ren worked upon the Populists and labor unions and Democrats and by this unholy alliance at length succeeded in inducing two out of every three voters in the State to vote for his notions imported from Switzerland.

These facts are worth reiteration and worth remembering. Nearly all the vicious freak legislation, crooked politics and corrupt government that we suffer from in America is traced to just such a coalition as that which carried the new Constitution in Oregon. The modern Democrat, as a rule, is always ready to enter into coalition, however vicious it may be, for any little bunch of votes in sight. The labor-union politicians are always easily induced to enter upon any campaign that will work disturbance and harm. The Populists were always obsessed by every half-baked, new-fangled idea, the last one coming to hand being always most powerful in its influence over their deviously-working minds. Of course the Socialists who follow Johann Most and Emma Goldman are always to be relied upon to help forward any movement that promises revolution.

UNCLE JOE IS ALL RIGHT.

Let Senator Cullom and all Illinois, and as many other Senators and States as will, "whoop it up" for Joseph G. Cannon with all their might. Uncle Joe is certainly a "great gun" in politics, and in the President's office would be no blank cartridge.

In the face of the signs of the times it looks rash for any prophet to be on any side except that of Taft. But it is almost a year before the nomination is made and great changes sometimes sweep over the country. Cannon will have his State, and a worthy "favorite son" he is. Hughes says he is busy performing his duties as Governor of New York, but like the sincere man that he is, he acknowledges that he would not shut the door in the face of a delegation coming to tell him that he had been nominated for the Presidency. It is far from impossible that New York will present the name of her distinguished chief executive to the Republican National Convention. The Keystone State will come in with Knox, and no one knows how many other States will have a first choice. Unless there are votes enough to name a man on the first ballot, there is no guessing how things may break up.

There is one thing sure. With men like Taft, Cannon, Hughes and others in the field, the convention will have big timber enough to choose from. The Republican party will give the country a candidate worthy of the votes of loyal Americans.

All-Alphabet Sentences.

THE INTRODUCTION OF THE "BILLY DONK"

A horrible possibility—of a successful Bryan campaign.

[Minneapolis Journal.]

OUR UNDESIRABLE CITIZENS.

A cocktail is a pleasant drink;
It's mild and harmless—I don't think.
When you've had one, you call for two,
And then you don't care what you do.
—[George Ade in "The Sultan of Sulu."

"Alas, how bitter now the cup,
The dreary draught that galls our nation—
To know that Fairbanks 'set 'em up,'
Unable to resist temptation.
The acrid absinthe we must drink,
A dose without oliv-e-ation!
The wormwood of it—sad to think—
Vice-Presidential degradation!

"Then force it down, unmixed vermouth,
No saccharin, no cheery cherry—
Example bad for all our youth,
That Fairbanks got a bit too merry.
Or was it sap of barleycorn
Or juniper's seductive berry,
We see a populace forlorn—
Oh, woe is Tom and woe is Jerry!

"The punishment must fit the crime,
With him as with the nature-faker,
A bas the lemon and the lime,
A bas the villain cocktail maker!
To Manhattan and Martini death
And eke the sugar and the shaker;
They fire the mollycoddle's breath
And keep alive the undertaker!

"And malefactor every man
Who takes a drink when he's invited!
Behold the only pious plan—
The plan so great that I'm delighted:
America, we'll never hail
In sweet fraternal love united
Till every mixer's sent to jail
And all imbibers are indicted!"

A RECORD YEAR IN TIMBER OUTPUT.

BY WALTER J. BALLARD.

A special bulletin of the Forest Service announces that the past year's production of lumber, lath, and shingles in the United States was the largest ever recorded. A census bulletin recently issues gives 37,500,000,000 feet as the actual cut of the 21,000 reporting mills.

At first these figures indicate an alarming condition—that the country had in the last year cut more than 25 per cent. more than in 1905, in the face of the fast waning supply. The difference is, however, chiefly due to the fact that 21,000 concerns reported their cuts as against less than 12,000 a year ago. The gain is the result of responses from the smaller mills, made because the rank and file of the lumbermen now appreciate that these returns are important to the trade.

If the returns were complete the 1906 cut would probably foot up 40,000,000,000 feet. The figures are alarming enough, taken in connection with our available supply of wood. The total quantity of available American merchantable timber is believed to be less than 2,000,000,000,000 feet. Without forest fires or larger demand, we should have twenty years from now only what our forests have grown in the interval.

Half of our timber supply is west of the Mississippi, while three-fourths of our population live east of the "Father of Waters." The West has in its forests timber to last it for fifty years if its per capita consumption is no greater than that of the country at large, but a developing country always has increasing demands. The East has not enough saw timber of its own to last for fifteen years. To conserve and preserve, therefore, the timber in our national forests is where the work of our Forest Service, under Gifford Pinchot, is so valuable.

In the censuses of 1870, 1880 and 1890 Michigan held first place as a lumber-producing State, but was passed by Wisconsin in 1900, with Minnesota third. In 1904 Washington heads the list, with Wisconsin second, Louisiana third, and Minnesota and Michigan fourth and fifth, respectively. Now, 1906, Wisconsin falls from second to third, and Minnesota from fourth to seventh. Michigan goes to fourth, while Mississippi and Arkansas moved up to fifth and sixth places.

New York, in 1850, led all the States in producing lumber. Ten years later Pennsylvania rose to first place, and new York dropped to second place. In fifty years the lumber production leadership passed from an Atlantic to a Pacific Coast State—Washington.

Washington now stands first among the lumber States, yet the South is supplying more lumber than the West. But the magnificent yellow pine forests of the South are being cut and marketed, just as was done with the white pine forests of Michigan and Minnesota during the thirty years next following.

VIEWS OF VIEWERS.

Bryan's Nomination.

It has long been manifest that the only question concerning Mr. Bryan's candidacy was whether the party was strong enough to prevent his nomination. It is doubtful if it is or really wishes to be. Of course, a "good deal of water will run under the bridge" between now and convention time.—[Indianapolis News.

Who Is Chanler?

For it is not possible that ordinary thinking Americans to take the Chanler movement seriously. Who is Chanler? Try to ascertain, and you will be astonished at the scarcity of information. Notwithstanding his political position he is not mentioned in so catholic a repository of biographical information as "Who's Who." He never even broke into the magazines. William Astor Chanler, Amelie Rives Chanler, John Armstrong Chanler, are all discoverable without a search warrant, but the only available source of information as to Lewis Stuyvesant is the New York official election returns.—[Indianapolis Star.

Not Afraid of Ideas.

It will be odd if Mr. Roosevelt should refuse to perform the act necessary to erect Oklahoma into a State because of innovations and radical provisions in the Constitution. He is not credited with being afraid of new ideas. He looks to the substance, rather than to the niceties of constitutional construction. He is likely to look out across the country to Oklahoma, with its hundreds of thousands of practical, active, ambitious Americans, and to conclude that such a population is entitled to Statehood and as able to guard the jewel of liberty as any other community, east or west.—[Washington Post.

Treaties Must Be Observed.

It must not be forgotten that treaties made pursuant to the Constitution are "the law of the land," and the supreme power of the nation is pledged to maintain and uphold them. States that disregard these pledges endanger their chartered rights, for it cannot be said that the government of a State is republican in form when it permits the mob to usurp its functions for the purpose of oppressing and outraging aliens who are here under the solemn guaranties of the Federal government. The nation is pledged to maintain, and it must and shall maintain, a republican form of government in every State of the Union.—[Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

HOROSCOPE FOR THIS DAY.

Monday, September 30, 1907.

Seek of the earth this day, you shall find; To this the planet's mood is well inclined.

The two hundred and seventy-third day of the year. The moon is twenty-three days old, n apogee and runs high. Saturn is in benefic aspect with it.

A day most promising for all matters connected with the land. It is lucky for transactions even remotely related to the earth, but is at its very best for those who actually touch the soil, particularly farmers and miners.

An excellent day for renting or leasing houses or farms. Deal in real estate this day.

Ask favors. Push all pending matters; but beware of quarrels. There is grave menace in misunderstandings today, pointing even to battle.

An auspicious day for employés, particularly females. Let them be on the alert for opportunity.

Household affairs today will prosper. Bake, try new dishes, hire maids, entertain and start dressmaking. Good luck will attend.

To those whose birthdate this is, the year will bring a lawsuit unless they are unusually cautious and equable.

The boy born today will be very quick in temper, and unless he learns to rule it, will be continually in some kind of trouble and have to struggle for a living. The girl born today must beware of a false friend in whom she will be tempted to confide. She will marry fairly well, and her husband will prosper more each year.

CONCENTRATION OF OUR NAVY

BY M. H. SIGNOR, U.S.N.

The general board of the navy, which Admiral Dewey is president, recently recommended that a large part of the naval forces of the United States should be concentrated. The humiliation of Russia by Japan was due, in part, to the fact that at the moment of outbreak of war, when the Japanese disabled an important part of the Russian fleet at Port Arthur without declaring for a declaration of war, Russia found herself with her naval forces divided into three fleets, each inferior to the Japanese fleet. One of these fleets was in oriental waters, another in European waters, and the third in the Black Sea, whence, in accordance with the Berlin treaty, forced upon Russia by the European powers in 1878, it could not pass to the Mediterranean, and thence to the seat of war.

One does not need to study naval strategy to understand that with a large part of our fleet in the Atlantic and another large part in the Pacific, our armament forces would prove unequal to defend our rights (say at present against the attack of England, France or Germany on the Atlantic side, or against Japan on the Pacific side. So while we court defeat on either side by division, we can probably protect ourselves on one side by a majority of the fleets.

The President has decided that it will be safer to strip the Atlantic coast of its battleships, rather than the Pacific. In fact, there is suspicion that, owing to the lack of the financial means to back up on a war Japan might take advantage of our defenseless position in the Philippines, Hawaii, Panama and Alaska, to San Diego, Cal., in an attempt by force to compel us to open our ports to orientals, as we forced Japan to open her ports to commerce many years ago. The question of fortifying the Panama Canal, and making it neutral, is another matter. Japan will before long show her hand.

Certainly it is a powerful fleet that is to be assembled in the Pacific. There will be eighteen battleships, eighteen armored cruisers, and three protected cruisers—twenty-nine warships of over 10,000 tons. There will be numerous smaller vessels—submarine torpedo vessels, gunboats, colliers, supply vessels, etc. The twenty-nine battleships and cruisers will weigh 600,000 tons (of 2240 pounds.) They will contain 23,300 men and officers. The ships will mount 30 13-inch guns, throwing shells weighing 1100 pounds each; 52 12-inch, with 850-pound shells; 8 10-inch, with 500-pound shells; 8 8-inch, with 250-pound shell; 8 7-inch, with 165-pound shell; 306 6-inch guns, with 100-pound shell, and 1064 guns of smaller calibers. There will be 80 torpedo tubes, of which 24 fire the powerful new long-range 21-inch torpedoes, and the remainder 18-inch.

The crews of the thirty-one battleships will receive, besides their board, $300,000 a month in pay. About one-third this they will save, or use for the support of family dependants, but the remaining $400,000 a month will be spent by various trades and industries on the Pacific Coast and at the ports of call. It is even probable that the Japanese, who are experiencing an unusually severe and serious financial depression, will forget their miniature grievances and welcome the United States fleet. After a protracted visit to Japanese waters there is one thing in which the Japanese excel, it is in making presents that delight the feminine heart. The United States sailor gets no greater pleasure than in bringing tokens home for mother, and sister and for sweetheart.

There has been much idle talk as to what the fleet will do—where it will go next year or the year after. Wherever it goes it seems most likely that it will be needed. It will not be constituted into two or three fleets, but as a unit, not a toy fleet, to be used in sham battles and games. What conditions the navy of future years will bring forth, provident Providence knows. But the admiral who commands the fleet of sixteen battleships sailing from the Atlantic Coast in December to join our forces in the Pacific will, while praying for peace, be spending days and long nights trying to perfect his fleet in the best possible condition for war; and he will be sending home for about twelve thousand patriotic young American seamen. The preparation of battleships, the training of the officers and the men so that all parts will be properly coordinated for efficient action before it becomes necessary, and the strengthening, mental and moral, of the individual man, who will realize that he is an important part of the great force assembled in the Pacific to defend the dignity of this country, allow time for a great national epic. We shall hear tales of the armada and its training en route—yes, and our own affairs at home. I don't think that we are about to have war; but our country should be prepared for war just as if we knew that war was certain. The moral and material effect will be great upon the men and for the fleet, and the people of the country at large will watch with interest the concentration of our navy, and feel more sympathy with the President and the Navy Department and the officers and men, in their efforts to place the United States in a stronger military position.

We need some readjustment in the system of promotion in the navy, so that competent men may arrive at command rank before they are too old for the change from subordinate to responsible, semi-independent duty. We have no naval base of any importance on the Pacific, and we are just beginning to fortify our external possessions, Manila and Honolulu. We have to have a first-class naval base on the Pacific—we need more than one—besides secondary bases in the form of Mare Island is out of the question, but Puget Sound, San Francisco and San Diego are in some ways suitable. The railroad from San Diego up the coast is open to attack by any raiding force. But if San Diego is chosen there is a much better and safer railroad connection than is given by the existing line for supplies and reinforcements. From last Point, at the entrance of San Diego Bay, would have to be removed.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

The management of the Los Angeles Theater is considering an action in the United States Court against the two attendance officers who, on an order from Judge Wilbur, entered the theater and demanded to see Daphne Pollard, on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Lotto said last night: "We have been advised by our attorneys today that the State law does not cover the case of these attendance officers, who are merely functionaries of the city schools, and that they had absolutely no right, order or no order, in our thea- ter.

"Humane Officer Reynolds, we have been informed, would have had such a right. But these fellows are inter- lopers, and delayed our performance forty twenty minutes, thereby creating a technical disturbance.

"If it is possible, we shall proceed against them in the Federal Court. The theater is incorporated under the laws of another State, hence the trans- fer to United States jurisdiction."

William Gillette's lively old farce, "All the Comforts of Home," has a timely presentation at the Burbank this week. In no comedy undertaking of recent months has Morosco's com- pany unloaded itself of so much bolster- ing but spontaneous humor.

The plot of the piece is funny in it- self. Two young men, Alfred Hastings and Tom McDow, undertake to keep apartments having "all the comforts of home." Their diverse lodgers—a down-down music teacher, a jealous man and his second wife, a pretty dancer from the opera comique, a live- ly old produce dealer from the country, with his irascible wife and dainty daughter—these are some of the ten- ants, or would-be tenants.

And as in all of the original Gillette farces, incident comes crashing upon incident, and one merry disaster is scarcely out of the way before another takes its place.

Much of the fun, probably most of it, is incredible, but when well done no improbability is glossed over with smiles and it all goes for the day's en- tertainment.

Thus we have Desmond and Stock- bridge, as the amateur Bonifaces, pum- meling poor Willie Marks all around the room, while giving him strenuous "nerve treatment." He is the crack- brained musician.

John Burton returns from his long vacation to play the wily old merchant. His reception at the opening perform- ance was a favorite's, and the applause was speech-long. John hardly stepped out of the play—"It's a windy day," said he, "but I'm glad I blew in." And the play went on.

Blanche Hall does a startling second as the dancer. There is a momentary flash of the leading lady in delight- fully symmetrical green tights—a mo- ment, but no more.

Elsie Esmond is petite as Evange- line, the impetuous daughter of the merchant, while Margo Duffet has an equally pretty assignment as another young girl. Harry Mestayer has a fine bit of acting in the first act.

"The Strollers," while rather puzzling as to artistic classification, is, no doubt, the liveliest of Healy's offerings at the Los Angeles Theater. It has dash and pep and vim that all his other pro- ductions have lacked—and these strong elements are, no doubt, in great part supplied by the first appearance of a really experienced and finished come- dian, William Blaisdell.

As far as sensible plot is concerned, and rational sequence of incident, "The Strollers" is nearly as bad as many an American musical comedy, notwith- standing its acknowledged adaptation from a German original. But as the present-day audience seems to prefer specialty and "interpolated" scenes and songs, the present mounting should satisfy them, for Blaisdell's self-pat- ented ideas are many and frequent.

In comparing Blaisdell with those who have gone before as principal fun makers of this company, we are not comparing the great with the small, but a good comedian of good average parts with—no comedians at all. None of the men who have played leading comedy parts in Healy's company so far have possessed a spark of the natural talent for fun making. Blaisdell's work last night did not prove him a genius of humor, but it did demonstrate fully that vivacity and inherent wit which the successful comedian must have. He has experience and great resource; has a line of parts he will probably have buried opportunities; not all his scenes were well worked out last evening, but the majority of them were. He will probably "make good" when inaugural nervousness has given place to steady performance.

Alla Hemmi has returned to the company, her voice still bearing just the slightest trace of her recent indis- position, but in general as robust and superbly sure as ever.

Cunningham's fine person is lost to view in a melancholy comedy part, in which, however, he gets a score of good laughs. Once or twice his big stage voice comes out of his masquer- ade make-up in unmistakable, redoubt- able fashion.

Maude Beatty does the first real act- ing of her local engagement, and in her make-up as the German innkeeper is scarcely unrecognizable.

Little Gene Ormond, a vivacious girl, who has livened the choral front line for some weeks, is stepped up a notch to the soubrette role, as Mimi, from the Folies Bergere.

The chorus has grown so large that it nearly knocks the play walls out when it dances, and the orchestra, un- der Von Buechner's admirably exact baton, does good work. The costuming is rich, varied and picturesque.

Bessie Bartlett of the Grand summed up the only possible criticism of the new Harry Thaw play yesterday when he said: "This thing must have been written by the Thaw family's press agent."

The only name of a real man that Mr. Held, concoctor of the nauseous piece, used in writing it is that of Augustus Thomas, playwright, who is appearing in the present instance by Jo- seph De Grasse.

The rest of the principals differ but little. There are "Harold Daw," Stan- ley; "Black," Harold's sister, the "Countess of Weymouth," and his wife, "Emeline Hudspeth."

As a melodrama, even, the thing is more than rotten, for there is no sat- isfactory ending. As an extract of farce, it represents decadence in its most evident form. Harold 'Daw" is amusingly good, a miserable saint who would be a joke even in a Rockefeller Sunday-school class. "Emeline" is a part sullied only by the malodorous atmosphere of slander. Stanford "Black" is a dull skunk, devoid of even the or- dinary graces.

As a fine example of the yellow stage the weary progression is a disgrace to the man who made it and the people who play it.

Charles Gunn, leading man at the Grand Operahouse, concluded there Sunday night and will go to San José. Sterling Whitney is playing the lead this week, and will probably continue over the rest of the company's re- maining few weeks.

Julia Nethersole and her company are due to arrive this morning in a special from Salt Lake City, via the Salt Lake road. The champion the- atrical chaperon, "Charley" Pike, has the party in charge.

The Woman's Orchestra will com- mence rehearsals for the year tomor- row afternon, and thereafter regular weekly rehearsals will be held on that day. A number of new members are desired to complete the full comple- ment of players.

25c, 35c, 45c Ribbons 15c Yard

Here's an unmatchably good ribbon offer for today; unmatchable both as to price and as to quality of the goods concerned. We tie bows free of charge ---artistic bows, such as the novice can't make, too.

Satin and plain taffeta and faille ribbons in plain colors; right for fancy work, millinery and children's hair bows; widths 4 to 6 inches; all colors, together with white and black.

These ribbons sell readily every other day in the year at prices between 25c, 35c and even 45c a yard; today—and today only—they're on sale at 15c a yard.

Novelty Wool Waistings

Here are pleasant friends for women who need separate waists, or for the children whose school dresses ought to include something of the sort:

Wool waistings in plaids, stripes, checks, embroidered effects and plain colors, handsome, light-weight weaves, a yard 75c

Iona flannels, for which we are Los Angeles mill agents, come in plain colors and fancy designs of every sort; they're fast in color and very durable; 29 inches wide, a yard 40c

Viyella flannels, non-shrinkable, all wool, fast color, in broken or even checks, fancy plaids, large and small, and, in fact, nearly every combination that's good this season, a yard 75c

Just Opened! Novelties for Tailoring

They continue the season's harmony of soft, rich shades of browns, greens and grayish blues.

A new suiting has even wide stripes of blue and brown, green and red, red and brown, brown and green, London Smoke and red, and bronze green and gray; unusually beautiful for its price, 44 inches wide $1.50

Another line shows plaids and hairlines in like color combinations; of soft, fine wool, warm, though light weight. 54 inches wide $1.50

The narrower stripes carry out like shade combinations, and cost, likewise $1.50

Fancy stripe broadcloths are among the really new things; we have a splendidly complete line, in bronze green, dregs of wine, Copenhagen, peacock, etc., a yard $2.75

SPECIAL: A line of different stylish weaves in black, for tailored suits, skirts, etc., on sale at $1 a yard; values included up to $2.00

In the Lining Section you may obtain Skinner's satins in two widths—36-inch, $1.50; 27-inch, $1.25; all shades.

Coulter's famous lining satins, herringbone or plain weave, 36 inches wide, yard $1.00

These Are New Silks

The woman who is planning her Fall wardrobe --- and what woman isn't, now---is less at sea to know what is good, than to choose between the many beautiful silks shown.

Probably first in favor come plaids, for waists and whole suits, as well; here they are, foreign and domestic, in all weaves, a yard from 85c to $1.75

Stripe silks in new color effects and weaves are close seconds in favor for suits and waists; a yard—$1, $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75

Among evening silks pompadour brocades and satin surfaced styles, like messalines, peau de cygne, satin Anglais and satin Liberty are the favorites.

Rough pongees, all silk, shown in gold brown, dark brown, Copenhagen, navy and purple, for fall gowns and coats; 27 inches wide; a yard $1.00

Black velvets, 45 inches wide, for mantles and ceremonious gowns—black chiffon, $6, $8 and $9; black pile, a yard.... $10

WIDE SOFT BLACK SILKS

36-in peau de cygne; was $1.75, now.....$1.45
36-in. peau de cygne; was $2.00, now.....$1.65
36-in. peau de soie; was $2.35, now.....$1.85

Robe Blankets Charming Patterns

In a Broadway window we have placed just a few of the beautiful soft patterns that are put out this season for bath robes, wrappers, smoking jackets and house coats. And women who have an eye to the future, will buy now, while the assortments are complete, and the rush for them not so great as later, when everybody wants them to make up into Christmas gifts.

Trimmings for Fall Gowns

Dozens upon dozens of rare and artistic designs are in our Fall displays of dress braids---there is simply no end to combinations and designs. And there's hardly a shade that we can't match. Hear of just a few from many:

Among imported braids there are hand-made embroidery trimmings in chenille effects; vestings with straight or embroidered edges; Persian bands in blues, browns and the odd Japanese patterns and colorings; net effects, Japanese band embroidery, Japanese characters, gold and white bands and appliques.

Soutache braid is immensely popular this season, as any woman who watches the display windows will know. Our stocks were never so complete, which is saying much. Imported black braids to be used on evening coats are here in band effects, made of heavy soutache braid in half a dozen designs. Wide bands of soutache braid in colors are our specialty, and we've a number of patterns and shades that no other store can show.

Among domestic braids for coat trimmings, evening or tailor-made garments, there is a profusion of the choicest shades and combinations.

Ostermoor Mattresses The World's Best

It is already an accepted fact among thoughtful people, that a mattress filled with a contaminating animal matter does not harmonize with the trappings of a clean and wholesome bed, any more than a polluted, smoke-laden atmosphere is in keeping with the surroundings of an otherwise healthful sleeping apartment.

The purity and wholesomeness of the Ostermoor Mattress, which is "built," not stuffed, with a hand-laid sheeted filling, made from a very elastic, germ-proof, dust-proof, vegetable fibre, has been too well demonstrated by repeated severe tests, to need further comment.

It is non-absorbent; you can clean the tick with soap and water, and the filling will remain perfectly dry. Put the mattress out in the sun, and it comes in as good as new.

If some dealer offers you a "just-as-good" mattress, offer him counterfeit money in payment for it. We are sole Los Angeles agents for the Ostermoor, and carry all sizes in stock.

Save on Fall Carpets

Here are the newest Fall patterns in well-known makes of carpets, at prices which are much below those current at the present time. If you've need for anything of the sort, read on carefully:

Following prices include laying, sewing and lining:

Axminster carpets, with borders to match; regularly sold at $1.60 and $1.75, price here $1.20

Best quality Bigelow body Brussels carpet, with border to match; regularly $1.85 ,our price, yard..... $1.45

Tapestry Brussels carpet, with border to match; regularly 75c and 85c, our price, yard 58c

Laying and lining of these not included:

Montana carpet, a reversible moth proof, splendid wearing carpet; on sale this week for, yard 37½c

Ye Olde Fashioned Rag carpet; regularly 40c, this week, yard..... 25c

The few China matting rugs left in stock will be sold at sharp reductions.

Underpriced Linen Handkerchiefs

These offerings from the Handkerchief Section should keep our saleswomen busy; for they're very, very exceptional values, even for us:

Hand-embroidered appanzelle-work handkerchiefs for women, in six different designs; hemstitched by hand, too; regular 75c qualities for 50c

Hand-hemstitched, hand-made lace edged Armenian handkerchiefs; regularly 75c, for, each 50c

Colored handkerchiefs—a very popular novelty just now—shown with colored figures, plaids or borders, and in allover embroidered designs of several sorts; regular 25c qualities for 20c, six for a dollar.

Broken lines of initials in our well-known poppy spray handkerchiefs of sheer linen; regularly 25c, for 20c, or six for a dollar.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

THE MEETING.

They had imprisoned many of the women in one of the stables behind the great yard of the station. So numerous were the captives that the common cells had been full and overflowing long ago. Zanikoff, charged with the command to restore order in the city at any cost, cared not a straw what the world without might say of him. The rifle, the bayonet, the revolver, the whip—here were fine tools and proved. Let but a breath of suspicion frost the burnish of a reputation and he would have that man or woman at the bar, though arrest might cost a hundred lives. Thus it came about that those within the gates were a heterogeneous multitude to which all classes had contributed. The milliner's assistant crouched side by side with the Countess, though she still feared to touch her robe. There were professors' daughters and dockers' wives, ladies from the avenue and ladies from the hovels. And just as in the great arena beyond the walls, so here Pride was the staff of the well-born, prejudice of the weak.

Amid this trembling company, in the second of the stables, the gloom shrouding her from suspicious observation, none noticing so humble a creature, Alban found Lois and made himself known to her. The amiable civilian with his two or three hundred words of English seemed as guileless as a child when he announced Master Zanikoff's message and dwelt upon his honorable master's beneficence.

"You are to see this lady, sir, and to tell her that if she is honest with us we shall do our best to clear her of the charge. She knows that will mean to name the others to us and then for herself the liberty. That is his excellency my master's decision."

"Much obliged to him," said Alban, dryly, and perhaps it was as well that Herr Amiability did not catch the tone of it.

"We have much prisoner," the good man went on, "much prisoner and not so much prison. That is as you say a perplexity. But it will be better; later in the time after. Here is the girl, this is the place."

He bent his head to enter the stable and Alban followed him, silently for very fear of his own excitement. There was so little light in the place that he could scarcely distinguish anything at first, nothing, indeed, but great beds of straw and black figures huddled upon them. By and by these took shape and became figures of women of all ages and types. Many, he perceived, were Jewesses, dark as night and as mysterious. Their clothes were poor, their attitude courageous and quiet. A Circassian, whose hair was the very color of the straw with which it mingled, stood out in contrast with the others. She had lately been flogged and the clothes, torn from her bleeding shoulders, had not been replaced. Near by, the wife of a professor at the University, young and distinguished and but yesterday welcomed everywhere, sat dumb in misery, her eyes wide open, her thoughts upon the child she had left. Not among these did Alban find Lois, but in the second of the great stalls still waiting its complement of prisoners. He wondered that he found her at all, so dark was this place, but a sure instinct led him to her and he stopped before he had even seen her face.

"Lois dear, I am sure it is Lois."

She started up from the straw, straining wild eyes in the shadows. Awakened from her sleep when they arrested her, she wore the dress which she had carried to her haven from the school, quite plain and pretty, with linen collars and cuffs in the old-fashioned style. Her hair had been loosely plaited and was bound about her like a cord. She rested upon the palms of her hands turned down to the pavement. There was but one other woman near her, and she appeared to be asleep. When she heard Alban's voice, she cried out almost as though they had struck her with the whip.

"Why do you come here?" she asked him wildly. "Alban, dear, whatever made you come?"

He stepped forward and kneeling down in the straw he pressed his cold lips to hers and held them there for many minutes.

"Did you not wish me to come, Lois?"

She shivered, her big eyes were casting quick glances everywhere, they rested at last upon the woman who seemed to sleep almost at her feet.

"They will hear every word we say, Alb, dear. That woman is listening, she is a spy."

"I am glad of it, she can go and give her master a message from me. Tell me, Lois, do not be afraid to speak. You knew nothing of Count Zamoyski's death. Say that you knew nothing."

She cowered and would not answer him. A dreadful fear came upon Alban. She began to tremble and could not keep his hands still upon her shoulders.

"Good God, Lois, why do you not speak to me. I must know the truth, you didn't kill him."

She shrank back, laughing horribly. The pent-up excitements of the night had broken her nerve at last. For an instant he feared almost for her reason.

"Lois, Lois dear, Lois, listen to me; I have come to help you. I can help you. Lois, will you not hear me patiently?"

He caught her to him as he spoke and pressed her burning forehead to his lips. So she lay for a little while, rocked in his arms as a child that would be comforted. A single ray of sunshine filtered through a slit in the wall above, dwelt for a moment upon her white face and showed him all the pity of it.

"Lois, why should you speak like this because I come to you? Is it so difficult to tell the truth?"

"Did they tell you to ask me that, Alban?"

"It was forced from me Lois, I don't believe it. I would as soon believe it of myself. But don't you see that we must answer them. They are saying it, and we must answer them."

She struggled to be free, half resenting the manner of his question, but in her heart admitting its necessity.

"I knew nothing of it," she said simply, "you may tell them that, Alban. If they offered me all the riches in the world, I could not say more. I don't know who did it, dear, and I'd never tell them if I did."

A little cry escaped his lips and he caught her close in his arms again. It was not to say that he had believed the darker story at which imagination, in a cowardly mood, might hint, but this plain denial, from the lips of Lois who had never told him a lie, came as a very message of their salvation.

"You have made me very happy, Lois," he said, "now I can talk to them as they deserve. Of course, I shall get you out of here. Mr. Gessner will help me to do so. We have the whip hand of him all said and done, for don't you see, that if you don't tell your people, I shall, and that will be the end of it. Of course, it won't come to that. I know how he will act, and what they will do when the time arrives. Perhaps they will bundle us both out of Russia, Lois, thankful to see the back of us."

She shook her head, looking up to him with a wild face.

"I would not go, Alb dear. Not while my father is a prisoner. Who is there to work for him, if I don't? No, my dear, I must not think of it. I have my duty to do whatever comes. But you, it is different for you, Alban, you would be right to go."

He answered her hotly with a boyish phrase, conventional but true.

"You would make a coward of me, Lois," he said, "just a coward like the others. But I am not going to let you. You left me once before; I have never forgotten that. You went to Russia, and forgot that we had ever been friends. Was that very kind, was it your true self that did so? I'll never believe, unless you say so now."

She sat a little apart from him, regarding him wistfully as though she wondered greatly at his accusation.

"You went to live in another world, dear, and so did I. My father made me promise that I would not try to see you for six months, and I kept my word. That was better for you and better for me. If money had changed you, and money does change most of us, you would have been happier for my silence. I have told you about the letters, and that's God's truth. If I had not been ashamed, I couldn't have kept my word, for I loved you, dear, and I shall always love you. When my father sent you to Mr. Gessner's house, I think he wished to find out if his good opinion of you was right or not. He said that you were going to carry a sword into Wonderland and kill some of the giants. If you came back to us, you were to marry me, but if you forgot us, then he would never believe in any man again. There's the truth for you, my dear, I tell you because it all means nothing to me now. I could not go to London and leave my father in prison here, and they will never release him, Alban, they will never do it as things are, for they are more frightened of him than of any man in Russia. When I go away from here, it will be to Petersburg to try and see my father. There's no one else in all the world to help him, and I shall go there and try to see him. If they will let me stay with him, that will be something, dear. You can ask them that for me; when Mr. Gessner writes, you can beg it of the Ministry in Mr. Gessner's name."

"Ask them to send you to prison Lois?"

"To send me to my father, dear."

(To be continued tomorrow.)

"Alban, dear, whatever made you come?"

At the Churches Yesterday.

The Dead Sister.

At the morning service in Temple Baptist Church Pastor Robert J. Burdette spoke of the death of his sister Miss Mary G. Burdette, of Chicago, corresponding secretary of the Women's Baptist Home Mission Society. "Her life as one long, beautiful consecration," he said. "If ever she had a thought for herself, I never heard it phrased in speech. Her daily prayer was 'strength for service.' One of my earliest memories shows me to myself, a tiny boy, in the nine years when all the world was morning time, safe, and oh so happy in Mary's 'little mothering,' she scarce two years the older. She was a child when she was baptised in Peoria Lake, by her pastor, now President Henry G. Weston, of Croser Theological Seminary. She was 16 years old when she was graduated from the Peoria High School. And she entered upon her calling as a school teacher, that same year, teaching in the public schools. She was the eldest of a family of nine children. She was about 22 when our mother passed on into the life everlasting, with a little life nestling in her arms, crying in the loneliness of this great big world—always so big and lonesome without the mother.

"And Mary mothered all the family, still keeping charge of her school. The great loving heart in her little body was a kindergarten. For years she taught two primary classes in Peoria churches every Sunday—a morning class in the First Baptist Church, numbering twenty-five or thirty children, and an afternoon class in Calvary Presbyterian Mission, of 120 pupils—the mission founded by William Reynolds, which is now Cavalry Church, strong and useful and prosperous. And she didn't know then and she doesn't know now, which of the little ones she loved most dearly. It seems to me her sweetest welcome in heaven must have been the little children who ran to clasp her bended neck in their arms while they covered her cheeks with their kisses as they used to do. We used to think that every child in the city knew her and loved her. Many times have we said to her 'You will kill yourself with all this overstrain. You are not everybody's mother.' And her answer was the ready laugh—for she laughed as easily and as often as a child—It is the fulfillment of prophecy—'more are the children of the desolate than the children of the married life, saith the Lord.'

"Her love for the children expanded into a great love for the mothers. For a short time she edited the Jacobs Sunday School publications in Chicago, and then, with its organization, entered into the service of the Women's Baptist Home Mission Society, with headquarters in Chicago, as preceptress of the Training School and Corresponding Secretary. The fibers of her mind and heart and soul were interwoven with the work of this society. It was her very self. Holding it in her arms, she might have repeated the words of her Master: 'Behold my mother and my brethren! This is my brother, and my sister, and my mother!' How she loved the Truth—the sweet, white, sacred Truth. She knew nothing about this new-found idea that in the Truth there may be two shades of gray. She only knew that Truth was whiter than the snow on Hermon, gleaming in summer sunshine. And she had never to compare that with any shade of gray. She spoke the truth. And she loved—her love-hungry heart loved for the very Christ joy of loving.

"Two thousand miles from here she sleeps in 'sinless, stirless rest—the change which never changes.' Yet 'Sunnycrest' is so quiet and so lonesome—as though she had passed from our own doors into the portals of everlasting peace and rest. Whenever her presence has blessed a home with the sweetness of her companionship and ministry, she is thus missed, for all that house is filled with 'the odor of the ointment' which she poured on broken lives and sorrowing hearts. Every day of her life of blessing and service gleams like a pearl in a rosary of prayer. Her beautiful memory shines backward from her grave like a radiant sunset, illumining our tears of sorrow with rainbows of hope. Her voice, always attuned to faith and codrage, comes back to us like tender echoes of old time love—songs, drifting into the heart on twilight tides of memory. She made her life a ministry of love and light; and 'Death hath made his darkness beautiful with her.'"

Acquaintance With God.

At the First Christian Church, yesterday morning, the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. C. Smither, preached upon "Acquaintance With God," from the words: "Acquaint thyself with Him and be of peace; and thereby good shall come to thee."

"This scripture," said the speaker, "wonderfully comprehends the whole of Christian duty. Paradoxical as it may seem, man is enjoined to get acquainted with God. General avenues of approach to the divine are opened. Nature opens a volume in the great books of Revelation where man may properly study God's method of conducting the affairs of this world. The geologist reads a record of God in the rocks. The biologists follow in his pathway among the vital forces of life.

"No man knows God truly who has not devoutly read the book of nature. God may be found in the record of His dealings with the race, as portrayed in the word of God; for this book is but a small part of God's dealing with the race in the past by which man has been lifted up toward God and shared in His divine nature. The footsteps of the Eternal may be seen very clearly upon the pages of the Book Divine.

"Men come into the most intimate fellowship and acquaintance with God through the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of God. He is God manifest in the flesh that we, who are in the flesh, may be fashioned in the divine image. All these avenues of approach to God serve their true purpose only as they lead men to a personal touch with God, as they separate Him from the law and base.

"Such acquaintance with God brings its blessings to man. Through it men come to peace with God. Their relations to God are harmoniously adjusted. They enter into that richness of spirit and life that come only to the child full of infinite love and trust for the Father. Christ gives such peace as the world can never give.

"On the eternal hills of God we shall plant our feet and sing the songs of our Zion. Who would be deprived of such riches? Who would deprive himself of such acquaintances? Who would be poor when he could be rich? Who would perish with hunger when he could be filled for the asking?"

Absurd Anticipations.

At the First Presbyterian Church yesterday, Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage, D.D., preached on "Absurd Anticipations," taking as his text: "Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." In the course of his remarks, he said:

"These words are a timely warning to those who are slowly, yet surely, allowing the fatal coils of an evil habit to entwine about them. Timely, because these poor deluded victims seem to be going to their destruction with wide-open eyes, as an ox to the slaughter. But somehow they feel that no matter how deep their feet may be sinking into the quicksands, nor how thick the slimy seaweeds may be wrapping themselves about the swimmer's body, yet they can come safe to land and break loose from their evil habits whenever they will. Now, my friend, I would tell you that an evil habit, instead of growing weaker with age, grows stronger. If an evil habit has you in a tight clutch today, it will have you in a tighter vise tomorrow. It is folly for a man to say, 'I will break away from this evil habit tomorrow.' If you cannot break away from that evil habit today, you cannot tomorrow. If you are not willing to break away from an evil habit today, in all probability you will be weaker still tomorrow. The law of the increasing moral weakness of the wrongdoer, and the increasing strength of an evil habit, is irrevocable.

"We say, 'Tomorrow we will change. Now just one more glass, one more carousal.' But each intoxicating cup, each debauch, each yielding to sin, renders us more and more helpless to fight sin. My brother, if you do not conquer your evil habits today, you will not conquer them tomorrow. If you cannot put out a spark today, you cannot quench the great conflagration. If you do not step on the smouldering fuse, you cannot sniff out a gunpowered magazine after the explosive has reached it. Now is the time for you to get your emancipation from that destroying, debasing, evil habit. Now, now, now, Oh, the importance of that infinite word now.

"Do not bank too much upon the temporal successes of the future. Do not count too surely on a long earthly life. Because you are living in a palace on 'Easy Street,' do not spend your time planning what you will do in your gardens for next summer. Your future is all surrounded by fogs and mists. Within twenty-four hours your whole life may be changed. 'Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth.'

"If it is necessary to be careful with our earthly opportunities, how much more is it essential for us to be careful of our heavenly opportunities. I warrant that there is not among us all one who intends to ultimately refuse the offer of eternal salvation. But this is such a busy world; it is filled with such busy people; the engagements of life press themselves upon us with such overwhelming numbers, that we are apt to postpone the greatest of all questions—the eternal destiny of our immortal souls. We intend to take the matter up tomorrow or the day after tomorrow; but somehow that tomorrow never comes. Now, my brother, I want to drive this question home. Will you here and now make up your mind what you will do with Jesus? Will you make up your mind today? Remember, tomorrow may be too late, for then the time may have come when Jesus will have decided what He will do with you."

Barrenness of Pretense.

At the First United Presbyterian Church, yesterday morning, Rev. Dr. W. W. Logan took for his theme the story of the barren fig tree.

"This," he said, "stands out strikingly among all the miracles of Christ as a miracle of wrath and judgment. In all the others He showed Himself as one who went where sickness was that He might heal it, where sorrow was that He might remove its cause, where death was that He might restore to life. This was the only miracle which was not preeminently an act of benevolence and love. It brings home to us the fact, which we too often forget, that the tender, loving and compassionate Savior is also our judge. It is an object lesson to show us how our Lord hates pretense, and how abominable it is in the eyes of God.

"The fig tree pretended by its greenness of leaf that it had fruit. We must remember that in our lives character is the fruit, while creed is the leaf. This does not mean that it makes no difference what a man's belief is so long as his acts are right. It is possible for us to hold truth as an intellectual belief and not as a principle of our lives, changing, molding and strengthening character. We may hold to orthodox truth and yet not allow that truth to have any vital power over us. Men may know intellectually and yet not crystallize knowledge into conduct. We merely pretend to believe unless we make that belief a part of our very being.

"Science tells us that the momentum of a moving body is measured by its mass multiplied by its speed. The power of our lives is measured by correct thinking multiplied by moral purpose. It takes the two to make spiritual momentum. If the thinking is good but lacks purpose, we have small results. It is only a pretence. There are a great many Christian people who have a great deal more speed than power.

"Most men have a desire to do what is right, but desire is only the leaves of the fig tree. Decision is the fruit. There are few of us who do not desire the best things, but there are also few of us who are willing to pay the price. We do not deliberately eliminate the things that stand in the way of our attaining our desires. We wish for spiritual power and spiritual strength, and feel that we really deserve credit, because of our upright and holy desires, but if desire is the end, it is mere pretense, nothing but leaves.

What Our Church Is For.

At the First Congregational Church, yesterday morning, Rev. William Horace Day preached on "What Our Church Is For." The experiences of a woman reporter in the East and the replies to her criticisms suggested the topic. After stating that the reporter visited 150 city churches, Dr. Day said:

"Her object was to test their welcome to strangers. The reception was so far from effusive as to recall the saying 'If ever the North Pole is discovered it will be in a city church.' In the quest of the woman we find one idea of the purpose of the church; in the replies by those criticised we find another. The reporter assumed that the first purpose of the church is to afford social fellowship. On this basis the New York churches have been weighed and found wanting.

"Pastors and editors gave different replies. 'These implied criticisms are unfair and unjust.' 'All who go to church are not looking for sociability.' 'Too many join the church for social advantage.' One pastor said the social ideal would not be possible or desirable because modern social conditions have greatly changed from those in the early church. Another reply was sincere worshipers do not seek human fellowship, they appreciate the gentle courtesy of being let alone.' Which view is right? Is the church for worship or for social fellowship? The true test should be found in the Testament.

"The church is the Body of Christ, which means that it should incarnate the life of Christ in the world. Its business is to realize the divine, the ageless life. In the seventeenth chapter of John we find Jesus' principle of His own life and so of the life which the church is to reveal. 'For their sakes I sanctify myself.' He said: 'I sanctify. I culture my own spirit into fellowship with God.' This is the worship motive: 'For their sakes,' is the social motive.

"Jesus came teaching men how to pray, and so should the church. He came no less teaching men to love one another, a neighborless which disregarded caste lines. The choice of the Samaritan to represent the right kind of a neighbor make the social fellowship of the Christian man most striking. Neither priest nor Levite had a right to pass on the other side. In the judgment sense a man was a spiritual failure not because he had failed to worship beautifully but because he had not welcomed the stranger. We are rapidly developing a beautiful and reverent worship in our churches, but the true spirit of fraternity is sometimes lacking.

"There is a right and Christian self interest. If not that Christianity leads a man to forget his duty to himself but it subordinates that duty to the more blessed one of duy to others. How clearly the balance in Jesus' teachings drops to the side of self-forgetfulness. His own spiritual culture, His precious fellowship with His father is for the unselfish purpose of bringing it to others. On this basis we must test the life of our own church, remembering that 'if any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His.'"

SONS OF REST.

TOIL NOT, BUT SPIN—YARNS.

Hobo Scouts Arrive; "Just Lookin' Around."

Advance Guard of Army That Will Come Later.

Bo John Outlines Dimly Life in Trampdom.

Bo John and Clo-foot Paul, two of the advance delegates to the great annual conclave of the "Sons of Rest," which is held in Southern California every winter, arrived in the San Fernando Valley yesterday.

This pair of tramps belongs to that great body of men who do no work. They spend their summers in the North and East, and their winters in the warmer climes. They are among those who "go before" and look over the ground for the horde that will come later. They travel together, hold their place in the ranks of trampdom by means of their long experience on the road and their superior ability in marking out the pleasant places for those who live to work.

Bo John secured a workless job early in the afternoon at a ranch house not far from Burbank, and near the Southern Pacific line, for reasons best known to himself. This job consists of watching a bunch of cows that range along the river bed, and entails nothing more difficult than keeping a leather eye open for stragglers. John has "worked" for this rancher every winter for the past ten years, and has lived like a king while "Bob," the rancher's dog, who has been trained to chase the stragglers back into the herd, does the real labor.

Clo-foot Paul, so called from a peculiarity in his walk, came on to Los Angeles, "just to look around." If you are to keep track of this sorry-looking specimen of humanity, who always seems to be on the verge of a collapse, but who can walk thirty miles a day with ease, you would find that he spends the whole winter "just lookin' around."

"Just lookin' round" is Clo-foot's specialty, and it is doubtful if he misses anything that promises something in the way of a place to sleep or something to eat. He will spend all winter wandering around, "sizing" things up, and reporting to Bo John every few days. Bo John is the man to whom every regular tramp who comes in over the Southern Pacific from the north, reports.

INFORMATION BUREAU.

He will tell them the places to avoid, the nearest road to the "hand-out district," and all the changes that have been made since last year, information without which no tramp can expect to winter in Southern California without spending most of his time on the county or city chain gang.

There are several other pairs of kings in Southern California, whose business is to look after the fellows who come in over the Salt Lake, Santa Fé and the El Paso line of the Southern Pacific.

Bo John felt talkative yesterday, and was willing to impart all kinds of information to an eager questioner who didn't know much about tramps. It was noticeable that along certain lines he failed to show even canine intelligence, so it is easy to guess that he didn't tell anything very important.

"We had a swell trip," said Bo, by way of introduction. "Came right through from Butte, Mont., with a consignment of furniture. 'Course you know we wasn't mentioned on the bill of lading."

Any one who thinks that John cannot talk without using the slang expressions common to hobodom is mistaken. He can talk all day without using as much slang as an average high school girl would use in five minutes, but on occasion he drops into a language known only to the "yeggs," which is so abstract that it sounds like a foreign tongue to the uninitiated.

"YEGG" DIALECT.

Here is a sample of the real "yegg" dialect as spoken by Bo: "Never cotton to a gump in the C. L., as you never can pipe a plainer from a bo in two times. Why, even Clo-foot tried last trip as a wedge and was hung for ten. He glued a gump in the can and ran chock a plainer with it in his mit, did a duck, and landed in the claw of a harness bull who clouted him."

Here is the translation:

"Do not try to steal a chicken inside the city limits of a big town because a sleuth can tell a plain-clothes officer from another tramp these days. Why, even Clo-foot tried it last trip as an experiment and was jailed for ten days. He stole a chicken in a yard where he was not familiar with the lay of the land and ran unexpectedly into a detective while carrying it in his mit, escaped by strategy when he was caught by a uniform policeman who took him in and prosecuted him."

"This will be a good year for the boys," continued John. "According to what I could gather up along the way, there will be at least 10,000 who will winter in the winter months this side of the Rockies and south of the snow line."

Then he went on to explain that as conditions were prosperous for the working classes, so were they good for tramps.

"You see its lots better now than in the hard times, because in hard times there are a lot of fellows on the road who are not bo's, fellows that are just down on their luck and are willing to do anything to get a start. This makes it hard for us because they are willing to earn their bread by working their way off for it, and we fellows have to get out of follow their lead, and its no fun. As it is now all these fellows get jobs and the road is left clear for the bo's.

POOR JOHN ABASHED.

"Oh, this isn't real work," said John, somewhat abashed at being confronted after having secured a job as soon as he reached the valley, "this is just a soft job. You see I have to stay around here to tip off the boys as they come in and if I didn't have a visible means of support the constable would run me on his very first raid."

When asked what he received as pay for doing the steering act for the rest of the hobos, John said: "Well, you see I do not take me for, I ain't no bum. I stand in on any little jobs—say enough to say that he "stood in" when the plunder was divided after any petty thefts, or big ones, which are not so common as some of the hobos are quite crackers.

"The coming of winter is the signal for a declaration of war between the hobos and the railroad men. Relations between these two classes are becoming more and more strained every year. A hobo could ride all the way from Frisco to Los Angeles inside a freight car for less than it cost to buy transportation for 100 miles, but those days have passed. The railroad companies have put an end to the "bo craft," as it is called. They have spotters in the guise of tramps and now a tramp is kicked off at the first stop.

WAR TO THE KNIFE.

This has caused ill feeling on the part of the tramps and now it's a constant battle on every run across the desert. Of late years things have come to such a pass that the letting of blood is a common occurrence. Many a tramp is found dead beside the railroad tracks and is buried out on the line, whose name never appears on the official records of the dead, and no small number of railroad brakeman are laid up for temporary repairs each winter.

The trainmen are armed with guns, as are the tramps, and many a pitched battle is fought on the grades east of San Bernardino, and north of the San Fernando tunnel.

Although Bo John says that 10,000 tramps are coming to spend the winter in Southern California and Arizona, he knows Los Angeles will not see many of them as they avoid the big cities because of the risk of being "taken in" and of having to work on the chain gang.

Los Angeles feels their presence, however, the instant bad weather sets in for, although they prefer to sleep out of doors with nothing over them but the sky, they take to shelter when its wet or cold. Shelter means coming to town, and coming to town means that they have to "cut out" begging, which, in turn, means that they have to steal. The police records show that robbery increases nearly 100 per cent. during bad weather.

The enthusiastic seeker after information secured fairly good pictures of Bo John and Clo-foot, without their being any the wiser, and then he departed.

"So long," said Bo, "remember our motto and when you get tired of bucking frenzied finance, why come on in and try it, cause the water's fine. It's—toil not."

CASTLES IN AIR.

CALVE BECOMES OUR BOOSTER.

PRIMA DONNA TAKES NEW TACK IN PUBLICITY.

Wants Her Peasants to Migrate to Southern California, and Tells Enchanting Tales of the Fabulous Palace of Art Treasures She Proposes to Build Here.

Mme. Calve's scheme for self-advertisement has taken a new turn; for may years she has been well-known to western people as the patron of the prodigy. In fact, she has heralded a new prodigy on each concert tour, until, like the little sheep-tender who continually cried "Wolf! wolf!" her hearers have quite recovered from their alarm.

Her newest idea is of more general interest, however, for she holds herself the chief booster of Southern California.

She wants the workingmen of France, and especially the poor agriculturists, to emigrate to western soil and find the haven of productiveness for which, in their overworked lands, they have so long searched in vain.

"California possesses everything that is required, as far as the essentials of land and climate go, for the making of the finest wines. I have never seen such dormant possibilities as are evinced in the southern part of the State. My peasants have grown grapes for generations, and could supply the experience—the country furnishing everything else needful.

"They would all live better there, as do most of the workmen who come from Europe. They would have things that they cannot have now, and the little comforts that are dear to the heart and home of every man. These people are so dear to me that it is but natural that I should wish to see them better off."

In France—be her advanced press-agentry as arduous as it may in America—she is probably known to a much wider circle of non-musical folk than to people within the realms of art.

She is one of the most-loved persons in the province of Chevennes, and in the foothills of the Pyrenées she has renovated an ancient chateau. She has been the foremost champion of the distressed wine growers. While others wept, she worked, and did much to relieve the suffering occasioned by riots, enacted laws, and other matters.

Aside from her generous advertisement for Southern California, Mme. Calve promises to build a castle somewhere in the mountains between Fresno and Death Valley—perhaps—and will remove her whole household there—another perhaps.

A New York dispatch says: "With the art treasures that she has accumulated in her chateau, her new home in California will be made beautiful. It will be unlike any other home in the world, except it be the one in France, for Calve is original, even in the furnishing of her art house. From all over the world her art treasures have come, and her home is one of the most interesting that has ever been put together. With her land procured in California, a new place will be found for her diverse activities, and it is safe to say that the palace in planning will be erected along unique lines."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

SCIENTIST TELLS OF HIS FAITH.

DESCRIBES IT AS GENTLE AND PURE RELIGION.

Lecturer of First Church, Boston, Explains That Spread of Mary Baker Eddy's Belief Is Due to Fact That It Meets Human Needs. Large Audience.

Rev. Arthur L. Vosburgh of Rochester, N. Y., a member of the board of lecturers of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, delivered an address yesterday afternoon in the Auditorium on some of the main articles of faith of the Christian Scientists. The audience filled every available seat in the body of the house, and several hundred persons sat on the platform. The speaker was introduced by Porter Bowles Jordan, reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of this city, as a former Presbyterian clergyman who had deserted dogmas and creeds for the earnest faith of the followers of Mary Baker Eddy.

Rev. Mr. Vosburgh began his address by stating that, forty years ago, there was but one Christian Scientist, Mary Baker Eddy, while today there are hundreds of thousands of believers. He explained that the belief had spread because of its response to a human need. It developed the ideals of Jesus into practical helps for humanity.

Mrs. Eddy was referred to as a woman who first healed herself through faith in prayer. After three years of study and contemplation, she discovered a positive rule of faith, which, later, she gave to the world.

"Mrs. Eddy discovered that the effect of drugs was measured by the amount of faith in the drug. She learned that pills with practically no medication would serve the purpose of strong drugs and that it rested in the thought of the patient whether he or she would receive benefit. This wonderful woman learned that all causation is mind and every mental effect, a phenomenon. If spirit is the cause and creation is the effect, creation must be spiritual.

"To find the meaning of anything, one must find the explanation in the mind. Right thinking begets right living. The human will must yield to the divine will. All is infinite mind. Life, truth and love are the real factors in the control of existence. Man stands as an exponent of unlimited power. Evil is only the manifestation of activity of wrong human belief. The only power of evil is the universal belief in its power. By right thinking, one comes into right relations with thought center-God."

The speaker said Christian Science was often misunderstood and ridiculed because of ignorance of its scope and power. It was compared to the wonderful inventions that were once believed impossible. Often the inventors were laughed at, if not actually maltreated.

The lecturer declared that it was eminently fitting that a religion so gentle, pure and mild, should have been formulated by a woman, and he paid high tribute to Mrs. Eddy as the founder and head of the church.

In conclusion, he said that the study of the Bible, supplemented by close perusal of "Science and Health," would bring one into right relations with the world and with God.

NOVEL.

MILITARY-LIKE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

ORGANIZED INTO A REGIMENT FOR RALLY DAY.

Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee Addresses the Temple Baptist Workers, and Says When United States Goes to War With Japan It Will Be Necessary to Recruit Regiments from Women.

"When the United States goes to war with Japan—which we probably will not do for many years—it will be necessary to recruit the regiments from women, as your own Sunday-school has done, for men are not enlisting in the army as formerly, I see."

So said Lieut.-Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, U.S.A. (retired,) in a spirited address before the Sunday-school of the Temple Baptist Church yesterday morning. It was the rally day of the school, and the superintendent, Mr. Woodruff, had arranged the programme on a novel military basis, and invited Gen. Chaffee to make the address. All the officers of the school were given military titles, while the classes were known as companies, composing battalions and a regiment, and so on. Special music was a feature, while a bugler from a local company of the Seventh Regiment sounded several army calls during the course of the morning.

"That call which the bugler sounded just before I spoke," said Gen. Chaffee, in opening his address, "is what is known as 'The General,' and is played just before breaking up camp. It reminds me that I feel like a Russian general today. For I know that a Russian general always addresses his troops as 'My children.' But this is one of the funniest and yet most beautiful regiments I have ever seen. For there are more girls and women in your regiment today than there are men or boys." Then followed the general's striking statement about recruiting war regiments from women. Throughout the general was listened to with rapt attention by the little people and their older friends.

"This morning while I was riding down to the church raking my head fore and aft and sidewise to find this address I was to give you, I happened to think of 'dope,' as we call it in the army."

Gen. Chaffee then told of some army experiences brought to his mind by thinking of this "dope," or axle grease, as civilians are wont to term it. He described the jokes which some of his military friends played on each other, and advised his young listeners to keep their hands clean. He also related how he and a friend shot 293 turkeys early one morning at Sheridan's Roost, or camping place.

"A sunny day is the best for breaking up camp," he continued, "for then every one is feeling good; and the cook's temper is not a few degrees higher than the fever point, as on a disagreeable day. When breaking up camp, do not roll up into your pack of accouterments any bad deeds, which will mildew the whole pack, as wet canvas does. The short march ahead of you each day is your daily duty. The hour is the hour of 9 a.m.—the hour of duty. When pitching camp use the hammer of courage, and your construction will be of the best architecture."

The Sunday-school attended church in a body after the rally day service, and listened to a sermon by Pastor Burdette, especially for the children. During the service seven candidates were baptized in the "Jordan baptistery."

DIES ON TRAIN.

Los Angeles Man Was in Good Health When He Left This City Thursday.

Albert A. Bailey, who left Los Angeles Thursday evening for Phoenix, Ariz., to take charge of the power plant for the street railway company of that place, died on the Santa Fé train Saturday, and was taken from the train at Williams, Ariz., where his body is held.

Mrs. Bailey, who, with her eight-year old daughter, resides at No. 1634 Flower street, and who came to Los Angeles for her health, is prostrated by the shock, and deeply perplexed by the lack of particulars as to her husband's death.

The Baileys came to Los Angeles several weeks ago from Lafayette, Ind., where Mr. Bailey had been engaged for several years in railroad work. He was apparently in perfect health when he left Los Angeles on Thursday night, and in the regular course of his plans he should have left the main line Santa Fé train at Ash Fork; but the telegraph messages state that his body was on the train until it reached Williams.

The report of the Santa Fé conductor states that the cause of Bailey's death is unknown, and there have been no other particulars obtainable so far by the family. It is probable the body will be brought to Los Angeles for interment.

BUSINESS NORMAL.

Delay Restrictions on Account of Telegraph Operators' Strike Have Now Been Removed.

Quite a number of unfortunate telegraphers, hoodwinked into leaving their keys and going on strike recently, realize now, if ever, that their cause was hopeless from the start. Even the temporary embarrassment is now ended.

Last evening Superintendent F. H. Lamb of the Western Union made official announcement that the delay restriction upon the receipt of messages is lifted and that business is again in its normal condition between all points in Oregon, California, Nevada and Arizona.

"We are also prepared to handle promptly business with all important offices in Washington, Idaho and British Columbia," says Superintendent Lamb.

The keys are clicking merrily.

While P. A. Long, a machinist residing at No. 1515 San Pablo street, was repairing a pipe at the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company's plant last night, a wrench broke and he sustained a severe laceration of the hand. He went to the Receiving Hospital for treatment.

DR. MILES, Master Specialist.

$10.00 MY FEE

I Cure All Uncomplicated and Acute Cases for $12.50

You Pay When Cured

Those in any trouble suffering from VARICOCELE, HYDROCELE, BLOOD POISON or any other disease tending to destroy and disfigure and to render happiness impossible, are urged to call upon me without delay. Those wasting valuable time dissipating their money and aggravating their ailment by submitting to indirect, ineffectual, unscientific treatment that never did and never can cure, are invited to visit me and investigate my successful system. I positively guarantee results in all curable cases and frankly refuse to accept any other class, if for any reason it is too late to guarantee a cure.

Varicocele

I have a treatment for men's weakness which is entirely out of the line of the stimulants and tonics which for a long time was the only help that physicians had to offer for such condition. Being all the treatment known to the ordinary physician, and all that was mentioned in medical text books from which such disorders were studied, its frequent failure to give help caused many honest and well-meaning physicians to admit that there was nothing to help a man whose virile power was declining. But by exhaustive studies in the specialties of men's weakness proves exclusively to me that this class of disorder in about nine cases out of ten is due to an affection of the nerves of the prostate gland, or to a disturbance of the blood supply in this important organ. Treatment must be given to the affected part. It must be local and direct. It must be the right treatment, and the functions of the organ and the action of the medication must be mistably understood. Then the result is never in doubt for a minute, and the cure is as permanent as it is absolute.

Weakness

By varicocele we understand a twisted, hardened and knotted condition of the veins carrying the blood from the appendages. This is a very common complaint and is produced by various causes. It seldom causes any rapid decline, but undermines insidiously and weakens the sufferer in both mind and body. The stagnant blood in the affected veins seriously interrupts the blood supply of the organs, and often is the cause of reflex symptoms which are not easily recognized. The ordinary physician advises an operation for varicocele, and knows of no other treatment. The sufferer must pay a good deal besides the loss of time and the extra hospital bills. By my improved methods I use no knife, cause no pain nor loss of time from business. My treatment is scientific, thorough, permanent and never fails. It will pay every man suffering from Varicocele to investigate before considering other treatments.

Southpaw Burns Too Wild in Morning Game.

Old Reliable Gray Is There in the Second.

Bunny Goodwin Blows Up in Final Innings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Los Angeles won its last game of this season on the San Francisco grounds today but the Oaklanders took the morning affair in easy fashion and the two teams split even, not only on the day, but on the series. Dolly Gray was the stumbling stone at the afternoon game and although the Commuters secured a few scattered hits they had to content themselves with one run as against four for the Angels.

For six innings, Goodwin pitched swell ball for Van Haltren. After that, however, Los Angeles found him and made seven of their nine hits and all four of their runs in the last three innings.

Bigbie scored the single run that Oakland made in the fifth inning, when he doubled to center field and was scored by Goodwin. The rest was easy for the Berryites. In the seventh, with one out, Dillon walked, was sent to third on a long single by Cravath and scored by Brashear and his poke that just did elude the pitcher.

With that much for a starter, Los Angeles kept up the good work. Goodwin opened the eighth inning by walking Hogan, who went to second on a passed ball. Gray sent the runner along to third on a single through second and he was scored on the squeeze play by Carlisle. Three hits and two runs in the ninth wound up the game. Outside of the one inning in which Oakland scored, there was not much chance for the Commuters.

In the morning game, Oakland won 7 to 2. Wright held Los Angeles down safely, while Burns was wild and easy to hit. He was replaced by Hess, the new pitcher from the Texas League, but the damage had already been done and the switch made not a particle of difference. The scores:

PORTLAND WINS TWO.

PULLS OFF TRIPLE PLAY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the two final games of the baseball season on the home grounds, Portland achieved two sensational victories, winning the doubleheader by scores of 4 to 2 and 4 to 3. The first game went to twelve innings, the bright particular feature of which was the triple play in the eleventh by Johnson and Casey, who retired Piper, Wheeler and Irwin. By stipulation, the second game was limited to five innings and the locals also romped home winners in that game, chasing around four runs in the fourth.

Both games were sensational and the 5000 fans saw as good ball as is ever played. Melchoir made a great catch, pulling down a drive to the right field fence with his bare hand. To get it he had to stand up against the fence and reach way into the air for it. It was Casey's drive, as the first man up for Portland.

In the second game Groom made a three base hit in the fourth with two men on bases, bringing home two. Casey hit safely, scoring Groom. The scores:

RACE VERY CLOSE.

DETROIT STILL LEADS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Interest in all other branches of sport this week will be overshadowed by the race between the leading teams of the American baseball league for the pennant of 1907, and the honor of meeting the Chicago club of the National League for the world's championship early next next month. Detroit begins the week with eighty-seven games won and fifty-six lost, and Philadelphia with eighty-three games won and fifty-five lost a percentage of .608 for the former and .601 for the latter. Chicago is third in the race, with a very remote chance of catching the leaders, having a percentage of .589.

Harvard Baseball.

Harvard School probably will begin fall baseball practice this week. A good coach has been secured in Instructor Cutting, a graduate of the University of Chicago, and formerly a member of the Chicago Reserves nine. The first scrimmage work in football will be held today.

"FLUFFY RUFFLES," famous throughout the East, will make her appearance in Los Angeles on October 20.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

BURNS WILL FIGHT MOIR.

English Pug Agrees to Terms of Local Champ.

Tommy to Take Jimmy Across the Big Pond.

Big Offer for Jack Johnson Would Stop Them.

Tommy Burns, heavyweight champion fighter, has finally come to terms with Gunner Moir for a fight and expects to start for England within ten days in company with Jimmy Burns.

The fight is to be before the National Sporting Club in London in the latter part of November, probably on Thanksgiving Day. Burns is to get $5000 for his "bit;" $1000 for training expenses; will have a side bet of $2430, and a theatrical contract for ten weeks at $1000 per week.

Tommy may not even accept all these good things, for he states that if anytime this week some prize-fight promoter offers a purse of $25,000, $30,000 or $35,000 for a fight between himself and Jack Johnson, he will throw over Moir and fight Johnson, provided he is guaranteed $20,000 of a $25,000 purse, or a proportionate amount of any larger purse.

Tommy is still manager of Jimmy Burns, and will take him to England in hopes of getting on a good match with some of the lightweights there. Both pugs will leave this city this evening for San Francisco, and will stay there this week, waiting to hear the noise of a $25,000 purse for Burns and Johnson. If Tommy don't hear the sound this week, it's to England for him.

TWO MORE VICTIMS.

ENGLISH PUGS WAITING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two more English fighters have come to this country with the avowed intention of cleaning up the American fighters in their respective classes. They are Owen Moran and Pat O'Keefe. Moran is not unknown to followers of pugilism, for he came over once before and won the only two fights that he had. He defeated Monty Attell and Danny Dougherty, and now he says he says wants to meet Abe Attell.

Patsy O'Keefe is an unknown quantity over here. He is a welterweight, and holds the welterweight championship of Ireland. His object is to induce young Ketchell, Joe Thomas or Mike (Twin) Sullivan to fight him.

BILL WILL STAY.

IS WILLING TO LEARN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bill Squires gave out a remarkable statement at San Rafael today through Jimmy Russell, a friend from Australia, who has been with him through his two fights in America. Although he denied himself to all visitors and remained secluded except early in the forenoon, Boshter Bill was easily persuaded to make a statement. He has no intention of leaving for Australia, so he says, but will seek another fight and thinks he still should have a chance to make good. Here is the declaration:

"My immediate plans are unsettled. I will remain at San Rafael for two weeks, but do not expect to go to Australia. What I want is another fight. I am only 28 years old, and the same age as Fitzsimmons when he came to this country. I am still a young man and am willing to learn. I know that in many respects we are deficient in boxing but I feel that these things will come to me."

"The one thing that I cannot understand is the loss of my punch. I hit Sullivan hard enough in the early rounds of the fight to put him out, or at least I have put out men in Australia and I cannot understand the cause of it. I noticed it in my boxing with Denver Ed Martin a week before the fight and told Russel then that I was not hitting as hard as I had been.

"Some of the papers, I notice, say the body blows hurt me. That is not so. The short arm jolts and the uppercuts hurt me more than anything else and the body blows did not seem to hurt. I used up too much strength in the early part of the fight."

Squires has a bad lip and his eye is cut, but outside of that Russel says that the fighter is in fair condition, considering the punishment he received.

WIND HELPS BIRDS.

GOTTLIEB WINS HIGH AVERAGE.

OMAHA EXPERT BEATS LOCALS IN BLUE ROCK SHOOT.

Mills Finishes Second After Being in Lead for First Two Days—Bills Captures Most Money—High Scores Are Impossible Owing to Very Boisterous Winds.

In a gale that converted quartering birds into an assortment of angles that kept down scores until everybody was disgusted, the Western Gun Club's first bluerock tournament passed into history yesterday. Considering that it was the initial attempt of the organization, the shoot was a most enjoyable event for all concerned.

Throughout the entire programme there was but one thing to mar it. The weather Saturday was too windy for good scores, and yesterday was about the nastiest day that local gunners have had since the Pacific Coast championships were shot off in a driving sandstorm at Ocean Park several years ago. Fitful and gusty, the gale put innumerable kinks in the course of the birds, and filled the shooters's eyes with a fine dust that made accurate work impossible.

One by one the experts went down the line, but the crack Nebraskan, Chris Gottlieb, managed to pull general and professional high average out of the fire. The exception to the rule was J. Ed Vaughan, who was much to the bad the first two days, having trouble with his gun, as well as being sick, but yesterday he set them all a mark and regained his old form. Drilling out 91 per cent. under such conditions is wonderful shooting, and sufficed to put the local expert second in general average to Gottlieb, with a grand total of 526 out of the 600, for 87.6 per cent. Vaughan's 170 and 173 the first two days put him about twenty-five birds to the bad, and he choose the worst of days to make them up on, but yesterday led his nearest competitors, Gottlieb and Bills, by nine birds.

Fred Mills, who was thought certain to win high average with two days gone and an average of 92½ per cent., went to pieces yesterday. He dropped 23 birds on the day, falling to 14 in several events, and being unable to strike his gait. Nevertheless he made amateur high average, and also qualified for second high general average behind Gottlieb, with 537 for grand total, and 89½ per cent.

BILLS IN FORM.

Fred Bills of St. Louis, who has been shooting consistently throughout, was second to Mills among the amateurs, with 531 breaks and 88½ per cent. R. H. Arnold of Hueneme was third, breaking 525 and averaging 87½ per cent.

Third high professional average went to Emil Holling of San Francisco, with 87½ per cent. Bills scored third high in general average, as well as second in the amateur class.

These are not very flattering reports for the "pros" to send back to the factories, yet considering the conditions the shooting was excellent. It is impossible to tell how many birds were lost by bluerocks failing to break. After the firing the officers went over the grounds and picked up over 100 birds with one or more holes through them. One bluerock had been struck by no less than four shot, which had penetrated it cleanly, without breaking off a piece large enough to constitute the "thumb-nail" size required by the rules. This is likely to do trap shooting more harm than anything else. By one expert it is laid to the trap, which does not impart a very rapid rotation to the birds.

Vaughan, in one of his events, fired at a quartering target and lost it. Harry Hoyt said the bird was knocked completely out of the line of flight, and many others had the same experience.

Fred B. Mills has invented a new target which he believes will prove better than any in use. It is painted red and black, and after the average events yesterday, Mills furnished enough for a ten bird trial and the experts were much pleased with it.

There was plenty of money in sight yesterday and straights were worth good gold. They were not so plentiful as previously, and paid better than $10 as a rule. In several events sixteens were in the money, high scores being eighteen. Bills led in the money-getting with $60.10 to his credit when the day was done. Bungay, Marian, Julian, Mills and Lane were not far behind. Winnings were swelled materially by the big side pool of $50 added to the tenth event which paid with 18 high, $17.10, an unusually large value for that score which was made by Marian and Julian. Lane, Bungay and Bills with one bird less, received each $16.15, and Mills, 16, took $15.20.

One of the amusing features of the day was the "dog race," in which Treasurer Wood produced a pointer which some one decided to raffle off in the form of a shoot at twenty-five birds, $2.00 entrance and birds extra.

Bob Bungay of Ocean Park took a liking to the animal, which was a big pointer dog with a glaring yellow eye. The Ocean Parker got away badly by missing his first bird and was thought out of the hunt, but he came back with a run of twenty-four straight and led the dog home. Mills gave him a good run with 23; Lane, Gootleib and Heeling, scoring 22 each.

In all, the club trapped about 27,000 targets, and the shoot was in this regard somewhat better than had been expected.

The totals of the shooters who competed throughout in all the average events follow:

ANOTHER PURP SHOW.

Southwestern Kennel Club to Have Another Exhibit Early in the Coming Year.

The Southwestern Kennel Club has decided to hold another dog show in February or March in this city. Arrangements are to be made to conduct it on a big scale, and it will be sufficiently attractive to induce owners of high-class dogs to exhibit here. The show will be in the height of the tourist season, and will doubtless receive a number of entries from the easterners who come here in the winter. An eastern judge will award the prizes, and Fred Herr will have charge of the show.

REVOLVER PRACTICE.

I. C. Douglas Captures the Gold Medal and His Brother the Silver Trophy.

A dozen active members of the Los Angeles Revolver Club turned out yesterday on the Bishop-street range for the customary Sunday shoot and the tribe of Douglas carried away first and second honors. The work on the whole was very satisfactory. The scores were as follows:

I. C. Douglas, 86; A. B. Douglas, 82; W. E. Smith, 81; E. C. Crossman, 80; Mrs. G. F. Stephenson, 79; G. F. Stephenson, 79; J. E. Holcomb, 78; F. K. Haines, 75; C. W. Linder, 71; H. D. Thaxter, 64; W. R. Cutts, 64.

SANTA BARBARA LOSES.

QUEER TRICK PLAYED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Oscar Chavez's Santa Barbara baseball team went down to defeat, this afternoon, to the Weatherby-Kayser players of Los Angeles, the score being 9 to 7. The game was replete with errors, bad judgment and worse umpiring, the umpiring being the worst seen here this season. Withal it was exciting during the latter half and a slick trick that fooled the umpire lost Santa Barbara several runs. It happened in the eighth when Santa Barbara was at bat. Dalrymple followed Johnson, who had singled. Dal. hit a beautiful fly that went over the rear fence by a big margin. Johnson scored and Dal. also made the circuit. But, there came a hunt for the ball. The visitors disputed the home run and Umpire Bert Johnson of Ventura went down the line to investigate. Earlier in the game a dirty ball had been batted behind the line of tents erected for the coming of the Odd Fellows this week, and it was lost. The ball that flew over the fence was new and white. A shout went up from behind the tents, a ball, and a dirty one at that, was thrown to the umpire. He called it a two bagger, allowed Johnson's score but sent Dalrymple back to second. There was a scream of protest, but to no purpose. Rotten decisions were the rule throughout the game, and the fans ought to have been accustomed to it by the eighth inning.

New Hammer Record.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 29.—Matt McGrath, representing the New York Athletic Club, today broke the world's record for throwing the 16-pound hammer, held by Nicholson of Scotland, by hurling it 164 feet 3 inches. The former record was 164 feet. Ralph Rose also competed.

SORROW AT BEACH.

SANTA MONICA AGAIN LOSER.

Sommerville Scores a Half-Century at Bat.

Higgins Bowling in Classy and Effective Form.

Sun Sets on End of Local Cricketing Season.

The Los Angeles Cricket Club yesterday afternoon brought the last of this season's fixtures to a satisfactory close by a decisive victory of 161 runs, to the 76 scored by Santa Monica.

This match was most one-sided, as only five of the Beach City representatives took an active part, substitutes from the Los Angeles Cricket Club filling the places of the absent ones.

Sommerville played a magnificent innings of 52, which included three 5's, seven boundaries and some splendid drives to the off. His forward play and leg strokes were particularly clean and finished, elicitting much applause from the many persons present. Morris, as usual, played in great form, as did Higgins and Bamford. The fifth wicket was productive of 53 runs, while 43 were added before the sixth fell, after which a collapse set in, the remaining batsmen between them only adding 16 runs. Meggett obtained 4 wickets for 35 runs, Hunt running him a close second with 4 for 43 runs.

The match was greatly marred by the clouds of dust which were blown across the pitch at intervals throughout the play, making it most difficult for batsmen and fielders to locate the ball. With the total at 161, Hunt clean bowled Friend, which terminated the Los Angeles innings.

Santa Monica opened well, scoring the first 20 runs by means of several steals and a forcing game, but with the dismissal of Smith by Higgins, who had relieved Bhumgara, the balance of the team displayed mediocre form.

Pat Higgins sent down some particularly difficult balls, which dismissed six of his opponents at a cost of only 2.1 per wicket, a highly-creditable performance, when Hunt, Cochrane and Smith, all good bats, fell to his fast deliveries.

With half the side out, Santa Monica still required 132 runs to win, a feat which they found impossible, and when Tomkins and Bhumgara again assayed to bowl, wickets fell fast. The Parsee had the honor of getting the last wicket, which concluded the Southern California cricket season for 1907.

HARNESS HORSE SPORT.

Fine Programme of Matinee Events at Agricultural Park Draws Good Sized Crowd.

A classy card and a good-sized crowd were the features of the September matinée of the Los Angeles Driving Club at Agricultural Park Saturday afternoon. In the way of good time, Welcome Mac showed his class by beating out Dewey in a hot finish in the first race, and covering the mile in 2:09. The 2:40 trot furnished some exciting sport, the noticeable feature being the consistent work of Belle Mason. She won two heats out of four and in each heat was driven by a different man. In the second heat she was third, but was placed first because both Monk R. and Tony thought they were in a running race and galloped part of the distance and were set back. On the whole, it was one of the most successful matinées ever given by the club, and Secretary Stewart is deserving of praise for the excellence of the card.

W. A. Clark, Jr., Dr. William Dodge and Dr. W. J. Oliver acted as judges, and the timers were Elbert Defebach, F. A. Coffman and J. R. C. Burton. The results were as follows:

Pacing, 2:40 class:

Zoletta (Messmore)	1	1
Jim Hayes (Snowden)	2	5
Nutty (Holcomb)	3	4
Lady Selfton (Walker)	4	3
Irish (Watkins)	5	2
Villa V. (Stewart)	6	dr.

Time—2:28, 2:28 1-2.

Alice Mack (Young)	1	1
Anita (Lowe)	2	2
Barney Ted (Thomas)	3	3
Bonnie C. (Pierce)	4	4

Pacing, 2:30 class:

Silver Dick (Delorey)	1	1
Fresno Boy (Pounder)	2	2

Time 2:16½, 2:22¼.

Free-for-all pace:

Welcome Mac (Delorey)	1	1
Dewey (Ingraham)	2	2

Time 2:09, 2:14.

Belle Mason (Gaut)	3	1	3	1
Monk R. (Snowden)	2	2	1	2
Tony (St. Pierre)	1	3	2	3

Time, 2:35½, 2:30¼, 2:21¾, 2:29¾.

Pacing, 2:30 class:

Red (McClellan)	2	1	1
Gray Boss (Glasscock)	1	2	4
Billy W. (Nickerson)	3	3	2
Zela Z. (Dickson)	4	4	3

Time, 2:20¾, 2:24, 2:24.

In the 2:40 trot, Gaut drove Belle Mason the first heat, Pounder the second heat, Stewart the third heat, and Delorey the last heat.

S. M. JAMISON, 815 Crocker St.

Ex-Policeman S. M. Jamison says: "I have been bothered for a long time by a stoppage of my nose. First one side, and then the other, would stop up, and I was greatly annoyed, especially at night. A friend of mine told me of the splendid work being done at the Los Angeles Medical Institute and I determined to try these specialists, and I certainly have not been sorry. My nose is now clear and I have no trouble breathing, these doctors having removed a number of growths from my nose in a painless manner. I certainly can recommend any one in need of such service to go to the Los Angeles Medical Institute.

UNIVERSITY.

THE department of chemistry of the University of Southern California is established now in the building erected during the summer, just south of the Hall of History. This latest addition to the imposing group of college structures is 160x80 feet in dimensions and cost $6000. The several laboratories are thoroughly modern.

The laboratory for assaying and metallurgical investigations is equipped with ore crushers, ore grinders of several makes, amalgamating fans, etc., all driven by electricity. The furnaces are of the latest type, using gas for fuel. The equipment includes apparatus for concentration and amalgamation tests as well as a complete cyanide and chlorination plant. Special facilities are afforded for electrolytic processes.

The corps of instructors in the chemistry department has been augmented to meet the large increase in students. Mrs. Alice Graves, who studied at Stanford after graduating from the university, and who was instructor for two years at the Palo Alto institution, is first assistant to Prof. Stabler. Arthur Maas, M.A., a graduate of the U.S.C. School of Pharmacy, is another assistant.

The J.O.C. Bible class, an organization composed of college women, held its opening reception Friday afternoon in East Hall. An interesting programme was rendered.

Considerable interest is manifested in the proposed male glee club. Prof. Ainham Miller, who has consented to lead it, has received a large number of applications for membership. Rehearsals will begin in the near future.

Miss Robbins is organizing a similar club for women.

The College of Music will give its annual reception to the new students and friends on Friday evening. Dean Hinds has the affair in charge.

Mrs. C. B. Woodhead and daughters, the Misses Blanche, Florence, Laura and Helen Woodhead, have just returned from an extended tour of Japan, India, China, Egypt, the Holy Land and Greece.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Bowen of No. 233 Royal street entertained informally Thursday evening, in honor of their first wedding anniversary. Their home was tastefully decorated with vines and cotton. The marriage certificate, framed in cotton, was hung in a conspicuous place.

Dr. and Mrs. Willis E. Hutchason of No. 1027 Van Buren place, entertained Thursday evening, at dinner the members of the Elmore Club, to which the host and hostess belong.

EAST LOS ANGELES.

Sycamore Grove Park is beginning to show the effects of the careful attention it has received since it become a public pleasure ground. The flowers are in bloom and the rows of young palm trees have taken root.

The new park is pointed out with much pride by residents of the section and it is becoming one of the most popular of the city's breathing places.

Mrs. Emily J. Tedford, a wealthy property-owner of the East Side, died last Sunday at her home, No. 2647 Daywood avenue, after an illness of about two weeks' duration. The funeral services were held Tuesday, Rev. Mr. Hill officiating.

Mrs. Tedford owned real estate, to the value of $40,000 in East Los Angeles and large holdings elsewhere. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Charles Eichler, and three sons. Mrs. Eichler is under the terms of the will, appointed guardian of the minor children and executrix of the estate.

ESQUIMAU BORN.

FIRST WHITE BOY OF FAR KOTZEBUE HERE.

PAUL DANA THOMAS, the two-year-old son of Dana Thomas, superintendent of the Training School for Christian Workers at Huntington Park, and now here, has the distinction of being the first white male child born in the Kotzebue district of Alaska. Kotzebue is the most northerly of all the missionary districts. It is 400 miles north of Nome and 100 miles north of Candle Creek, the last of the outposts established by the intrepid gold seekers.

Little Paul was born at the Friends' mission on August 2, 1905. At that time his father was superintendent of the mission and also superintendent of the United States government reindeer farm in Kotzebue. At the time of the lad's birth his mother was the only white woman in the whole district, and, with the exception of his father, the only white men who ever visited the settlement were the hardy traders who came in from time to time for supplies.

When the mite of a white baby was first exhibited to the gaze of the natives he was the cause of much wonderment. He soon became a great favorite, however, and when he celebrated his first birthday anniversary he was the recipient of numberless presents, among them fifteen pair of Esquimau shoes made for him by his admirers.

Dana Thomas and his wife, Rev. Otha Thomas, went into the Kotzebue district as missionaries of the Friends, or Quaker church, five years ago. Mrs. Thomas is an ordained minister of the denomination, while her husband was for many years an evangelist and rescue worker. The couple lived in Los Angeles for several years and labored as evangelists and home missionaries in the local field before going to Alaska to convert the natives to the Quaker belief.

WIDE FIELD OF QUAKERS.

Alaska is divided into missionary districts and each recognized Christian sect is given its own territory to work in. That allotted to the Quakers is the Kotzebue, comprising some 2400 square miles. Within that district more than 1100 Esquimaux have already espoused Christianity and owe allegiance to the Quaker sect.

The Quaker Esquimaux are, according to Mr. Thomas, a healthy, moral, God-fearing people. Accustomed to hardships, they are vigorous and rapidly learn the ways of civilization.

"Missionary work has advanced rapidly since the suppression of the liquor traffic," said Mr. Thomas. "Drunkenness, the greatest curse which threatened them when first the white man entered their country, is now almost unknown. Contrary to general impression, the people are increasing rather than decreasing in numbers and are becoming a staunch, Christian folk.

"The introduction of the reindeer by the United States government has also been a great thing for the Esquimaux. Famines, which formerly pinched them and stunted their growth, are now becoming a thing of the past and their lives are made easier and happier. The reindeer herds furnish an unfailing supply of food, as well as a mode of locomotion.

"As yet there are not enough of the deer to make their use general as means of transportation, but they are increasing in number. As yet, however, dogs are generally used and this necessitates the tying of the reindeer teams some distance from habitations lest the ravenous canines tear them to pieces. The reindeer is undoubtedly the coming means of travel and in time the use of dogs will become a thing of the past.

"Dogs are a heavy drag on the owners during the winter months, as they require the same food as do their masters. Thus they deplete the meager food supply. The reindeer, on the contrary, subsist on moss and lichens which they forage for themselves and in emergency can be killed for food."

ESQUIMAU QUAKERESS.

When Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left Alaska last year they brought with them a Quaker Esquimau kiri who had formerly acted as interpreter at the Kotzebue mission. Aurora, as she is called, is taking a course at the Huntington Park school preparatory to returning to her native land as a missionary among her people.

In Alaska she rendered invaluable assistance in bringing the missionaries into close relationship with the Esquimaux and she hopes to do a great work among her people when she returns to them, a qualified Quaker teacher versed in the ways of modern civilization. She is quite the opposite to the popular idea of an Esquimau woman. Though her complexion is dark, she is lithe, trim of figure and distinctly attractive in face. Her charming manners have made her a great favorite with the church workers with whom she has been thrown in contact since coming here.

The local Quakers are arranging to send representatives of their church into all parts of the world. It is the object of the Training School for Christian Workers to prepare missionaries for the home and foreign fields and among the students now in attendance are a Russian, an Italian, a Mexican, an Indian and a Chinawoman. The Chinawoman, though a native of America, plans a return to the Flowery Kingdom as a missionary as soon as her course at the school is completed.

Paul Dana Thomas,
the first white boy born in Kotzebue District, Alaska, and Aurora, student missionary and former interpreter at Kotzebue mission. Both are now here.

KNOCKED DOWN AND ROBBED.

Tailor's Room Invaded by Three Men Who Treat Him Roughly—Skull May Be Fractured.

Bartholomew Baristeros, a tailor, who lives at the Hotel San Maritana, on Buena Vista street, was knocked down and robbed in his room by three unidentified white men about 7 o'clock last night. After severely injuring him, the robbers escaped with $22 and a bundle of clothing. Employés of the hotel profess ignorance of the affair.

The tailor appeared at Central Station covered with blood. He was sent to the Receiving Hospital, where it was found that the right side of his head was cut and lacerated, and that his skull may be fractured. He is being detained pending an investigation.

Baristeros told the police that he retired about 6 o'clock last night, as he felt ill. After he had been in bed a short time, he was awakened by a noise in his room. He saw three men, one of whom was taking money from the pocket of his trousers. When he sprang out of bed, one of the men knocked him down. While two of the robbers beat and kicked him, the third man searched the room.

The police say that Baristeros works for a local tailoring company and has a good reputation.

PLAN CAMPAIGN TO AVOID WAR.

THREATENED LEGAL FIGHT MAY BE AVOIDED.

Sunset Telephone Company and Pasadena City Council Trying to Reach an Agreement Over Poles and Lines—Mayor Earley Talks About Dispute Over Cluster Lights.

Office of The Times, No. 24 South Raymond ave.

PASADENA, Sept. 30.—Settlement of the controversy betwen the city and the Sunset Telephone Company seems in a way of friendly settlement. E. C. Bradley, vice-president and general manager of the company, has had another conference with Mayor Earley since the open meeting last Friday. The telephone manager seems disposed to go even a little further with the city than he suggested at the open meeting.

He then proposed to give the city a duct in the under-ground system and a cross-arm on all poles for the low-tension electric wires of the city plant. He has favorably entertained a suggestion to give the city two ducts, and to make an agreement that the city should have a perpetual right for the same privileges in all the under-ground and overhead wiring equipment now or to be erected in this city.

It is understood that the general trend of this discussion has been informally communicated to members of the Council and has been kindly received. Since the city has gone into the business of furnishing electricity, not only for street and public building lighting, but for domestic use, it will have constant use for such a privilege, and if the matter can be reduced to a legal contract there is small doubt that the suggestion of Mr. Bradley will be accepted.

These matters have not as yet been submitted to City Attorney Wood for his legal opinion, but if the matter can be adjusted it is likely that the fight betwen the city and the telephone company will end.

It is not yet known whether the pole tax of $2 annually on each pole will be dropped so far as the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies are concerned. Those of the Council who are giving the matter special thought frankly admit the difficulty of making a law which will exempt the telephone people and tax the telegraph companies. But under the circumstances the controversy may be considered ended, provided the suggestions of Manager Bradley can be reduced to a contract which would be binding on the telephone company.

As heretofore reported, Manager Bradley has offered to spend $30,000 during the coming year in improvements in Pasadena and to follow this by an appropriaton of $60,000 next year. At the informal conference he made this plan of the company plain. Under it he would equip the city with a service second to none in the country, and it is understood that the "silent" party 'phones would be installed.

These 'phones are in use in many eastern cities, and it makes a party line practically equal to a single circuit. The 'phone only rings when the number itself is wanted. This is accomplished by tuning the bell apparatus to different currents of electricity and also equipping them so that they give a "busy buzz" when a 'phone is opened and the line is in use.

To accept these propositions would mean that a long litigation would be avoided, as the company has given notice that it will fight the pole tax to the court of last resort. On the other hand the city authorities feel that they have a good case and if the Sunset does not seek a franchise or make some contract with the city the pole tax will be enacted, according to the present temper of the Councilmen.

CITY CLUSTER LIGHTS.

In explanation of the pending dispute concerning the payment for the cluster lights in the downtown district, Mayor Thomas Earley last night made the following statement:

"The condition of the cluster light dispute is that the Board of Trade has a contract with the Edison Electric Company, running until January 1, for the lighting of these lamps on the principal streets. The city agreed, with the Board of Trade, to pay for the lighting an amount equal to the cost of installing arc lights in the same area. This agreement was to hold until the municipal lighting plant was in operation. On July 4, when the city plant began its work, the Council determined to withdraw from the agreement. Since that time we have found that the poles for the arc lights have not been erected in the downtown district and that they are not likely to be soon, as it is expected to supply this district from the underground system. As a matter of fact, the city is not ready to light this area, and I think it should fulfill its agreement with the Board of Trade and pay its proportion of the expense.

"The Board of Trade is now figuring with the Edison people to have the lights and wiring in the downtown section turned over to the city, and I suppose that if the board is successful, we will undertake to supply the cluster lights, but it is doubtful if the Council will agree to pay for the time since July 4 last."

SNAPPY BASEBALL GAME.

By a score of 5 to 4 the Pasadena team defeated the Meeks bakery men in a well played and exciting game. The feature of the day was the playing of La Brandt, the new Pasadena catcher, and Parker, his pitcher. Parker struck out nineteen of the Meeks men and La Brandt played major league ball. His throwing to bases was fatal and his backstop work picturesque. The game was lost by the Meeks team through two costly errors. Rafting, at second, dropped a fly, and the shortstop, McGaud, made a wild throw over the second baseman's head. The game was in the nature of a try-out for the Meeks aggregation to know if they were fast enough for the Southern League and they "made good." This will make eight teams in the league, if the Hamburgers, who are also candidates, are accepted. The game today was satisfactorily umpired by F. A. Gray. While Hemus, the Meeks pitcher, struck out only five men, he did good work. The line-up yesterday was as follows:

Pasadena.		Meeks Bakery.
Wolf	r.f.	Trager
Campbell	c.f.	Burness
Wilson	ss.	McGaud
Wood	1b.	Reipting
McDonald	2b.	Rafting
Schmuck	2b.	Kline
Ritchie	l.f.	Cahill
La Brandt	c.	Pratt
Parker	p.	Hemus

Next Tuesday, Tipton, at present manager of the Pasadena team, will assume the presidency of the Southern California League and Dexter will be come manager for the local team.

PASADENA NEWS NOTES.

SOUTH PASADENA SALES.

SOUTH PASADENA, Sept. 29.—C. M. Andrews has sold to B. D. Furlow, through Washburn Bros., about four and one-half acres with frontage on both Mission street and Garfield avenue, improved with a good California house and bearing orange and lemon trees, with mixed fruits; reported consideration, $10,000 cash.

Mrs. Julia K. Campbell has sold to Miss Anita Brown, through Washburn Bros., an eight-room two-story house on the east side of Elm avenue with lot 100x385 feet, improved with trees and shrubbery; reported consideration, $5750.

B. D. Furlow has sold to Rev. Harry Wilson, through Washburn Bros., a seven-room house on the northwest corner of Center street and Palm avenue, with lot 100 feet frontage on Center street by 120 frontage on Palm avenue, well improved; consideration stated at about $5500.

J. G. Pierce has bought of A. J. Padan, through Washburn Bros., 100x180 feet on the west side of Garfield avenue near Mission street, unimproved; consideration reported, about $3000.

J. G. Pierce has sold to A. J. Padan, through Washburn Bros., 55x130 feet on Windsor Place, with six-room bungalow; stated consideration, $3600.

Mrs. Julia Kate Campbell has purchased of J. G. Pierce, through the same agency, 55x130 feet on the east side of Westmoreland Place, with modern five-room bungalow; reported consideration, about $3600.

B. D. Furlow has sold to C. M. Andrews, through the same agency, lot with seventy-five feet frontage on Prospect avenue and 322 feet on Magnolia street, giving a double frontage, unimproved; consideration reported, about $3500.

Real estate is very active. Yesterday's sales aggregate $19,600. Four and a half acres at the corner of Mission street and Garfield avenue were bought from C. M. Andrews by B. D. Fenton for $11,500. A lot at the corner of Prospect avenue and Magnolia street was sold for $3100, and Dr. Richards has sold his residence on Monterey for $5500.

Four building permits were issued today, representing a proposed expenditure of $5340. The aggregate cost of building for which permits have been issued thus far for September is a little over $40,000.

CANYON POSTOFFICE.

Petition Circulated for Station in the Topanga to Serve Mountain Ranchers.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 29.—The petition asking for the establishing of a postoffice in Topanga Cañon is in circulation and, as soon as two or three more names are secured, the document will be forwarded to Washington. The request is for the founding of a postal station in the mountains about ten miles from this city. The proposed site for the office is on what is known as the Harter ranch, where Garapite and Topanga Cañons converge.

Charles Greenleaf is suggested for postmaster. The new office is expected to prove of great convenience to a large number of settlers who make their homes in the mountains and are now supplied from Santa Monica. All of the ranchers near the head of Santa Ynez Cañon, as well as those making their homes in the vicinity of Calabasas peak, may receive their mail at the new office when it shall have been established.

BORING FOR OIL.

Six miles from the ocean, in the Santa Monica Mountains, the Santa Monica Gas and Oil Company is actively engaged in sinking its first oil well. It is located on the Ballard ranch, west of Calabasas, and the hole has already attained a depth of more than 600 feet. The derrick is one of the largest ones ever erected in the south, being 100 feet in height. Operations are being conducted by an expert from Pennsylvania and the contract under which he is working provides that the well shall go to a depth of 3000 feet, if necessary. Thus far the indications are encouraging. At a depth of 180 feet the drill passed through a stratum of oil sand. At the 580 foot level gold-bearing quartz was encountered. This assayed $550 to the ton. At 600 feet the drill has again encountered oil sand.

SEASHORE RUMBLINGS.

The singers of the Santa Monica Bay are to meet for rehearsal Monday evening, under the directorship of Mrs. C. H. Burritt. The rehearsal is to be held at the Art and Crafts gallery, Venice. The chorus is growing in membership and promises to be one of the permanent musical organizations of this part of the State.

The Santa Monica baseball team is getting so chesty after its long run of victories, that some of the boys said tonight they had no doubt they could beat the Chicagos—with a "fair" umpire. The home team will play the Thistles Sunday.

A large lot on Hollister avenue, close to Bristol pier, is offered at a sacrifice price, for cash. No agents; no commission. Owner, Address H, box 179, Times Office.

AZUSA.

AZUSA, Sept. 29.—At a meeting of the directors of the A.C.G. Fruit Exchange Friday evening, Dana C. King was selected as secretary and manager of the association to succeed P. C. Daniels. Mr. King has had seven years of experience in this line, having been with the A.C.G. exchange five years, and is at present secretary of the Covina Fruit Exchange.

O. J. Bemer, former Santa Fé station agent at this place, is making an extended eastern trip, including a visit to the Jamestown Exposition.

W. A. Sproul has let the contract for a six-room house, to be built on Tenth street.

Forest Ranger R. H. Hiett is building a cottage on San Gabriel avenue.

Librado Ortizer caught a boy stealing his melons and chased the lad with a revolver, for which offense he contributed $10 toward city expenses yesterday.

J. N. Baker is building a six-room concrete house on San Gabriel avenue.

Beds With Over a Thousand Springs for Thin-skinned Epicures to Woo Morpheus in—Twelve Carloads of Furniture for Beach Hotel—Christian Citizenship Meeting.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 29.—The Hotel Virginia, of the Maryland chain of hostelries, which will be opened January 7, 1908, will be furnished in as magnificent a style as any hotel in the United States, say Jean G. Drake and A. M. Goodhue, representatives of the hotel company, who have just returned from the East. There they visited the Marlborough Blenheim, at Atlantic City, the Auditorium Annex in Chicago, and the Astor Plaza in New York.

Fortified with new ideas, they made purchases of $70,000 worth of furniture, which will require a train of twelve cars to bring to California. Supplies for the entire hotel were purchased, save for the salon and the dining-room tables. Their purchases include a rosewood bedroom set for the bridal chamber, costing $500; bedroom sets for 220 rooms, in Circassian walnut, mahogany and silver finished birdseye maple; patent ventilated mattresses, containing 1200 springs each; for the lobby fifty-eight leather chairs, costing $40 each, six leather divans, sixteen rattan settees; for the ballroom, 150 gilt chairs in Vienna bentwood; 300 reed and hickory chairs for the balcony; 400 English walnut chairs for the dining-room, besides bed linen and costly carpets.

The bedroom furniture is in colonial and Sheraton styles, selected to suit the finishing of the rooms, in accordance with various historical periods. Kitchen furniture has already been purchased, and dining-room tables will be secured in Los Angeles. Five or six billiard tables remain to be ordered, and an elaborate set of furniture for the grand salon. The mission style of furniture was found to have lost its popularityin the East, and none of this was ordered.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS.

Two thousand persons attended the Christian Citizenship meeting at the Auditorium this afternoon, given under the auspices of the Young Peoples' societies. The theme discussed was "How to Maintain a High Moral Standard in Long Beach." Addresses on various phases were made by Dr. C. P. Doriand, Rev. Josiah Sibley and Rev. E. W. Thornton. Music was furnished by the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A. band.

LONG BEACH NOTES.

Complaint is being made by true fishermen, that snag hooks are being used to catch lobsters and that many under size are being caught and carried away, contrary to law. A deputy fish warden was in the city today investigating.

Fifty business and professional men of the city will lay aside their personal affairs and work all day hustling members for the Y.M.C.A. It is the association's "red letter day," and the high mark aimed for is 200 new members.

Because the sea air destroys the red paint and leaves the boxes dull and dirty, Fire Chief Shrewsbury is having all of the alarm boxes painted with aluminum.

Alfred Worden, living in Carroll Park, has on exhibition a blackberry bush one year old, which is bearing its second crop, producing berries 3½ inches in circumference.

Creditors of the California Construction Company have appointed a committee to take charge of the firm's business and make all collections. The assets, it is thought, will be much larger than at first supposed.

In order to obviate the necessity of traversing the city streets with oil wagons, the Union Oil Co. has asked the Trustees for permission to build a branch from its main line, from Ocean to Golden avenues, and down and along the beach to the pier supplying Hotel Virginia, the bath-houses and the Westminster company.

Thursday of this wek will be heard the quo warranto proceedings whereby Long Beach is compelled to show cause for her jurisdiction over East San Pedro and Terminal, an exercise which is opposed by the city of San Pedro, which alleges that the annexation election was illegal. Judge Ralph C. Harrison of San Francisco is special counsel for the city of Long Beach.

The slow progress made by the Salt Lake in lowering its tracks and paving between them on Ocean avenue is explained by the assertion that it is hard to secure laborers at this time of year, although increased wages have been offered.

CLAREMONT.

CLAREMONT, Sept. 29.—The City Trustees of Claremont have been invited to coöperate with the City Trustees of Pomona and Lordsburg in opening a road from Claremont, through North Pomona, to connect Lordsburg and San Dimas with this city. Lordsburg is desirous to have Central avenue in Claremont continued. This route is said to be an expensive one, as it would cut several valuable orange groves in two.

The consensus of opinion is strongly in favor of extending Harrison avenue. This is a part of the Foothill boulevard system, is already well graveled, and its extension would go on property lines where there would be little, if any expense. It is urged that it would also be more convenient for the college students, and the public generally.

Efforts are being made here to have the San Bernardino base line road north of Claremont put in excellent condition. A petition is being made up among the Claremont and Pomona property holders, which will be sent to the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties. The petition calls for grading, graveling and macadamizing.

OCEAN PARK.

OCEAN PARK, Sept. 29.—C. E. Meskimen, one of the best-known men of this city, has just received word of the death of his mother, Mrs. Susan Meskimen, at Lake Chautauqua, N. Y., aged 84 years. Mrs. Meskimen was the widow of John Meskimen, who at one time was one of the largest coal operators in Pennsylvania. Besides the son, Mrs. Meskimen leaves two daughters, Miss Laura E. and Mrs. R. J. Stackhouse of Philadelphia.

NEW EXHIBITS.

The Arts and Crafts gallery at Venice has been enlarged and a number of new exhibits have been installed. An especially fine exhibit of China has been entered by Mrs. Neeves of Pittsburgh. Miss Alice Arnold, a graduate of the Chicago Art Institution, has charge of the arts, designs and crafts.

WOULD RESTORE BRIDGE.

Needed Gateway for Automobiles May Be Replaced Not Far from Monrovia.

MONROVIA, Sept. 29.—The Monrovia Board of Trade has undertaken to raise sufficient funds to rebuild the bridge across the Santa Anita, on the foothill boulevard. The structure was burned three months ago, and the lack of a proper crossing for automobiles at this point will be a serious drawback during the coming winter season, when the Santa Anita usually carries a turbulent mountain stream, strewn with boulders. The bridge was built about ten years ago, at a cost of $3000. The city of Arcadia, within whose bounds the bridge was located, will be asked to contribute, with automobile associations, the city of Monrovia, County Supervisors and local capitalists.

FINDS STARVED DOG.

Forest Ranger Jesse Sevier brought down from Monrovia Cañon on Friday a valuable fox terrier, which he had picked up in one of the side cañons. The animal, which wore a costly collar, decorated with a Pasadena dog license, was in the last stages of starvation. Investigation located the dog as the property of a hardware company in Pasadena. It had been missing for over three weeks, and, judging from its condition, must have wandered in the mountains for the greater part of that time.

MONROVIA BRIEFS.

Messrs. Frank J. Cornes and Henry Morris retuened today from a three weeks' vacation spent with a fishing party on the waters of the Puget Sound.

Miss Ellyn Hill, formerly librarian of the Public Library of Cronston, R. I., has been appointed librarian of the Carnegie Library of this place. The board of library trustees is arranging to open the new library about January 1.

Prof. E. E. Knepper and his corps of High School teachers gave a reception last evening at the home of Miss Blanche Graham, on West Linnwood avenue, in honor of the teachers who have recently been employed in the High School, and of Prof. and Mrs. Robert Estep, whose marriage took place in the summer vacation.

Mrs. Alice Schreiber of the Monrovia High School and Mrs. L. U. Wiswall are promoting the organization of a club for studying music as it is touched by the various lines of general interest, including the lives of composers, history of music, and other kindred subjects. A number of pupils of the High School will be included in the list of members.

Roy Beardslee left this morning for Sturtevandt's Camp, where he will join a party of Los Angeles sportsmen returning from a trip to Chilleo.

The first rain clouds of the season gathered this afternoon around Monrovia and Wilson's peaks, and the mercury dropped 10 deg.

Dr. F. M. Pottenger will leave soon, for a three weeks' trip to points in Oregon, Washington and Idaho. In his stay in Idaho he will address the State Medical Society on the subject of tuberculosis.

Dr. H. G. Brownfield has let a contract to Fred F. Whitcomb for a modern nine-room residence, to be erected on Lime avenue.

POMONA.

POMONA, Sept. 29.—The funeral of Mrs. John Adam Gallup, who died at the home of her brother, Dr. J. K. Swindt, early yesterday, will be held from Pilgrim Congregational Church on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, President Gates of Pomona College, officiating. Mrs. Gallup was a member of the faculty of Olivet College, Olivet, Mich., before her marriage. She has been prominently identified with women's club work. The local Order of the Eastern Star will assume charge of the burial service at the cemetery.

This evening's service at the Christian church was in the nature of a farewell to Rev. Madison A. Hart, who will leave next week for Missouri, where he has accepted a call to one of the strongest Christian churches in that State.

S. W. Androus has sold ten acres of his orange grove on North San Antonio avenue to H. Rebuck for $12,000. Mr. Androus retains twenty acres.

The Shakespeare class will meet with Miss Winnie Smith, at her home on East Holt avenue, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. C. P. Dorland, class conductor, will be present from Long Beach.

Charles W. Manss and wife of Chicago have been visiting their relatives, John L. Means and family. Mr. Manss is industrial commissioner for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad.

Rev. George Ferris, father of Mrs. P. W. Kauffman, is visiting his daughter. He is here from Iowa.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Forrester entertained on Friday evening in honor of Miss Ada Blewett, Maurie DuBois and Opal Chain, who were graduated this year from the Nurses' Training School at the Pomona Valley Hospital.

DEATH ENDS SUFFERING.

COVINA, Sept. 29.—Death, due to cancer of the stomach, ended the sufferings of Charles Wallace, aged 75 years, this afternoon at his home on Dexter street. The deceased moved to this city several years ago from St. Catherine, Mo., where nearly all his life he was engaged in railroad contracting. He leaves a widow, a sister of Clarence Allison, a contractor of this place, and a daughter, wife of the Rev. Andrew McAllen. He was a prominent Mason and will be buried by that order.

TESTING SUBMARINES.

British Admiralty's Efforts to Destroy the New Naval Terrors.

A submarine boat is shortly to be sacrificed by the British Admiralty in a test of a new theory of successfully fighting off and destroying that type of naval craft. The theory is that the submarine can be rendered harmless by upsetting its equilibrium.

When the submarine was first introduced as a permanent factor in war fleets the naval authorities sought protection against it in the form of a spar torpedo—an explosive charge attached to the end of a long pole projecting over the bows of a destroyer. As soon as a submarine appeared on the surface, the destroyer was to steam up to the spot at full speed and explode the charge, either against the actual side of the submarine, or as near to it as possible.

Owing to the improvements in the diving arrangements of the new ships, however, it was found that the destroyer would very rarely have time to reach a spot sufficiently close to the submarine for the charge to do any damage, so the system was abandoned. Then Admiral Sir A. K. Wilson introduced a large steel net, in which the unseen boats were gathered up; but with the growth of the under-water vessel this, though successful at first, has also become useless.

The main idea of the experiments now about to be undertaken is that a submarine's equilibrium can be best upset by creating a considerable disturbance in the waters about her. A submarine of the early Holland type—the first built for the British service—will be placed at the disposal of the Vernon Torpedo School at Portsmouth, and submarine mines containing charges of gradually increasing magnitude will be exploded near the submarine, while the latter is in various positions—on the surface, awash and submerged.

The submarine will be the fourth vessel in recent years to be sacrificed in this way, the previous ships being the old Bellerophon, battleship; the Landrail, gunboat, and the Skate, destroyer. The Hero, battleship, will follow shortly.

Port Items.

Schooner Espada, Capt. Sarrina, 11 days from Gray's Harbor. Weather: Clear at 5 p.m.; wind southwest, velocity 16 miles.

The launch Music was laid up this afternoon because of a broken propeller.

The steamer Helene worked overtime today hoping to dispose of her cargo this evening, but the vessel cannot get away until tomorrow, as a portion of lumber still remains in the hold.

The schooner Lucy came in last evening from Umpqua River carrying a cargo of 325,000 feet of lumber for the Kerckhoff Lumber Company. The vessel had two new masts stepped at Coos Bay prior to loading cargo.

The schooner Compeer, from Columbia River, has a cargo of 350,000 feet of lumber on board for different wholesalers.

The schooner Rosamond, another windjammer to arrive this morning, carries nearly a million feet of lumber, the greater portion of which is consigned to the Blinn-Robinson Lumber Company.

The schooner Resolute, from Bellingham, carries a cargo of 750,000 feet of lumber, and was towed to her berth at the E. K. Wood Lumber Company's wharf.

The schooner R. W. Bartlett, from Gray's Harbor, anchored in the outer harbor early this morning and will be towed to her berth at the Southern Pacific Railroad wharf tomorrow. She has a cargo of 850,000 feet of lumber.

The schooner Espada, from Gray's Harbor, arrived outside today and awaits a berth at the Southern Pacific Railroad wharf. Her cargo, amounting to 886,000 feet of lumber, is consigned to lumber firms in Los Angeles.

The schooner Sadie came around the breakwater this evening and will be towed inside and berthed at the Kerckhoff-Cuzner wharf. Capt. Anderson, who has been in temporary charge of the vessel, will be replaced by her former commander, Capt. Johnson, who has been taking a few months' vacation.

The steamer Tiverton came in this morning from Port Bragg, bringing a full cargo for the Southern California Lumber Company.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other one medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

For more than 30 years has been curing Female Complaints, such as Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Failing and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and Organic Diseases, and it dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

DESTROYED.

BARELY SAVE THEIR LIVES.

FLAMES BURN NEW RESIDENCE AND MANY BOOKS.

After Years of Work Dr. Taylor Retires from Practice Only to Meet With Loss Hard to Repair—Narrow Escape by Mrs. Taylor from Fire. Seems Electric Line.

VENTURA, Sept. 29.—Fire destroyed the beautiful home of Dr. J. Taylor, for many years the Southern Pacific physician at Santa Barbara, and Mrs. Taylor barely escaped with her life yesterday. The loss is $10,000 and the insurance is $1500.

Dr. Taylor recently retired from practice to take a well earned rest, and built himself a comfortable home in the Ojai Valley to settle down. Here he brought his valuable library, his bric-a-brac and relics which he had collected during his life.

Last Friday Dr. Taylor started on a mountain trip to explore the country surrounding his new home, after he had seen that his family was safely housed. Saturday at an early hour the house was discovered to be on fire, and it was only by a miracle that everybody succeeded in escaping with their lives. Mrs. Taylor awoke surrounded by flames, and escaped without saving a thing.

When Dr. Taylor returned home it was only to find that his new house was a heap of ashes. It is unknown how the fire started.

FAVORS ELECTRIC ROAD.

The Nordhoff electric line boomers appear to be in earnest. F. M. Packard and Mr. Ramsey of Pittsburgh, were over the line of the proposed road a few days ago, and the latter, who is the chief moneyed man behind the proposition, expressed himself as believing an electric road to Nordhoff and Matilija would be a paying investment.

Mr. Ramsey has financed two electric roads in Colorado and is ready to go into any other with promise. The Nordhoff proposition includes the development of the cement rock deposit in the Matilija Cañon.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

An inquest was held here yesterday over the remains of young Earl Kinsman, the electrocuted lineman who had been employed by the Ventura County Power Company. Kinsman was killed by receiving a charge of 33,000 volts from a Kern River wire, which had short-circuited and had come in contact with a telephone wire. Deceased was a native of Iowa, 29 years of age, and single. The verdict returned was one of accidental death. The body has been shipped back to the old home in Iowa.

NEWS NOTES.

The Ojai Valley Oil Company has commenced to drill in the Lyon Cañon district. The first day the 14-inch hole was put down forty feet. There has always been evidences of oil in this cañon, but heretofore only shallow holes have been put down. The present attempt will be for a deep well.

Ventura has already commenced looking up since its overwhelming vote for a bond issue of $150,000 for municipal improvements. Many inquiries are coming in as to what sort of a place the center of the bean county is, and it is expected there will shortly be a boom.

SETTING THE PACE.

Ontario Will Soon Have a Network of Fine Roads Completed—News Notes.

ONTARIO, Sept. 29.—The improvements on East A street were completed this week. This street has been regraded and oiled from Euclid avenue to a mile and a half east of town, to the city limits. Similar improvements are proceeding on West A street, so that when these are finished, there will be nearly eight miles of good road from Pomona to the eastern limits of Ontario.

Similar work has been completed on all the streets on both sides of Euclid avenue, from A to G streets, and the work on most of the avenues parallel with Euclid is rapidly nearing completion, so that before the winter is well under way Ontario will have one of the finest systems of streets of any town in Southern California.

ONTARIO NOTES.

The local W.C.T.U. is doing its best to enforce the State law, compelling all children between the ages of 8 and 14 to attend school. Its members have had fair success so far, but the ladies complain that they don't receive sufficient support from the town authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Luley of St. Paul are the guests for the winter of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Seccombe.

A. P. Harwood and wife are home from an extended trip through the Eastern and Southern States.

A. D. Hagerman, agent for the Southern Pacific at this place, reports an increase of receipts for the past six months from business done by the company in this city, of $11,000. The increase has been both in regard to passenger and freight.

It is reported that the amount of lumber and other building material shipped into town the past few months breaks all local records.

COST WILL BE HEAVY.

But Good Roads Necessary for Up-to-Date County and Riverside Is Interested.

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 29.—An informal meeting of the members of the Highway Commission and taxpayers of Riverside who are interested in good roads, was held yesterday afternoon to discuss the proposed bond issue for a system of permanent highways. Commissioners R. B. Chase of Riverside, C. D. Hamilton of Banning, and W. L. Lyman of Corona, were present to report their preliminary investigation of the needs of the county in this line, and the probable cost.

Mr. Chase stated that in the opinion of the commission it would be necessary to build from 105 to 120 miles of road to properly cover the county. To build macadamized roads over this distance, figuring on a roadbed sixteen feet wide, would cost from $500,000 to $700,000. The proposed system would include a road from Banning through Pigeon Pass to join the Box Springs grade and roads to San Jacinto and Elsinore; also a road from Riverside to the county line toward Colton, and another from Riverside to the county line on the west. It would also include a road from Corona down through the cañon to the county line.

It was voted that a meeting of the taxpayers of Riverside city be called by Francis Cuttle, president of the Chamber of Commerce, to consider the subject of calling an election to vote bonds for the proposed good roads work.

MARRIES SISTER-IN-LAW.

Word has reached Riverside of the marriage of P. W. Stocksleger, one of the leading members of the local Grand Army Post, and Miss Sophia Spahr, of Ducannon, Pa. When Mr. Stocksleger went East a few weeks ago, to attend the National Grand Army encampment at Saratoga, not even his closest friends knew that it was at the call of Cupid. The bride is the sister of Mr. Stocksleger's deceased wife. The friendship, which began with sisterly letters of condolence, culminating in the marriage. The wedding took place at the bride's home in Ducannon. Mr. and Mrs. Stocksleger are visiting the Gettysburg battlefield and other historic places of interest on their wedding trip.

The telling of vacation experiences will be a feature of the initial meeting of the Woman's Club, which will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall Tuesday afternoon and which will mark the formal opening of the club season. Mrs. Charles H. Low will give a talk on the European trip from which she has just returned, Mrs. James Mills will tell of a trip to the Yosemite, Mrs. N. P. J. Button will describe her visit to Yellowstone Park and Mrs. E. J. Oatman will give glimpses of an eastern trip. The club year will be opened by the president's address, given by Mrs. G. D. Cunningham, recently elected.

CURIOUS ACCIDENT.

Milk Bowl in Creamery Bursts and Breaks Both Legs of Young Man.

CORONA, Sept. 29.—Jeff Clark, aged 25, had both legs broken above the ankles, the left a compound, the right a compound comminuted fracture, besides cuts, the result of an accident at the Los Angeles Creamery Company's skimming station at Prado this morning.

Clark was repairing the separator when the metal bowl burst, pieces of flying metal hitting his legs. He stopped the machinery and crawled outside the building where he was found and help summoned.

Three physicians worked several hours over him. He is in a critical condition from shock and injuries.

The damage to the machinery and building was slight.

ANVIL CHORUS KILLS.

Explosion During Celebration in Garden Grove Results in Death of Young Man.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 29.—Frank Adams of Garden Grove died this afternoon in the Santa Ana Hospital from injuries received at Garden Grove last night by being struck with pieces of a broken anvil, due to a powder explosion.

The Garden Grove school district held a bond election on Saturday, and as a result of the victory there was a celebration last evening, at which anvils were fired off. After several charges had ben exploded, a heavy charge was placed between the two anvils and ignited. It wrecked one of the anvils, and a piece of the metal flew through the air, striking Adams in the chest. Three ribs were broken and he received internal injuries. He was hurried to the Santa Ana Hospital, and received treatment, but suffered greatly until this afternoon, when death came to his relief.

Adams, who was 28 years of age, leaves a wife at Garden Grove.

HANOVER (N. H.) Sept. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All the members of the Dartmouth College baseball team of lastseason were yesterday suspended from further participation in athletics, for playing baseball during their vacation. Like many other collegians the Dartmouth boys joined semi-professional teams at the summer resorts and the Athletic Advisory Committee promptly placed them under the ban upon their return to college.

New Town of Corcoran.

Kings county, Cal., now on sale, surrounded by several hundred thousand acres highly productive land, proven unsurpassed for sugar beets, alfalfa, vineyards and fruit, in one of the best-watered sections of the State. One of the finest fireproof beet-sugar factories now being built there by Pacific Sugar Company. Right in the path of prosperity. Investigate now.

KILLS HIM BY MISTAKE.

Jealous Mexican Learns Too Late He Has Shot His Brother.

COLTON, Sept. 29.—Leandro Mormolijo was shot and instantly killed by his brother, Perfecto Mormolijo, this morning by mistake. Perfecto had been in town drinking heavily and at 2 o'clock he started for home. The brothers lived in adjoining houses in the Mexican settlement near the icing station east of this city.

Perfecto has been jealous of his wife for some time and had been keeping a close watch on her actions. Arriving at the settlement at 2:30 o'clock he saw a man, as he supposed, in his house. The man opened the door and as he did so Perfecto fired, only too late discovering that he had killed his brother, Leandro, in his own home. The shot entered one inch below the breast bone and glancing upward came out through the right shoulder.

The dead man was a Southern Pacific track walker and had always borne an excellent reputation. Constable A. Magill arrested Perfecto and placed him in jail shortly after the shooting occurred. He will be arraigned tomorrow. Coroner Van Wier will hold an inquest in the morning.

SOME PEACE.

FRANCHISE WAR TAKES A TURN.

OPPONENTS MAKE A TRUCE TO JOIN FORCES.

Restore Streets to Normal Conditions, but Another Injunction Mixes Things Up — Mexican Supreme Court Gives Officer One More Chance—Fortune for Pittance.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 29.—The latest developments in the trolley franchise war is an agreement between the presidents of the Babcock and Webster companies to restore the streets to normal condition where excavations had been made when injunction proceedings were commenced.

The court has also issued an injunction to prevent Webster from building in B street his pleasure pier, the application being by George E. Gicker, who holds that Webster has no franchise because the action of the harbor commissioners in granting it has not been ratified by the Council. Gicker operates boats and launches along the bay, adjacent to the proposed pier.

ANOTHER CHANCE.

The Federal Supreme Court of Mexico has granted Francisco Crosthwaite a new trial. Crosthwaite has been in jail for a year for aiding Marshal Brook, a San Diego cattle thief, to escape when he was surrounded by Mexican officers who were seeking his arrest upon extradition papers issued by the Governor of California.

Brooke, in company with E. B. Hall, a Santa Fé telegraph operator, and Bessie Hall, escaped from the County Jail, after sand-bagging the jailer. Neither of the trio were ever captured, although for several months they were in hiding in Lower California.

At a recent auction sale of uncalled for goods shipped here by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, I. I. Alumbaugh bought for $1.35 a box for the contents of which he has since been offered more than $1500. In one of two safes he found a number of rare coins. Some Egyptian are of hundreds of years ago. Rare American coins were also found. Alumbaugh has been offered $1200 for five of the coins.

D. L. Marrs, while going over a garbage dump yesterday discovered a deed in which lot J, block 47, Horton's addition, was conveyed by Father A. E. Horton to C. W. Lewis for a consideration of $200; also a deed between the same parties for lot K, in the same block, for the same price. Both are dated in 1869. The property forms half the site of the public library and is now among the choicest realty in the city.

SAN DIEGO NOTES.

After further investigation, D. Rabinovitz, the millionaire manufacturer of Marietta, O., announces that he has decided to move his entire plant here from Marietta, requiring about thirty acres of land and an initial investment of $500,000. The Marietta plant is employing about 200 men.

The Western Motor Company has filed articles of incorporation with a capitalization of $200,000. The directors are C. L. Brimhall, W. H. Hunt, C. E. Hunt, I. C. Brimhall, Fred O'Farrell. The company will manufacture engines, automobiles, motor cars, etc., at National City.

Lyman J. Gage, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, Secretary of the Treasury under President McKinley, whose home is at Point Loma, left yesterday for Denver, Chicago and New York. He expects to spend a portion of the winter in Florida.

GOVERNMENT REPORT ON RICH OIL DISTRICT.

Santa Maria Field Officially Described as One of the Greatest in California—Output Over Million Barrels a Month—Product of One Well Over Two Million Barrels.

The United States Geological Survey has issued a "preliminary report on the Santa Maria oil district, Santa Barbara county," that shows the little known northern field as one of the leading oil districts of California. The report is the result of an investigation of the field by Ralph Arnold and Robert Anderson of the survey staff. Much successful development has been made since the material for the report was gathered twelve months ago, and it has verified the opinions of the survey men, arrived at when the field was in a lesser state of development.

With less than 150 wells, the output of the field is reaching over 1,000,000 barrels monthly. The report deals in detail with the topography and geology of the district and is illustrated with geologic and structural maps. It says in part:

"The developed fields lie in the low rolling hills between the Santa Maria and Lompoc valleys and the wells are known to obtain their oil from the Monterey shale, which underlies this region. The lightness of the oil, which averages from 25 to 27 degrees Baume, and the productiveness of the wells, which yield an average of 300 to 400 barrels a day each and sometimes as high as 2000 barrels a day, are among the things for which the district has become noted.

"Four fairly well defined oil-bearing zones are believed to be recognizable in the Santa Maria field. Of these, two are found in practically every part of the field, although all vary more or less in thickness, composition, and yield from well to well."

The secret of the enormous productivity of the wells in the Santa Maria field is in the thickness of the oil shale or sand; this oil-containing formation ranges from 500 to 1000 feet in thickness, or several times the thickness of similar formation in other well known fields, and as the oil is light in gravity, the shale or sand is more thoroughly saturated than in fields where the product is of heavy gravity.

The greatest producer in the California field, according to the report, is Hartnell No. 1, of the Union Oil Company. It started to flow over its derrick through 8¼-inch casing and between this and 10-inch casing in December, 1904. The gas pressure was estimated at 400 pounds per square inch. The oil was measured in an open ditch by use of a miner's inch measuring box, showing 12,000 barrels a day. The flow continued for sixty days and then weakened, although it merely dropped down to a little over 2000 barrels a day. Up to August 15, 1906 the total production for this well was something over 2,000,000 barrels. The gas accompanying the initial flow of oil was estimated at 4,000,000 cubic feet a day. Later, it furnished gas for running twenty boilers for well-drilling rigs and supplied the neighboring town of Orcutt with gas for domestic purposes.

Notes of the Field.

The Central Union Oil Company of California will soon start drilling on its 160-acre tract in the Santa Maria field. The derrick and rig lumber is already on the ground, and the machinery, casing, etc., is en route. The Central Union land adjoins the Brookshire and is a little north of the Union and Pinal holdings. This part of the field is the object of great interest now, because of the successful development and the new work under way.

About 1200 feet south of the Central Union land the Union Oil Company has just added another producer to its northerly line of wells. The new well is considered one of the finest in the entire district, being credited with an output in excess of 2500 barrels daily.

The Harp Oil Company has entered the oil sand on its forty-acre tract a little east of the northern portion of the Central Union ground and the oil found is said to be around 35 deg. gravity, the highest grade yet secured in the field.

The Santa Maria Central Oil Company, adjoining the Central Union on its lower eastern portion, is down nearly 400 feet in the 3x3 shaft it is sinking to the 500-foot level in lieu of drilling for that depth. At 500 feet it is intended to commence drilling.

The Laguna, just south of the Santa Maria Central, is down 1000 feet.

All of the producing companies are running strings of tools, and it is reported that the Brookshire is about to augment its new work by putting a couple of strings in the strip of land adjoining the Central Union on the south, and the Union on the north.

The Union Oil Company contemplates increasing its facilities for piping Santa Maria oil to tidewater by putting in a new 10-inch line.

AMERICAN GEM DEPOSITS.

Searching Limestone Deposits Near Franklin, N. C., for Rubies.

The discovery in the Cowee Valley, near Franklin, N. C., last October, of what are claimed by Prof. W. E. Hidden and other mineralogists to be white chalky limestone pockets containing crystals, was considered most important, but owing to the season nothing could be done toward working the mine until this spring. Work has now been begun, and a quantity of crystals, it is expected, will be found soon. Several of the deposits, said to be similar to the limestone caves in which the Burma rubies are found, have been located and work is now being pushed to unearth the gems.

The extent and size of the pockets have not yet been definitely determined, though it is believed all are within the 2500 acres of the valley, which is owned by the company and which will be subject to its operations. The color of the stones so far mined is good, but there is no way as yet of telling what the proportion of fine gems will be, or, in fact, what the quantity of gem stones here will amount to.

The property consists of 2500 acres along a fork of the Cowee Creek, a branch of the Little Tennessee River, and the contour of the valley is said to resemble closely the valley of the rich Burma mine in India.

Eleven years ago residents of the Cowee Valley first discovered pieces of red corundum on the surface, and shortly after that experts from this country and Europe began systematic search for the real gems. Since then operations have been going on continuously. A few weeks ago Norton E. Isbell of the Freiberg School of Mines, in Saxony, unearthed what is said to be the matrix of the rubies.

Operations are to be pushed by the company on a liberal scale, but it may be two years before gems are produced and sold in any quantities.

TRUTH FOR MEN

A Straightforward Talk

Never mind what your SYMPTOMS are, if you are in trouble the thing to ask yourself is this:

AM I A PERFECT MAN? If you are not Why do you not seek help? How long would it take you to get to my office if you had lacerated your leg getting off a street car? NOT TEN MINUTES. But when you feel INFINITELY MORE IMPORTANT DRAINS going on you hesitate. That is not wisdom. It simply means the "Road to Ruin." You should remember that the time may come when there is practically no foundation on which I CAN REBUILD YOUR VIM AND VIGOR.

I treat every case privately. I furnish all medicines free. I have every appliance that could possibly be necessary to cure men. A small amount, wholly within your means, clearly understood in the beginning, is my fee. I charge nothing for consultation.

Weak Men!

Let Me Guide You on Your Way to Regain Your Health and Renew Your Strength

Do you feel that you are not the man you once were? Do you feel tired in the mornings and easily exhausted? Is your back weak? Is your memory failing? Do you have difficulty in fixing your thoughts? Are you losing ambition? If you have any or all of the above symptoms, you surely do not desire to remain so. Let me explain to you my methods of rebuilding the vigor of men, and refer you to the thousands I have cured. I guarantee to cure all the Special Diseases of Men, such as Varicocele, Hydrocele, Drains, Discharges, Blood Diseases and Nervous Debility.

Get Cured Now

It is not a question of whether you can be cured, but whether you will be cured. Don't wait until it is too late. The cure is absolutely certain. I cause no pain, and you need not be detained from your work for one day. I especially solicit those cases in which the many so-called treatments have failed, or where money has been wasted in museum doctors, electric belts and other appliances.

Examination Free

I not only offer Free Consultation and Advice, but to every case that comes to me I will make a careful examination and diagnosis without charge. No willing man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about his trouble. If you cannot call, write for Diagnosis Chart. My offices are open all day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Sundays from 9 to 12.

The Real Value

If you have headache or neuralgia you want relief; want it quick. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills stop the pain in just a few minutes. But their real value lies in the fact that they leave no bad after effects. They do not create nausea or derange the stomach. Nothing can therefore take the place of Anti-Pain Pills for the relief of headache or other pain.

"Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills do all that is claimed for them in curing headache and neuralgia. I was in Washington and I had a fearful headache; the gentleman of the house said, 'Take one of my wife's Pain Pills,' and I did, and in less than one-half hour I felt as well as ever. I asked the name of these and he said Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I purchased a box, and told my family I had found a great panacea—something to cure headache. My three daughters also need them. A thousand thanks for such a remedy."

THE CITY IN BRIEF

BREVITIES.

Deep Bite by Dog.

As C. G. Hood was passing in front of a house at No. 934 Buena Vista street last night a vicious dog ran out of a near-by yard and attacked him. Hood sustained a deep wound in his left arm, where the dog bit him. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

Packages.

T. Martinez was arrested early yesterday morning on North Main street on suspicion. During the night Martinez was seen on the street several times carrying packages under his coat. When arrested he had a dozen phonograph records. The police believe Martinez stole them, and are investigating.

Los Angeles Student Missing.

An Associated Press dispatch from Stanford University says that considerable anxiety is felt over the unexplained absence of C. J. Silent of Los Angeles, a graduate student in the law department, aged 21. One week ago last Friday Silent left the university to visit relatives in San José. Since that time nothing has been heard of him.

Traced Here.

William O. Reeves, 32 years old, wanted in San Francisco on the charge of embezzling $2000, has been traced to Los Angeles by private detectives. Officers assert his friends here are shielding him. Police detectives have been asked to assist in the search. Reeves is alleged to have embezzled the funds from a mercantile company in San Francisco where he was employed as cashier.

Slugged Near Home.

Frank Duarty of No. 429 Towne avenue was slugged with a "black-jack" about 10 o'clock Saturday night within a few steps of his home. The approach of two men frightened off his assailant, who, he believes, intended to rob him. Duarty sustained a scalp wound, which was dressed at the Receiving Hospital yesterday morning. Duarty says the man who assaulted him followed him for several blocks.

Glass-cutting Burglar.

With a diamond glass cutter, a burglar entered two residences Saturday night and secured considerable loot. In booth cases an upper corner of the glass was removed. The latch was unlocked and the window raised. R. M. Robertson, No. 1253 Trenton avenue, reported his loss as a watch, silverware and $18. D. R. Back, No. 1145 Burlington avenue, is minus a suit of clothes and $50 worth of jewelry.

Close of Jewish Festival.

Services to be held today and tomorrow in B'nai B'rith hall mark the close of the Jewish festival. Memorial prayers will be held this morning at 9:15 o'clock, followed by an address by Rabbi Myers on the subject, "Is Life Worth Living?" At 7:30 o'clock this evening, there will be a service, "The Rejoicing of the Law," given by young boys of Sinai congregation. Rabbi Myers will speak on "Our Debts of Gratitude." A service will be held at 9:15 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Has Stepson Locked Up.

Declaring that he could not control him, J. H. Rowell took his eleven-year-old stepson, Harry Campbell, to Central Police Station last night and asked that the boy be locked up on a charge of petty larceny. The lad was sent to the Detention Home, but the officers are not thoroughly satisfied that he is greatly to blame. Campbell's mother is at the County Hospital in a critical condition. The officers say the boy has been allowed to loiter about the streets, and that neighbors declare he is not well treated at his home, No. 213 Banning street. The father's charge is that the boy stole a wrench.

All Mail to Be Weighed.

Beginning tomorrow, all mail received at the main postoffice and the stations will be weighed according to its class. This will be done the entire month, and an accurate report will be forwarded to Washington. For a week, beginning October 12, the postmaster will be required to keep an account of the revenue received from the different classes of mail, and the number of pieces handled during the period. These reports must be accurate in every detail. In order to make the compilation, it will be necessary for all dispatches from the main office, station C and the Arcade station, to be made about ten minutes in advance of the present schedule.

BISHOP PRESIDES AT SERVICE OF ORDINATION.

At First Methodist Church Nine Young Men Receive Holy Orders. Ceremony of Laying on of Hands Impressive—Sermon on Christ's Love for the Poor.

Five young men were ordained as elders and four as deacons, yesterday afternoon, at the service conducted by Bishop Neely at the First Methodist Church.

The elders are Revs. Tully C. Knoles, William L. Summers, Ole M. Olson, Gilbert W. Denniston and Ascension G. Lerma. The deacons are Revs. George E. Twombly, Charles W. Roberts, F. W. Lusk and Oliver G. Laizure.

The deacons received their instructions first and were required to answer a list of questions.

In the ordination of the elders those who participated in the rite of the laying on of hands were Presiding Elders S. A. Thompson, H. W. Peck, A. W. Adkinson, John L. Pitner and Revs. E. A. Healy, F. D. Mather, B. C. Corey and Will A. Knighten. Upon each candidate the bishop bestowed a special benediction. Later he made a brief address.

The sermon was preached by Rev. W. W. Cookman. In the course of it he said:

"In studying the life of Christ one is astonished at the wonderful answers He gave to questions propounded to Him. Even when a man came with a carping, quarrelsome question he was answered. A man desired to know how many are to be saved. Christ said: 'Strive to enter in at the straight gate.' The lawyer He answered with a question. But when John the Baptist sent messengers to see whether He was the Messiah, He answered in such a way that John must have had no doubt about it.

"The gospel of Jesus Christ is unlike all other religions in that it is adapted to the poor. In Christ's day the rich had all the doctors, all the lawyers, all the professors, all the learning. There was no provision made for the poor. Even the schools were for the rich only. There is not a religion on earth that makes provision for the poor except the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ. The Master committed His truths to fishermen.

"At the very beginning of His ministry Jesus stood in the temple and read from the scriptures: 'The spirit of the Lord is upon me to preach the gospel to the poor.' Christianity is especially adapted to the poor man.

"The pulpit has no time to argue with a Huxley, a Tyndall, or a Spencer while men are perishing. We hear a great deal today about the new theology, and whether there is to be a second probation. What should be of primary importance to us is the present probation.

"He who brought the gospel to men was himself poor. It would have been a condescension for Christ to become the son of a king, but He passed by the dwelling of the rich and sought for His entrance into the world a stable. He came to raise humanity to a higher level.

"Since Christ came what mighty combinations of capital have ruled this world. But who remembers the men who controlled empires and kings? They are forgotten, but the poor Galilean carpenter is remembered throughout the world for his life of love and purity.

"Brothers, the gospel of Jesus Christ ennobles manhood, exalts character, and if men would only obey its precepts, it would drive every dramshop from our land.

Civilization needs Christ. The great unrest can only be quieted by the Prince of Peace. We want a more powerful proclamation of the gospel."

Ante-Wedding Duties

Include the placing of an order for a frock suit at least two weeks before the "Happy event" happens.

Your duty to yourself and your duty to your friends who want you to look your best when you are wedded to that "Best Girl in the World" ought to urge you to place that Frock Suit order with Brauer & Krohn.

That's because a Brauer & Krohn Frock Suit ought to place you in the "lime light" of the wedding day, in a sartorial position which will be beyond criticism.

Brauer & Krohn Frock Suit—made-to-measure—$45, $55, and $70.

Home Telephone Bond Holders

Are particularly fortunate, as $1,000,000 in extensions is being added to their already liberal security. A $1000 FIRST MORTGAGE BOND is better than a real estate mortgage, for the entire community is its security. Interest yield will conform to present rates for fully secured loans—and adding profit within a year will make your return very large—and no risk. For particulars and prices apply
